

PANDORA RANGE

Train up a girl in the way she should bake, and when she is married she will not depart from it.

"My mother taught me how to bake, and told me why she always used a McClary Range."

"Now I have a 'Pandora', and, as with mother, my troubles are few. After fire is started, I simply bring thermometer to desired heat and leave the oven in charge of the baking. It's built for faithful service."

"While housewives with other ranges are poking fire and changing dampers, I sit and read the 'Joy of Living'."

In Memory of T. W. Ebbett.

And can it be that he is gone,
Yes gone from earth to heaven;
He is resting very sweetly now
He sleeps with God in Heaven.
Oh, how we miss the absent one
That we did love so dear;
He has escaped this world of sorrow
To a home where they shed no tears,
We need not mourn for he has gone.
To the home so bright and fair,
The wife and mother are stricken
with grief,
But he has the Saviour's care.
His chair in the home is vacant also
his bed,
But we know he is in heaven
With a crown upon his head.
And now his sufferings are o'er,
Which we have all got to bear
He has crossed the pearly portals
Just waiting to greet us there.
In this world of sin and sorrow
Through the dark hours of despair
There is peace and their is comfort
In the shadow of his care.
Though death it may divide us
Yet as a comfort to our path
It never shall deprive us
Of that precious word "Thomas."
The Lord watch between me and thee
With his most tender care
And in deeds of love and mercy
He will all our sorrows share.

In memory of Stanley Gordon Turner, Hartfield Corner, who died Sept. 28th, at East Newbridge, aged 16 years 6 months and twenty-four days.

Two months ago this very day,
It being clear and calm,
Dear Stanley left his sister's home
Few hours to be gone.
With his comrade, Harold McCarty,
In to the woods they strolled;
But ah, alas! in two hours
Poor Stanley he lay cold.
It was that dreadful rifle
Which caused poor Stanley's death;
He being bright and conscious
Till this weary world he left.
It seems so strange dear Stanley's
gone;

The one we all loved well;
But though he's left us here below
We hope in Heaven he'll dwell.
Oh little did we think, Stanley,
When you left your sister's home,
In this world we ne'er would see you,
But thy Lord's will, will be done.
Ended now is all thy sufferings,
God relieved you of your pain,
To be forever with him
In that Bright and Happy Land.
Your father bends in an anguish,
Likewise your brothers three,
Two sisters, and step-mother,
Are mourning here for thee.
Though 'tis sad we bid thee farewell
Till for us life storms are past
Then again to meet you, Stanley,
Up in Heaven there at last.
In that graveyard at Southampton,
Robed in white there is a mound,
Where dear Stanley he lies sleeping
In that cold and silent ground.

A SURPRISED MINISTER.

"For many years I have been a sufferer from bronchial catarrh, and had despair of anything like a cure, Judge of my pleasant surprise when I first used Hyomei, has been a veritable godsend."—Rev Charles Hartley, Sardinia, Ohio.

Thousands of catarrh sufferers have given up in despair. They have tried stomach, dosing, snuff, sprays and douches without success, and now believe catarrh to be incurable. But E. W. Mair the druggist, holds out hope to all distressed. He sells a remedy called Hyomei which is guaranteed for catarrh, colds, coughs, bronchitis, asthma and croup.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is medicated air full of the healthy virtues of the mountain pines. You breathe in the delightful antiseptic air, and as it passes over the inflamed and germ ridden membrane it allays the inflammation, kills the germs, and drives out the disease. A complete Hyomei outfit, including a hard rubber inhaler, costs but $1.00, and an extra bottle of Hyomei if afterwards needed, costs but 50 cents. See E. W. Mair about it to-day.

Death of Mr. Caleb Chase.

Mr. Caleb Chase, a leading Boston merchant, senior member of the firm of Chase & Sanborn, Boston and Montreal, died at his home, in Brookline, Nov. 23.

He was born in Harwich, Mass., on Dec. 11, 1831, being the son of Job and Phoebe (Winslow) Chase. He was educated in the Harwich schools, and was in his father's general store until he reached the age of twenty-four. He then went to Boston, entering the employ of Anderson, Targent & Co., a leading dry goods house. He was with this firm five years, traveling for them on Cape Cod and in the West, and in 1859 he made connection with the wholesale grocery house of Olafir, Saville & Co.

In 1864 he began business for himself, forming the firm of Carr, Chase

& Raymond, which in 1871 became Chase, Raymond & Ayer, and in 1875 was merged into the present firm of Chase & Sanborn. Owing to ill health the active management of the business of late years has been assumed by his partners.

Mr. Chase will be long remembered for his benefactions. There was a personal element in his public and charitable gifts; something of the giver himself seemed to enter into each.

He kept an active interest in his native town as long as he lived, and Harwich owes much to his public spirit. At his personal expense he improved Harwich Harbor, including the building of the sea wall.

He contributed largely to the betterment of the roads in the town, gave to West Harwich its library building and another building for a town hall.

He gave liberally to his own Baptist Church in Harwich, and to other churches in the town, irrespective of denomination. To the Brookline schools he gave a fund for the purpose of placing in the school rooms copies of some of the world's best sculpture. More recently he gave to the Boston Salvation Army $12,000 for its People's Place, the main hall of which is named in his honor, 'Caleb Chase Hall.'

Mr. Chase's private charity was endless. It was said of him that he could never resist the appeal of misery or distress. It is quite certain that there are literally thousands who will remember his generosity and personal sympathy in times of adversity.

Mr. Chase belonged to the Algonquin Club and was an enthusiastic member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery. He was one of the 173 members who went to England in 1896, and when the London Ancients came to Boston in 1903, he was an important factor in making the visit of the Englishmen a memorable one.

He was married in 1864 to Miss Salome Boyle, of Thurston, Maine, who survives him.

FREE SAMPLES OF A STRONG ROOFING.

Farmers who are buying ready roofings on the strength of the appearance of a sample often overlook the important feature of density of materials.

The densest roofing on the market is Amalite; that is, it has the most stuff packed into it for its thickness. Amalite could, no doubt, have been made twice as thick without using any more materials to the square foot, but it would then be more porous and more open to the penetration of air and water.

Instead of that, Amalite is pressed under great rollers till it is as tough and dense as it can be made. The weight per roll tells the story. Investigate this before you buy. Full information and sample will be sent in reply to a postal addressed to the nearest office of the Carrille-Paterson Mfg. Co. Ltd., St. John, N. B., Halifax, N. S.

The Woodstock Press and Irreverence.

We reprint the matter below from the Woodstock Press. Truly it is a composition to be proud of. The Press, however, has long been known as a paper devoid even of pretensions to decency.

The extract:—"Lift up your heads, O ye Liberals, and be ye lifted up ye followers of the Liberal government, and the King of glory shall come in. Who is this King of glory? We think that Laurier is his name."

"For henceforth there shall be granted unto every abiding place by the Liberals, a post office forever. "And every stream of river that flows past or on the premises of a Liberal shall have a good substantial bridge built across it and it shall be built without money or price, for the money shall come from some source, we know not where, but the Liberals tell us it comes not by increased taxation or from the people, or nowhere."

"And henceforth and forever the tea of every Liberal shall be brewed in a $23 teapot, and the flavor of it shall reach to the throne of the Laurier government forever." Nice paper for circulation in decent homes, that Press.—Sackville Tribune.

Josh Billings, the quaint philosopher whose maxims are full of homely wisdom, once said: "The longer I live the more I believe a good set of bowels are worth more than a good set of brains." Cecely King makes good bowels. 25 cents at dealers or by mail. S. C. Wells & Co., Toronto.

Why Not Both

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is the best of all medicines for the cure of diseases, disorders and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is the only preparation of its kind devised by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in the diseases of women.

It is a safe medicine in any condition of the system. THE ONE REMEDY which contains no alcohol and no injurious habit-forming drugs and which creates no craving for such stimulants.

THE ONE REMEDY so good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on each outside bottle-wrapper and attest to the truthfulness of the same under oath.

It is sold by medicine dealers everywhere, and any dealer who hasn't it can get it. Don't take a substitute of unknown composition for this medicine of known composition. No counterfeit is as good as the genuine and the druggist who says something else is "just as good as Dr. Pierce's" is either mistaken or is trying to deceive you for his own selfish benefit. Such a man is not to be trusted. He is trifling with your most priceless possession—your health—may be your life itself. See that you get what you ask for.
