

Crippled With Rheumatism

CURED BY GIN PILLS

Mr. Derragh certainly did have a hard time of it, winter before last. Caught cold, and it settled in his kidneys. First thing he knew, he was in bed with Rheumatism. He nearly went mad, the pain was so intense. The doctors gave him the usual treatment—and pretty nearly burnt his legs off with liniments and blisters—but the Rheumatism went right on aching.

Then a friend stepped in and said, "Why don't you try GIN PILLS?" After a great deal of persuasion, Mr. Derragh did try GIN PILLS. You never such a happy man in your life, after he had taken two boxes. Pain all gone—stiffness and lameness completely left—that ache in back and hips disappeared—and he was well in no time. That was two years ago and he has been in perfect health ever since.

Contracted a severe cold. Rheumatism followed and the sharp pains took me so often and were so severe that I had to take to bed. For several months I could get no relief, until I started to take "Gin Pills." In five days I was up and around the house. The aches are gone and I have not had a return of the old trouble since. I wish also to say that "Gin Pills" gave me the first painless passage of urine I have had in two years.

The Other Side.

Dear Editor:

I have noticed in some late issues of your paper some articles with headings Baptist Union and as they seem to be all on one side of the question, I thought you might like to hear something on the other side.

There are some things in your last article I think quite misleading such as scores on both sides being in favour of such union. I do not think that many of the Reformed Baptist denomination would listen to any such proposal.

I am led to wonder why the United Baptists would wish us to unite with them again on the same conditions existing for which they disestablished and threw us out for twenty years for preaching and testifying to the doctrine and experience of entire and instantaneous sanctification as a definite second work as strongly taught in the new testament in different terms such as sanctify you wholly, holiness, purity of heart, perfect love, baptism of the Holy Ghost, in short how could a Holy Bible teach anything short of holiness?

On the other hand I do not see why Reformed Baptists should wish to unite with the same people again.

I belonged to a church, the pastor of which at that time, told me he did not know how any of us pretended to get holiness out of the Bible. He thought we got it out of the almanac, but I would not compare him with all Baptists, having nothing to say against them. I love and respect all Christians but such union I look upon as impossible under existing circumstances.

There is much more I would like to say and may farther on.

JUDSON BURPEE.

NOTE. The above letter was brought to the Sentinel by Rev S A Baker, and published at his request. We are glad to print it in one way, and sorry in another. We regret the tone of the communication and feel that Mr Burpee was ill-advised in submitting it. No doubt many others will think that way too. Mr Burpee says we printed a misleading article. The only thing he challenges is our statement that "Scores on each side are in favor of Union." If he had read carefully he would have seen that from one church alone half a dozen prominent R B laymen expressed entire sympathy with the project, while two members of the R B Executive have done the same thing. Two prominent R B clergymen have come out in favor. Surely Mr Burpee was writing without due consideration on that point. At any rate he should present some evidence along with any future challenge of the nature. The Sentinel has no axe to grind. We were asked by prominent Reformed Baptists to open our columns on the matter, and did so. Personally we do not care whether the two bodies ever unite. Mr Burpee or any other gentleman may freely continue the discussion, always avoiding, of course, personalities, old sores, etc. The merits of the case from the present, not past, should be discussed. The doctrine of forgive and forget should receive some attention.

Gravel Roads.

In the construction of gravel roads the main points to observe are:

- (1) That the roadbed is first properly graded and crowned.
- (2) That the drains at the side of the road have a steady fall to a good outlet, and that every drain has an outlet.
- (3) That the gravel is clean, and neither too fine nor too coarse.
- (4) That the gravel when dropped on the road is kept in a straight line and is evenly spread.
- (5) That, when spreading the gravel, large stones are raked forward so as to be under the next load.
- (6) That old gravel roads with a solid foundation have the shoulder cut off and thrown outward—not drawn to the centre. To cut away the shoulders will frequently do the road more good than to put on a covering of new gravel.
- (7) That the cost of hauling the gravel is kept at a minimum by fixing the size of the roads, and the number of loads to constitute a day's work.

Gravel is very satisfactory road metal under light traffic. It is not as a rule, so durable as broken stone.

Under average conditions, one wagon load of broken stone on a road would be equal to two loads of gravel.

The best pit gravel for roadwork is clean, free from an excess of sand and clay, composed of stones of varying size up to one and one-half inches in diameter, with just enough fine stuff to fill the voids and make a compact mass. The appearance in the face of a pit, is that of an almost solid mass of pebbles, from the size of marbles up to 1½ inches in diameter. Where such gravel stands upright in the pit, after the spring thaw, with no trace of slipping, it may be considered fit for use on the road without any treatment.

River gravel is frequently better than pit gravel from the fact that an excess of clay or sand is washed out of it, and it is less waterworn than lake gravel. Lake gravel, if not too coarse and shaley, makes a very good surface, but packs slowly.

The sound made by metal tires in passing over the roads is a good means of judging the quality of the gravel. A continuously smooth and gritty sound is most favorable. If the gritty sound is absent the gravel contains too much earthy material, while an interrupted, intermittent sound indicates too many large stones.

"Dirty" gravel is the chief thing to avoid. Gravel containing much clay, sand or earthy material packs quickly and makes a good dry-weather road. But in the wet weather of spring and fall it turns to mud and slush, and ruts readily. It soon wears out.

Avoid very fine gravel, and gravel that packs quickly. It lacks strength and is usually dirty. It is the stone that is needed on the roads. There is usually enough earth and clay on the roads without paying for more. A road surface of stony material will wear and keep its shape, but fine material becomes "slushy," flattens out under traffic, and the crown of the road is lost.

If the gravel is of fair quality, except for a few large stones, these stones may be raked out as it is spread on the road, and drawn forward so as to be spread under the next load. Or if large stones are too numerous to be sufficiently removed by this treatment, a man may also be stationed in the pit to rake out as many stones as possible from the gravel as it is being shovelled into the wagons.

Where gravel consists of a mass of large stones and boulders it should be treated as rock, and put through a crusher. A rotary screen attached to the crusher is always desirable to separate the crushed stone into coarse and fine grades. But where there is an excess of clay, earthy matter or sand, a rotary screen is especially useful in removing such objectionable material.

A MOTHER'S GRATITUDE.

Mrs V Cheoret, of St Benoit, Que., writes as follows: "It is with feelings of the deepest gratitude that I write to tell you what Baby's Own Tablets have done for my baby. When I began giving him the Tablets he was so thin and wasted that he looked like a skeleton. His digestion was poor; he was constipated and cried day and night. I got a box of Baby's Own Tablets and from the first they did him a great deal of good. His food digested better; his bowels worked regularly; his sleep was natural; he stopped crying and began to grow fat. I got another box and am happy to say before they were all used he was in perfect health and is now a plump rugged child. I always keep a box of Tablets in the house and would advise other mothers to do the same." The above is a fair sample of hundreds of letters that come from all parts of Canada praising Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets cure all the minor ills of babies and young children, and are absolutely safe, as they do not contain one particle of opiate or narcotic. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Oak Mountain.

We are having some fine weather at present and most of the farmers are through putting in their crops. W S Speer and family have sold their farm to Wm Kerr and are going to Alberta. We wish them success in their new venture.

Miss Bertie Speer formerly of this place but now of Boston, spent a few days here visiting her parents before they were to go West. Some our of our young men are feeling badly. I wonder why? Perhaps it is because some of the girls have gone away.

Miss Lizzie Kerr spent a few weeks in Woodstock the guest of Mrs Geo Jackson.

Mrs Wm Ivy of Bull's Creek was calling on relatives in this vicinity quite recently.

Woodstock where she will reside for the present.

Robert Purvis who is working in Woodstock spent Sunday in this place.

Mrs Margaret Kerr of Woodstock was calling on relatives in this vicinity, one day quite recently.
