Newburg.

Hail thou fair, sweet smiling month of flowers,
With clear bright skies and happy summer showers;
Where the gentle murmuring waters slowly pass,
Now glides fair June down waving fields of grass;
In far deep forests where all life is mute,
Of leaf and bough she makes a touching lute;
She is the wonder with the golden wings,
Who lays one hand in summer one in springs.

The farmers are nearly through cropping in this vicinity: at one time some of them thought they would not finish until haying time.

The Song Recital.

The song recital given by Mrs George W Gibson at the Opera House on last Monday evening in aid of the building of the Methodist Church fund was a successful and most enjoyable affair. She sang "Florian's Song", "A Fair Good Morn", "The Stirrup Cup", "The Fairy Wedding", Aria from the Opera of "Mignon", a "Japanese Lullaby", "There is a Garden", "A Madrigal", "Sing me to Sleep" (with violin and piano accompaniment), and "I'm Over Young to Marry Yet," in a very sweet and clear manner which gave great pleasure to her hearers. Her voice has, it seems to us, developed especial fullness and sweetness since we last heard her in public.

Mrs Gibson was assisted by Mrs Adney, who played the accompaniments, Mrs Rankin, Miss Maude Henderson, Mr Clyde F Camber and Mr F C Dickie. Mrs Rankin and Mrs Adney sang "The Rose Bush" together. Miss Henderson, who is extremely clever and has a rare talent for the piano, delighted her audience as she always does, playing the "Polonaise" of Chopin, "La Fileuse" of Raff and the "Tarantelle," by Thome, with grace and freedom of execution.

Mr Camber, who is still but a youth, shows a bass voice of surprising depth and richness which must develop into one of unusual quality in course of time. It was his first public appearance, so a slight nervousness he showed in the first number "Out on the Deep" was but natural, and disappeared when he sang "In Cellar Cool."

Mr Dickie's violin obligato to Mrs Gibson was much appreciated.

All the performers excepting Mr Dickie, are pupils of Mrs Adney, who not only loaned for the occasion her own teaching piano, (one that Mr Gourlay himself selected for her,) but also drew, without charge, upon her much occupied time, in order that the performance of her pupils, in which she naturally has a great interest, should be to her credit. Thanks are also due to Mr Horace Lockwood, who specially tuned the piano free of charge. (Com.)
