Georgia Letter.

This morning the thermoneter registered 30 above. That beats 30 below for the comfort of all living creatures, except the torpid family. It matters not to them whether 30 above or zero they sleep and rest all the same. But man does not seem satisfied with the movings of nature. It is too cold or too hot, too wet or too dry for him but he has to stand the situation all the same. Georgia people have been brought up against these propositions this winter. In Nevember we had 101, December 101 of rain and today we have had nearly 5, so as a result of so much rain the farmers have had no opportunity of sowing fall oats or wheat and considerable cotton is yet ungathered, and of course the grade is much impaired. Cotton sold now brings a very good price according to grade, from 9 to 111 cents per lb today, but tomorrow it may be down 25 to 75 points. Thus it fluctuates, and among other troubles comes the money stringency that has threatened disaster, but now from the daily papers the clouded financial horizon begins to clear away, be this true or not it brightens hope and strengthens confidence in the common reader and makes him feel good and hopeful. And now here comes in full force what some please to call it lagrippe, but it is the same bad cold I used to deal with in your own town and it was but a bad cold so considered. It had the same symptoms they claim

The schools are much interferred with it. Wesleyan Female College at Macon, Georgia, the oldest female college in the world, where two of my grandchildren are pupils, it is of people have seen the error of said 40 are sick with lagrippe. Four of my grandchildren in this town are sick with it yet thank God it is no ernment supporters is such that after the best of health. I feel sure that worse. I think there must have been an east wind blowing when Baalam smote the ass. The idle mule gambles about his masters lot and hides away corn and fodder wait ing for the earth to dry like Noah did, so he can be put to work pre pairing for the crop of 1908, when that time will come no Georgian can tell. Georgia is whiskey dry, but the rain wets sure now. The people are solid behind the former move ment. No whiskey. God bless the good people. A few days ago a dandy whiskey drummer from Tennessee let down in a Georgia town and began to show his advertisements and giving away free samples of whiskey and before he was aware of it, a policeman lit on him and by the time the cop turned him loose he was one thousand dollars poorer, and Athens one thousand dollars richer and he was five thousand dollars wiser. That is the way to snap up such bold intruders. We are having clear and cold weather today. The sunshine makes us all feel good after so much cloudy skies. The roosters are crowing but the hen say but little they belong to the union and are on a strike. But we must be generous toward all reformers. If they realize that whiskey is legislated out of Georgia they show good morels by not furnishing the other end of that

Mr Hazen in Danger.

Reports from all sections of the province indicate that supporters of the Provincial Government are ready and eager for the battle of the ballots on March 3rd. There are still some few candidates to be named, but it is pretty well known who these will be and the government will place in the field such a ticket as will make defeat next to impossible.

From Sunbury comes information that Mr Hazen's friends are already very nervous. The opposition lead ers has always been the subject of more or less criticism on the part of those who support him but during the past year he has displayed such weakness in holding his party together that there is a serious division in the opposition ranks in his own constituency and Mr Hazen's defeat would not come as a surprise.

In the last general election Mr Hazen who certainly should be the strongest man in the county, was elected by a majority of only eighty votes. His success was due to the strenuous efforts of his colleague Mr | Pink Pills at once and see how Glasier by whose influence he was pulled through, but even Mr Glasier will this year find that he is not quite so popular as he once was and Mr Hazen will realize that the support on which he formerly lean is scarce ly worthy of dependence. Even Mr Flemming the self-satisfied financial expert, who declined the premier's offer for an examination of provincial accounts, will have to keep very busy for the next six weeks if he desires to go back to Fredericton. He had only thirty-nine votes to spare the last time he was elected, and a good many more than this number their ways in the past four years and will avoid voting for the opposition in the province the strength of Gov-

Insurance Leiter.

Dear Mr Editor I notice in a recent number of the Telegraph and Sun a report of an address by the president of the F'ton Board of Trade who by the way is a brother of the president of our Board of Trade. And among the very in teresting subjects discussed was the one referred to in the following extract where he said: "The chief of the fire department reported that the losses from fire charged by Tariff Co $22. I suggest during the past year came to only $714 50. The president said he had reliable information to the effect that the average losses in 25 years was $5,500. That the minimum fire premium paid in any year was not less than $60,000, paying altogether in 25 years at least $1,500,000. Total losses iu same period, $137,500, leaving the enormous surplus of $1,362, 500. Our fire insurance tariff is fixed altogether by St John agents and while we have good insurance men here who have always done their best in the city's interest, still they have no voice in fixing the rate. The president said he would recommend that places outside of St John be given a place on the board, and if this be refused that then legislation be sought compelling this to be

Now I take it Mr Editor that the people of Woodstock are as vitally interested in the matter high Insurance Rates, as those of Fredericton and if anything can be done to secure a reduction in the exorbitant changes by fire Insurance Companies I think it should be looked into.

I notice by the report of our Fire Department for six months, which was published in the Sentinel a few weeks ago, that we have had but few fires which were not readily extinguished by our efficient fire lad- by GARDEN BROS. dies, it would seem that the more the town spends for water and the On Jan 5th we had a big rain; it harder we try for protection from fell until 3 o'clock next morning and fire the higher go the rates.
