C P R Changes.

The C P R seldom takes the public into its confidence in advance. This is a rule of all big corporations, and from their own standpoint it is a rather good one. It does not take one gifted with the instinct of a Sherlock Holmes, however, to scent the possibility,—yea even the imminent probability, of some rather important doings on the part of the big railway in this section. To begin, it is true that surveys are now being made between Woodstock and Hartland, having in view the location of one of those dead level routes that stared the G T P surveyors in the face. It is well-known that the present line between here and the lively up-river town is somewhat akin to the passage Napoleon took when he crossed the Alps, and the railway people are dead anxious to avoid the hills and curves, not to mention the other difficulties. The proposed route seems to be pretty close to the river, which when adopted, will result in the moving of Newburg Junction at least a couple of miles nearer town, if not doing away with it altogether, for there is a persistent rumor that the C P R after all has made up its mind to erect a fine new depot in Woodstock, on the site of the old station in Wellington Ward, equip it with dining room and office accommodation, and thereby get rid of two of the three stops now necessary from Lower Station to Newburg inclusive. Here's hoping the Company will come up handsomely. Despite all the fulminations of the Board of Trade and some of the local newspapers, the citizens of Woodstock are not all up in arms against Sir Thomas and his railway. Good luck to them, and the more of it the better they serve us.

Visit to Broadway School.

Acting Chairman Belyea headed a delegation from the School Board Monday morning on a visit to the Broadway School.

The pupils were seemingly keenly alive to the educational advantages offered, and the attendance was quite up to the average. The main matter was an examination as to the proficiency attained in the fire drill. At a signal, of which no previous warning had been given, the whole six departments, including the Sloyd room, were vacated in less than a minute, proving beyond peradventure that in so far as the Broadway School at least is concerned, there can be no shadow of excuse for fear from fire. Mr Belyea addressed one or two of the departments, expressing pleasure at what he had seen and heard while making the inspection.

Some Changes.

W B Belyea, the shoe man, finds business growing so fast that larger quarters are an imperative necessity. He has therefore rented the offices now occupied just over his store by Charles Comben, and after May 1st will utilize them as an addition to his place of business. A W Brown of Connell Street is converting his gold storage building into a residence, which he will occupy after May 1st, having leased his present home to Fred Risteen. A D Holyoke has rented part of the Tupper House and will move in May 1st. Alexander Henderson is going ahead with the converting of his factory into three tenements. Houses are yet scarce, and if twenty were suddenly placed in the market, all would be rented before sundown.

Get Ready.

The wisdom of the two parties getting their candidates in the field early in this county is already apparent. The other counties should begin fall in line. Charlotte, it seems to us, might well afford to set the ball to rolling. It is none too early to have even a federal candidate in the running in any constituency where the seat is now held by the other party. The Liberals of Carleton County took a year's start prior to the last federal contest, and results proved they made no mistake. Other places should tear a leaf out of our book.

W A Quinton to Run.

Wm A Quinton, at present steward of the Asylum, and formerly member for the County of St John, announces himself a candidate in the next election for his old seat in the Assembly. It is believed that Mr Lowell, one of the present members, will retire,—possibly to go to the West.

For Grand Master.

A prominent Carleton County Orangeman in town this week told the SENTINEL the brethren in this county are quite anxious to see the present Grand Chaplain, the Rev R G Fulton, succeed His Worship Mayor McLeod of Fredericton as Grand Master, the latter having been honored with the customary second term last year. It is said the feeling seems pretty general that this course will be taken. Grand Lodge meets next month in Newcastle. So far no other name has been prominently mentioned in connection with the position.

An Opposition Jonah.

The Albert County Conservatives have selected W B Jonah and a gentleman named Dixon to contest the county against Speaker Osman and Sanford Ryan. A while ago it was rumored they wanted a "saw-off," but there are not to be any snaps in the coming fight, so the opposition may just as well make up its mind that what the Liberals have they intend to hold.
