

This woman says she was saved from an operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Frank Emsley, Lindsay, Ontario, writes to Mrs. Pinkham :

"When I wrote to you some time ago, I was a very sick woman suffering from female troubles. I had inflamma tion of the feminine organs and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed and the doctor said I would have to go through

A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman.

"I most heartily recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women who suffer with female troubles.'

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

THE CARLETON SENTINEL. WOODSTOCK, N. B., MAY 15, 1908

"Could Not Stand Disgrace" I. O. F.

Pathetic Letter of W P Flewell ing to Premier Hazen.

Not Willing to Appeal to His Friends For Assistance.

Premier Hazen of New Brunswick. gave out for publication the letter that was left for him by the late W P Flewelling, deputy surveyor general of New Brunswick. The letter is as follows.

Fredericton, N B, 3rd May, 1908 Hon J D Hazen, Premier, etc.,

SIR.-It is due to you and to all concerned that I should make the following statement of confession: I have used funds which did not belong to me and which I am unable to replace. The amount, which must be somewhere in the vicinity of $12,000, will be largely due the Bank of British North America, and for which your government will be responsible. The accounts and returns which I rendered the Auditor General and the Receiver General for the year which ended at the 31st an operation, but this I refused to do. of October, 1907 are absolutely correct and every dollar paid in to me or expended by me is accounted for in those statements. But the way in which I was able to make those payments was by overdrawing my account at the British Bank. In the hands of the Bank you, will find a guarantee signed by the Surveyor General or Surveyors General and the Premier giving me the authority, it being intended for government business only.

I have kept both my bank accounts in one, and have made all my deposits and so forth to the one account and while I was trusted with such authority, I have abused that trust and hence this letter.

While I would be willing to make all the reparation possible, by hand ing over to you everything of which I may be possessed, I cannot face the publicity of my defalcation, as it will be styled, and could not endure

The adjustment of the rates of the Foresters is at present a live topic among the members of this order in Amherst and elsewhere.

The proposed increase will effect all members who joined the IOF previous to 1889 and in this class there are 110,000 men. The rates these men have been paying have been found to be so inadequate that for the past two years the payments on account of these members for mortuary disability and old age benefits have exceeded by a considerable sum the premiums paid by them. The situation is, therefore, that the old members have commenced drawing upon their reserve, and are now contributing nothing towards the credit balance of the order's funds.

The 150,000 policy holders who Cooper, a practical printer, a Conhave joined since 1898 will not be servative in politics, was a member affected by the proposed changes. The old members had policies in appointing him and paying him totalling over $100.000.000. The executive is recommending increases in

cent. rates and the present rates is as follows: At the age of twenty years, 62 cents per month and 80 cents; at twenty five years, 67 cents and 94 cents; at thirty years, 72 cents and $1.14; at thirty five years, 78 cents and $1.33; at forty years, 90 cents and $1.68; and the other years in proportion.

Three different plans are proposed by the executive officers for plac. ing the old members on an equality with now members in the matter of payment of rates.

A .- The old members now to contribute the difference between rate they have paid and what they would have paid at age of entry under knew that if they did not get the contract they would have a tremendous amount of dead stock on their hands.

Proceeding, Mr McKay said: "An intelligent ten-year-old can readily see the difference between the price they would quote under the circumstances of this kind and the price they or other firms would quote if asked for tenders for the publication of an entirely new series which they had no stock on hand. It is simply ridiculous to say that the conditions are at all similar or that the prices quoted for the publication of the text books would be at all similar.

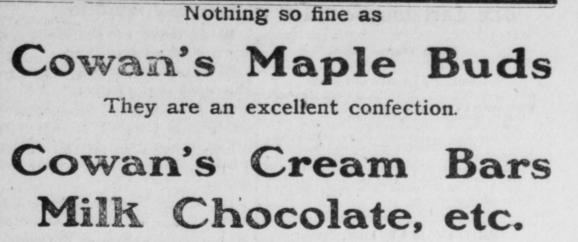

MR COOPER'S OPINION.

"It will be recalled that the government appointed a commission to inquire into the cost and suitability of the present text books. John A of the commission. The government vouched for his credibility and his competency. After having fully intheir rates averaging 20 to 25 per vestigated the matter and knowing full well the pecularities of the con-

The difference between the old tract made for a year and a half, he ought to have an opinion of some importance. He knows, as any sane man knows, that the temporary prices for which the old readers are now being sold under such exceptional circumstances cannot perman. ently govern. The Education Department has men now at work preparing an entirely new set of school readers. Mr Cooper understands all the circumstances and knows perfectly well that these new readers cannot and will not be published at the bargain counter prices now being paid for the old readers. After arguing the matter out at some length he says: "This temporary reduction in price lasts only for one and a half present rates, with interest at four years. What will happen then is a per cent compounded, and pay the matter of conjecture. The probabilpresent rate for age of entry for the ity is that if a new set of readers is prepared and the paper and binding brought up to date the price will be back to the old figure, if not higher. "Gentlemen, I give you this as a clearly expressed opinion of the commissioner, himself a Conservative, who is in a position to know the facts. Accepting his opinion as ac-curate, you will readily see that the people are being largely humbugged by Conservative politicians, who pre tend that the present low prices will permanently continue." (Cheers.)

the scorn and blame of my enemies. For some time I have known that this must come to an end and you can imagine what my life has been with this hanging over me and I cannot endure it longer.

It is only fair to say that the old government had no knowledge whatever of this over draft, and the matter has been entirely between the Bank and myself, with the Bank believing that everything was all right.

So far it has cost the Province nothing, as I have paid the interest on the overdraft, but I cannot stand the situation longer and must bring the matter to an end and will have to take my chances with the things on under the present conditions.

If in the goodness of your hearts and your colleagues can do anything for my poor wife, for God's sake do so, and not let her starve.

I know it is cowardly on my part not to face the matter and take the consequences, but when I have been so trusted by every one I feel that I have deceived every one and could not ask anyone to help me out of this. So there is but one way left.

If you see fit to make any part of this statement public you may do so as for your own sake you may find it necessary, but spare my poor wife as much as possible.

There is I believe, some Trust Company guarantee (for my honesty) which may keep the Province whole. There is no use of my saying more, but you will understand what it is costing me to say this much and state only the bold facts.

By the time you read this I will have passed beyond the control of any human power. I cannot plead for charity.

These pathetic lines, in a faint degree, reveal the fearful mental strain under which the deceased for years had suffered. He has surely bitterly expiated his fall. Who of us can cast the first stone.

> on present rate-with rate at attainted age for difference between such amount and the amount of policy.

C.-Accept in lieu of policy now held a policy for such amount as the rate paid would pay on basis of the present rates, and contine to pay the rate he has been paying.

There is no question but that the that I know not of rather than live Supreme Court has the power to increase the rates of assessment. It is open to question however, whether this body has the power to reduce the amount of insurance that the insured cont: acted for. If a policy was issued say twenty-five years ago and the insured paid all the demands made upon him, there is no doubt that at any time the Supreme Court has the power to increase the assessment rate, but it looks like an unfair proceeding to say to the insured "you must not only pay a higher assessment for future years, but you must also pay up the deficiency in rate between tho new assessment and the old for all the time that you were in the Order or have your policy reduced proportionate to the rate raid. Death is about the only sure thing in the world and the cost of carrying a risk is so clearly defined by mortuary tables that it can be estimated to a few cents.

Iu the early days of the Order insurance was issued at bargain sale rates and below cost and the Order is reaping today the fruits of the low rates that prevailed years ago.-Exchange

Speaking at Kingsville, Essex Co, Friday, Hon A G McKay, the Liberal leader in the Ontario legislature, said:

The present government are taking great credit to themselves in connection with the reduction in the price of school readers. For the time being Ontario readers are being sold cheaper than formerly. The facts, however, in connection with the present short term contract with the publishers should be clearly understood. When the department had declared that after
