The New County Court House

LAYING OF CORNER STONE

Carleton Lodge No. 41, I. O. O. F., has Charge of Ceremony.

Saturday proved to be a glorious day. Just right, the sun shining brightly and with just enough breeze to temper its rays. The ceremonies of much import to the county, took place, that of laying the corner stone of the New County Court House. At three o'clock Carleton Lodge, No. 41, I. O. O. F., headed by the band marched from their lodge room to the site of the new building and took charge of the ceremonies.

The band played several selections which were appreciated by the concourse of people who were gathered to witness the affair.

When all was in readiness H. D. Stevens as County Councillor upon the request of the Chairman of the building committee, Councillor Phillips got through the preliminary work of the function. He then stepped forward as Grand Master of the Odd Fellows and said, "Most noble sir, being desirous that the foundation stone of this building should be laid with appropriate ceremonies by your honorable order, I have therefore solicited your attendance upon the present occasion and hope that it may now be your pleasure to proceed in the performance of that service; the necessary preparations are all made and await your directions."

Rev G. D. Ireland, Noble Grand, replied, "In compliance with your request so courteously tendered I now proceed to discharge the duty desired, hoping that the building which will arise upon this foundation may reflect credit upon its architect and be completed with satisfaction to the municipality and profit to the workmen."

In the ceremonies incident to the laying of this corner stone where public justice is to be administered, it would be appropriate to deposit emblems suggestive of the manner of administering justice.

Sec. Comben, "Sir I have prepared the following deposits: First, a set of scales, as emblematic of the weighing out of justice, in accordance with the deserts of all, upon the golden principle of not oppressing those who are unable to exact a right."

Noble Grand, Rev G. D. Ireland, I would counsel the administration of justice by first using the persuasive eloquence of the right, through the peaceful arbitration of friend, that failing, however, I would resort to legal authority, in order to uphold justice and enforce a right; and, as typical of both, I offer to deposit an olive branch and a dagger, representing peace and war, respectively. To which the brethren responded "so be it."

The financial secretary, Thomas Baker, then presented the Noble Grand with historical records and other articles, including the old coins. The Noble Grand receiving them, directed the treasurer, A. S. Benn to deposit them in the stone, the articles having been read aloud previously by P. G. H. D. Stevens, which was done. The stone was then let down in its place.

Noble Grand, Rev G. D. Ireland.—It is now fitting that the blessing of the Divine Architect shall be invoked. The Chaplain will come forward and offer prayer.

Chaplain, Mr. Montgomery,—"Almighty Architect of the Universe, who spake, and it was done; who commanded and it stood fast; accept, we humbly pray Thee, the work of our hands this day performed, and strengthen us, by Thy blessing, to build upon this corner stone a temple in which shall be taught and administered the great principle of "Universal Justice," based upon the teachings of Friendship, Love and Truth; especially avoiding oppression, when the oppressed have not the strength to resist it, and let it forever be a refuge from wrong, by the sure administration of Justice. Let Thy blessing abide with those who have zealously undertaken the work of building this edifice, and may they be enabled by Thy good providence to carry it forward to entire completion. Bless, we pray Thee, those who are engaged in the construction of the building. Preserve them by Thy mighty power from danger and accident while thus employed. Surround them with Thy protecting care, and may their health and lives be precious in Thy sight and keeping.—Amen."

Noble Grand, Rev G. D. Ireland then said:—"In the name of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and the Grand Lodge of the Maritime Provinces, I pronounce the first stone of this building, intended for a court of justice for the Municipality of Carleton County, to be laid in regular form and order."

To which the brethren responded: "So be it."

The band played the National Anthem. The articles that were deposited in the stone were the following.

HISTORICAL DATA.

Laying of the Carleton County Court

Lauchlan, Geo A. Britton, Arthur Stone, Leverett Stone, Homer Hamilton, Jas P. Hull, Fred W. Risteen, Clyde B. Watson, Jas A. Doak, Henry Flewelling, Ansley Rogers, Fleet Jones, Walter E. Stone, Albert Siggins, Jas Taylor, Frank J. Lee, Shepherd Derrah.

The following is a statement of the Wardens of the Municipality of Carleton from the year A. D. 1909, up to the time of the laying of the Corner Stone of the New County Court House Building being erected in the Town of Woodstock, and also of the Secretary-Treasurers from the organization of the County Council to the date hereof.

WARDENS.

1898 John Y. Flemming.
1899 " "
1900 G. L. Cronkhite
1901 " "
1902 William S. Saunders
1903 Harry P. Carvell
1904 William N. Raymond
1905 Charles E. Gallagher
1906 Arthur G. Bailey
1907 D. H. Lamont
1908 Frank R. Shaw
1909 " "

SECRETARY-TREASURERS.

R. K. Jones, from time County Council was first organized in 1899.
W. P. Jones, from 1899 to June 1900.
J. C. Hartley, from June 1900 to the present.

The speeches were as follows:

WARDEN F. R. SHAW

Mr. Shaw was heartily applauded as he came forward and he said he was pleased to see such a gathering to witness the ceremonies. Said: "We cannot agree on every subject for if we did we would all go wrong at times. The councillors we did agree upon the erection of a new court house. It was also a universal demand of the whole people. The interests of the country will be safeguarded, and he could promise that when the building is completed not one cent would be misappropriated. In the future he hoped that the business would be conducted as befitted a contented and happy people."

F. B. CARVELL, M. P.

Mr. Carvell was received with a fine burst of enthusiasm on the part of the people congregated. For years, he said, there had been an antagonism among the people of the county concerning the moving of the Court House from Upper Woodstock to its present site. He was glad that this feeling had given away and suggested that as the people of Upper Woodstock had been deprived of the Court House from their midst that the councillors should take the property at Upper Woodstock to the school district there. Great applause. He prophesied that we would have a splendid court house, conversant as he was with the men who had it in charge. It was one of the finest things that the municipal council had ever done in voting money to build a court house that will be a credit to the county.

DONALD MUNRO, M. P.

Mr. Munro was greeted with hearty good will. He gave a history of the erection of the record office, and of the different efforts made to have the count house erected in town. He had much respect for our judiciary and he knew that every person would get a square deal from the judges. He told of the early history of the county, that York was cut off from Carleton for municipal purposes, and later Victoria was made into a new municipality. He was glad to know that as the county needed the building the councillors were enterprising enough to vote the money needed. The contractor was a competent man or the councillors would have had nothing to do with him. As far as the inspector Mr. Allingham was concerned that gentlemen would see that the people get everything that was coming to them. He thanked the committee for inviting him to speak and the audience who so attentively listened to him.

HON. J. K. FLEMING.

The provincial secretary, who was very kindly greeted said he was pleased to say that no body of men could give better service than has been given by the councillors of this county. We have men of the highest attainments administering justice in this province. In this building the future legislators would come together time and time again to give an account of their stewardship to the people. Our system of government is a part of the British constitution of which we are so proud. He was pleased to see the interest taken this afternoon and hoped when completed there would be a house warming that we might come together again and enjoy ourselves in the new edifice.

GEO. W. UPHAM, M. P.

The junior member for Carleton was warmly received and he said he wished to congratulate the warden and councillors on starting the court house building. The councillors were first class business men, and made a good selection in the appointment of Richard Allingham (appliance) a member of the Odd Fellows, as inspector. He pointed out that time and time again resolutions were passed by grand juries condemning the old building, and in a short time now we will have a new building. He trusted that if not before, the first time we meet in the new building will be to commemorate the building of the St. John Valley Railroad.

HON. W. P. JONES.

Hon. W. P. Jones, amid applause congratulated the warden and his colleagues over the new building. He had been in every court house in the province save one, and he thought he would have the finest court house in the province with the exception of the one in Gloucester. He hoped that when we got the new court house they will give the lawyers something to do. The people are so intelligent that they settle differences without going to law. (Laughter). By the court house and other public buildings are judged the character of the people in that respective county, and as Carleton is noted for its intelligence and thrift, the old building was in a way a discredit to the county. Now we will have something that we can be proud of.

This finished the speech making. God Save the King was played by the Band and the large gathering dispersed.

A large crowd of spectators witnessed the ceremonies. The County was well represented and among those who came to our notice were Councillors John Flemming, Byron Bull, E. S. Gilmor, Allan Bradley, J. R. Brown, W. C. Rideout, W. J. Owens, H. A. Phillips, Geo. Crawford, Horace Johnson, H. D. Stevens, J. C. T. Carr, Merchant, Hartland; Mr. Hemphill of Richmond, J. S. Leighton, W. Marston, Neil Brodie, St. John, Burnham Hoyt.

To the People of Woodstock and Vicinity.

We wrote to the merchants about advertising and keeping in touch with the people through advertising more thoroughly. Now let us talk to the buyers who are out for saving money. Do you ever stop to think that every cent you send out of town just makes your town that much harder to live in. Makes it harder for your husbands and brothers and sons to find work. Why is it the young man leaves home to wander in far away countries? Because he has to have work. The fact that "this sending money away for merchandise" which could be bought right here from your own merchants, and which has been going on for many years is what ruins so many of our towns.

Protect your town. Protect yourself, your family. If protection is good for the nation it is good for the town. As townspeople we should favor our town above every other as the growth and development of it will enhance the value of all property both in and about it. Then buy your dry goods, boots and shoes, groceries, hardware, furnishings, furniture, etc. at home; have your printing, your blacksmithing, your shoe-making done at home; patronize home in every instance that you can. The success of our merchants and mechanics mean new business houses and residences, additional demands for labor of various kinds.

To the farmer a first-class town affords a better market for his grain, a better trading point, and such a town is bound to increase the value of his land.

SCENE—In Cosy Sitting-room.

John Smith seated in armchair by the side of the fire reading the "SENTINEL" and smoking a pipe. Ellen Smith (his wife) seated at the table idly turning over leaves of a catalogue.
Ellen—Well, that's a funny thing, John—(looking up)—Eh? What?
Ellen—I said, that's a funny thing.
John—What's a funny thing?
Ellen—Why, I've just been looking up in this list the prices of several articles and I find we don't pay any more for them at the shops down here.

John—Well of course—what of that?
Ellen—Why, I thought those mail order houses were always cheaper. What do we take the trouble to send there for?
John—Goodness only knows.

Ellen—Well, I thought things were cheaper there. Any how, since they buy large quantities they get them cheap, and consequently, ought to be able to sell cheaper.

John—Yes, that's all very well, but you forget the enormous rents and rates and taxes they have to pay, to say nothing of the expensive staff they have to keep. Of course, the customer has to pay for all this.

Ellen—Well, I think I'll do a bit more shopping in our own neighborhood then. It is very much nicer and one gets personal attention, and they do exchange things if they don't suit. Still one must send away for some things.

John—Why?
Ellen—Well it stands to reason the local shops can't supply you with things that the mail order houses can.

John—Bosh; the mail order houses deal with the same wholesale houses that the local shops do, and you get precisely the same articles.

Ellen—Ah! but you don't get the same expert knowledge in selecting the articles to be sold.

John—You do, though. Why most of mail order houses are run by men who have been trained at the local shops and you get more expert attention if you shop locally?

"The Call of the West"

Harvesters! Harvesters!

Again the West calls to the East for helpers to assist in harvesting the greatest crop Western Canada has ever produced. The increased acreage under cultivation, and the splendid weather conditions that have prevailed throughout the entire season have combined to produce a wheat crop estimated at from 125,000,000 to 150,000,000 bushels, and to successfully harvest this enormous crop will require at least 30,000 Farm Laborers.

The West can supply but a small fraction of this number, and consequently the Western Farmers are obliged to look to the East for assistance in order to save the crops, which of course require to be harvested within a certain period of time.

The Canadian Pacific Railway, realizing the demand for labor in the West, will, as in previous years, run Farm Laborers Excursions, and it is expected the laborers from the Maritime Provinces will be required to leave the second or third week in August. The exact date will be announced later, and the general arrangements will be along the lines of excursions run in previous year.

The work of cutting, threshing and garnering will give months of steady employment to a vast army of laborers, and when the appeal for help comes from the West, it is earnestly hoped that the Maritime Provinces will respond in large numbers as heretofore. Thousands of Farmers from the Provinces are now located in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and they will gladly welcome those from the East who will go to their assistance. The rate is so low that it is almost equal to a free pass. It makes a splendid vacation trip and affords a great opportunity to see the Great West at its best. Even by working part time only sufficient can be earned to pay the expenses of the trip, and passengers can return home from their vacation with money in pocket.

Rev H. D. Marr Accepts Call.

At a meeting of the quarterly board of Queen Square Methodist church last night Rev H. D. Marr said that he had decided to accept the call to Portland Methodist church, to take effect after the conference next June.

The members of the board signified their regret, and Judge McKeown, on behalf of the congregation, presented to Rev H. D. Marr a check for $110.

The resignation of Rev H. D. Marr was the principal business before the meeting. The board extended to the clergyman a cordial and unanimous call to stay with the congregation for a fourth year. This, however, he said he could not do, as he had practically accepted the invitation of the Portland church.

Hon. H. A. McKeown then presented the check. Speeches were made by Rev. Mr. Marr in acknowledgment of the gift and the good will shown by the gift, and by those present expressive of regret at his decision to leave.

Rev. H. D. Marr has been in charge of the Queen square Methodist church three years. He is a graduate of Mount Allison. His first charge was Kingsclear and he has been since in Woodstock, Courtenay Bay and Carleton churches, serving three years in each. Since coming to Queen square he has proved himself of much executive ability and has endeared himself to all his congregation.

A committee of the quarterly board was appointed last night to look for a successor to Rev H. D. Marr in the pastorate.—St. John Telegraph, July 28.

Last Saturday some "wags" opened a fish pond on Main Street. A pool of water had formed in the bad spots along the sidewalk in front of the stores of Geo. Gibson's and Burden & McLean's. A sign appeared stating that these were "Private Properties and no fishing allowed." If the street commissioner had come along just then he would probably have dropped in his line. The walks on both sides of the street are in the same delapidated condition and if the council don't do something immediately to show their interest in the town we will be having the grass growing there and then some one will stick up a sign "Private Pasture," or "Hay for Sale."

Ellen—Oh! then why don't you have your clothes made locally?

John—I am going to hereafter.

Ellen—Well let us both make a start and give up sending our money out of town for everything we want. Will you?

John—I certainly shall. It's not using the local merchants right. We have been sending our good money away to help enrich other communities while our own town suffers just that much loss. When we are short of money and want credit, our merchants overlook our fault (yes fault) and let us have what we want, waiting for their pay. They also buy our products when those mail order houses don't. We should help one another. Unquestionably "in union there is strength." Let us protect our town. So John and Ellen are going to try and we advise you to, likewise.
