LIBERAL RALLY Saturday Night IN COMMITTEE ROOM.

JONES CARVELL

The Mask is Off.

The Opposition party, as Mr Hazen and his satellites are pleased to call themselves, are really entitled to the name. Come to think of it, they have been in Opposition for twenty five years at a stretch, with splendid prospects for continuing in that unhappy condition for many years to come, so if they really like the name and must use it, they are quite within their rights in doing so. No person will quarrel with them over the splendid speeches from Solicitor fitness of the term. When Mr Hazen, however, seeks to delude the public into the belief that his supporters are really a mongrel outfit, made up heartily in favor of the government somewhat on the half and half basis, | ticket. we must protest against any such as ertion. It cannot be disputed that niney five per cent and more of Hazen's following consists of rockribbed conservatives, but when the leader solemnly assures his hearers that this is not a party fight he must know in his heart that he is telling what is false in fact, and the only wonder is that his words do not choke hin. Fancy a man whose support apart from the dyed in the wool conservative element is only that of a mere sprinkling of disap. pointed officeseekers and soreheads, running over the province trying to deceive in this shameless manner. What can we say, what can we think of such a course? Was ever political deception more firagrantly employed? True there may be in several counties a few decoy ducks of the Mor issey stamp, but what of them? What right has a man disgruntled and out of sympathy with his own party to speak for it? With the Liberal organization backing the local government, and with Ganong in Charlotte, Fowler in Kings-Albert, Daniel in St John, Wilmot in Sunbury-Queens and Crocket in York, the five federal tory members, all doing there little best to defeat the brazen indifference to fact suffiforward and say this is not a party

What would come over the common sober sense of the public if men like Frank Smith and Pinder were given office?

Good Order, Etc.

Tuesday, 25th inst, is the date set for Nomination. We trust a great many friends of the government will endeavor to get to Upper Woodstock that day, when the electors will have an opportunity to hear the rival candidates. It is of course devoutly to be wished that everyone will give the six speakers a fair hearing. We feel certain every Liberal, every friend of the government, will by his conduct show himself in favor of free speech.

In this connection we notice an editorial in our poetically inclined contemporary along the line of urging a good hearing for all hands. This is good advice, and we trust it will be taken to heart by the parties who in the past have been in need of some fatherly care. Since 1900 there has been very little occasion for complaint on this score, as High Sheriff Hayward has held things down in good shape at the last two nominations, and no doubt will deal severely with any person foolish enough to raise a disturbance. The down in 1900 will do well to keep quiet. Any man who cannot conduct himself properly nomination day should be sent to the cooler.

Government Meetings.

Monday night there was an enthusiastic meeting at Watson Settlement, addressed by FB Carvell M P, Geo W Upham and J T Allan Dibblee. Everything looks good for an increased government majority in Richmond. The same night a big gathering at Mount Pleasant heard General Jones and Harry Carvell. Coun Ed Gillmor of Aberdeen was in the chair, and announced himself as

Tuesday evening there was another fine gathering at Jacksonville, with George McLeod in the chair. All three candidates were present. giving logical and pleasing ad dresses. F B Carvell held forth that evening at Windsor. Wednesday night meetings at Avondale and Cloverdale were largely attended.

Last evening Bristol and Middle Simonds were visited, and from the reports received by us over the telephone it seems that in both places the government prospects were never better. To-night (Friday) there will be meetings at Waterville and Lakeville. Saturday night a grand raily at Centreville.

Monday night, 24th inst, speakers will visit Lower Woodstock and Pem, broke, and Tuesday is Nomination. At two o'clock that afternoon all six candidates will begin the big oratorical duel. In the evening a mass before my notice have been few. I meeting will be held in Graham's Opera House, Woodstock, to be ad dressed by E H McAlpine and Mich. ael McDade of St John, as well as the three candidates and Mr FB engaged in considering the condition Carvell. Arrangements are being of a small family of children, and am made to hold the train going north that night until after the meeting. This will undoubtedly be one of the inclined to think, favorable results. the government, who will have finest meetings the County has yet ciently developed within him to come the highest rank, while Mr McDade, the public will be willing to cowho in the last campaign was one of operate with it, even more than in Mr Hazen's lieutenants, has few platform superiors in public life to complain of on this score.

R COLDITIES others may think the public can be who can get here, fail to be present fooled, but we have a different idea. on Tuesday 25th inst.

Liberals Gave the Secret Ballot.

The Telegraph is not willing to give the government any credit for passing the law which insures a secret ballot in the coming elections. In a recent issue it had an article in which it quotes a resolution which was moved by Mr Hazen on the 20th April 1899 in the Legislative Assembly asking for a more secret ballot than the one now existing. As it was near the end of the session, and as the matter was of very considerable importance, an amendment was moved and carried postponing the further consideration of the question of three months. This was a very proper proceeding, because at that stage of the session, there was not time to give the matter sufficient consideration. There were many people in the House of Assembly at that time who considered the ballot which then was used and which had been for about 40 years was quite secret enough, and there is no doubt that it might be made so where the voters were all persons of education. However, the government took the matter up in the last legislature and they have given the Province a ballot which ought to be absolutely secret. Why the Opposition should claim the credit of this and refuse to allow any to the government, passeth all understanding. The opposition had ten men in the house when the ballot law was passed and ten men are blackguards who howled Mr Carvell hardly enough to coerce 36 or to force them into any action which they do not approve. This article in The Telegraph is entirely consistent with the conduct of that paper i . refusing to give the government credit for anything. There has not been an atom of fair play displayed by the Opposition press throughout this whole campaign. On their side it has been nothing but a campaign of the above work will be promptly attended to by abuse of the government without a single redeeming feature. But Mr A B Copp was chairman of the committee which gave the secret ballot and not Mr Hazen and Mr Copp's friends were in the majority on the committee. Even the Dominion

> The Telegraph in its bombastic re enthusiasm was in evidence. The truth is far from that statement. Woodstock has seldom had so quiet a gathering. Really the only one who got a semblance of warmth was Mr Smith, and that was probably on account of his story of the man who stole the pork.
