In answer to of $30,000, and that they could not this I may state in the first place utilize a second mortgage bond issue. If the government would guarantee this amount they said they were willing to begin the work at once.

Discussing this position, the minister said he thought that the government should stand by its original guarantee of a fifteen thousanddollar-a-mile bond issue and believed that the company could raise the other $15,000 themselves on bonds secured equally with the guaranteed The assistance, with some aid from the Dominion government, in the matter of paying the interest for the first few years after construction, he better position than ever to help this province his very best efforts. The electors of Queens-Sunbury could insure success of a project so important to their welfare by the election of Colonel McLean as a supporter of the government.

THE CALL OF LIBERALISM.

Dr Pugsley then gave a graphic description of the magnificent reception in Mr Fielding's honor which he had recently attended in Halifax, and, proceeding to the discussion of the Liberal government policy for the carriage of all Canadian traffic through Canadian channels, he pointed out that his appointment as Minister of Public Works placed him in a position to do much work for the attainment of this idea. He hoped to be be able to do a great deal for the province of New Brunswick and for the development of the city of St John in the welfare of which the whole province and particularly the St John Valley was intimately concerned.

against him on the ground that he was formerly a Conservative, Dr Pugsley said that he left the Conser-1896, being forced to take issue with his party on account of their injustice to Canadian ports. "But," he said, "if I had not joined the Liberals then having in mind the grand and patriotic Liberal leader Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, whether at home or abroad, whether in the Canadian parliament or in conference with statesmen of the Empire, always so conducted himself as to win universal admiration and universal recognition of the fact that he could always be depended upon to do the right thing at the right time, having this in mind and the splendid work done by the Liberal party since it came into power-if I had not become a Liberal then, I should become one now and join with them in making Canada a great and prosperous

regarding political purity had arous | acre. ed throughout Canada, the minister said that all would agree with him regarding the desirability of conducting elections free from corrupt and illegal practices. He was forced the electorate that it he was in to admit that elections had not been power he would appoint a commisproperly conducted in the past and that both parties had been guilty. He greatly deplored this, but even more than political corruption, would be condemn hypocrisy of any, public man who, being guilty of electoral corruption, would claim for his own party all the virtues and impute to his opponents all the vices. At the outset of his political tour, Mr Borden had whined that he had been defeated in Halifax because the Liberals had spent money. He claimed that there and elsewhere the Liberals had been corrupt and the Conservatives pure. In other speeches Mr Borden had repeated this similar statement and on a platform in Ontario a supporter of his had in Mr Borden's presence denounced the present government as wholesale and retail electoral friends.

I felt, said the minister, "that the time had come when this hypocritical assumption should be exposed, that those who were in possession of information to show the hypocrisy of Mr Borden's contention should tell what they knew. In the speech at Fairville I mentioned that in one inner circle in Montreal of Mr Borden's personal friends and political organizers a fund of $500,000 had been raised for corrupt purposes and that of this amount the sum of $25,000 had been spent in one New Brunswick constituency alone to secure the election of a Tory candidate, a candidate who was one of Mr Borden's principal lieutenants. My speech caused a storm. While Mr Borden himself has been discreetly silent in the matter, many newspapers supporting him have demand. ed that I give names and dates to support my charges. Mr Kemp, M P., in a recent speech in Toronto. though he did not deny the charge complained, because I, as attorney Manzer's Store.

Here are two which may serve to further enlighten that gentleman:

I of this sum $5,000 was sent into the constituency by telegram on the 24th day of October, 1904, and $20,000 on the 20th day of October, 1904, and that both of these amounts were wired to the legal partner of the candidate who was contesting that constituency in the Conservative interest. If I should be asked again why I did not prosecute, let me say that these facts were only disclosed a few weeks ago in certain legal proceedings under which the books of a certain bank in Montreal came under

It seems to me that none can complain that this language is not plain enough."

The minister, continuing, said that he noticed that S D Scott had sent broadcast from Ottawa what he would like to call another western land scandal. Dr Pugsley briefly explained the facts telling of an agreement made with the federal government in 1889 concerning the land of the Long Lake. Qu' Appelle and Saskatchewan Railway, now part of Canadian Northern system, by which the government had a lien on the land. Under the agreement for disposing of this land, to which Hon W S Fielding is giving his consent, the government has three times as good a guarantee as the Conser-Turning to the discussion which vative government thought neceshis remarks at previous meetings sary, namely $5 instead of $1.50 an

> Dr Pugsley spoke of Mr Borden's tour and told how he was offering something different to each province. In British Columbia Mr Borden told sion to look into the question of better terms for that province, as he approved of Premler McBride leav. ing the conference as he did. As his audience knew, last fall there met at Ottawa the representatives of all the provinces including the Conservative premiers of Manitoba and Ontario, as well as British Columbia. The claims of British Columbia were fully considered and on account of the peculiar circumstances of the case it was decided that British Columbia should receive $100,000 for ten years, a million dollars in all. Me-Bride, however, withdrew from the convention without telling what better terms he wished. All the other premiers agreed. "I do not believe, " said Mr Pugsley, "that Premier Whitney will remain silent under Mr Borden's promise, I believe from what took place that Mr Whitney thought that they were going to the extreme ilmit in the offer to British Columbia."

Then Mr Borden visited Saskatchewan and Alberta. These new provinces are receiving a special grant justead of being given possession of the lands. Mr Borden promised to give them back their lands and later when he got into the northern part of the provinces he promised them their land and the money too. (Laughter.) Col McLean has had in his profession a most honorable record. Few have begun with so few advantages and no influence who have attained to such success. He knew of no lawyer who had a better record of integrity and industry than the man they had chosen as the candidate.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper and Adam C Bell were unanimously nominated on Thursday by the liberal conservative convention as federal candidates for Pictou county, N S.

No such thing. The county sends only one member, and the men abovementioned were rivals for the conservative nomination. After a big scrap Tupper won out. This is the "unanimity" we read about in oppo sition organs.

No man apparently knows the act-ual indebtedness of the province at the present time; Mr Hazen does not know, neither do his critics. We are all guessing.—(Press.)

Yes, Mr Hubbard, you are telling half the truth. Everyone admits that Mr Hazen knows very little about the debt, and the "We" apparently includes all the opposition party. Is this an open confession?
