TUBERCULOSIS

HOW CONTRACTED!
HOW PREVENTED!
HOW TREATED!

A public meeting will be held in the Hayden-Gibson Theatre, on Thursday evening, October 28th, at 8 o'clock sharp for the purpose of organizing an "Association for the prevention of Tuberculosis" in Carleton County.

Speakers will be present from the Canadian Association at Ottawa, as well as from the Maritime associations and other centres.

We want the support of everyone in this movement as it is of the utmost importance to this County.

The numbers of deaths from this dread disease alone in the maritime provinces last year exceeded 3000 persons—of all deaths in the Dominion between the ages of 25 and 35 years—nearly one half are due to consumption. It is calculated that in Canada at the present moment between 50,000 and 60,000 persons are suffering from this disease—but it is a curable disease and there is no doubt but that a general knowledge and the use of the simple and effective methods known would practically eliminate the disease in one or two generations so we want your co-operation; we want enthusiasm; help along the good work. Remember the date, Thursday evening, Oct. 28th, in the Hayden-Gibson Theatre. Free Admission.

Mr. Flemming Plays to the Gallery And His Bluff is Called.

We reprint from the Telegraph of Tuesday the 19th the following letter. Mr. Flemming has evidently overlooked the fact that there are some orangemen in the province who are not easily fooled and one of these in the letter appended has shown how far the zeal of Mr. Flemming goes.

To the Editor of the Telegraph: Sir,—I was somewhat surprised on reading the report of the Hon Mr. Flemming's address at the Orange Fair to find that "he advocated the display of the flag upon every school house. I have quoted from the Standard, though I find that all the newspapers of Friday morning give the same report of Mr. Flemming's address. I say I was somewhat surprised to find Mr. Flemming making a statement of this kind, because every Orangeman who is in touch with the work of the Orange Association, knows that the government, of which Mr. Flemming is an important part, turned down the request of the Orange Association last year on the ground that to ask, or rather demand, that the flag be flown on all school houses every school day of the year would be an arbitrary measure and not suitable to certain classes in the province. Mr. Flemming's government also claimed that it would be too expensive a matter as the cost of flags and poles for the different schools of the province would amount to a large bill. Now, however, we find that Mr. Flemming is urging the flying of the flag. Does it mean that Mr. Flemming is not considering that class of people to whom the flying of the flag might prove objectionable, or does he see another one of his surpluses in sight so that he feels he may advocate this measure, or is Mr. Flemming simply doing as he has done so many times—playing to the gallery?

This matter of flying the flag on all school buildings or premises every school day in the year is one of importance to the Orangemen of the province. Three years ago while the present Minister of Public Works, Dr. Pugsley, was premier of the province, a committee from the Orange Association waited on him and he, after listening to these proposals, promised consideration and as a result passed legislation practically covering everything the association had asked. When the Grand Lodge met in St. John in 1908 and the committee reported the report was adopted, but in view of the fact that a new government had gone into power—a government formed lately of Orangemen—four of the seven are members of the Orange Association—it was felt that the time was opportune to get the further legislation in the matter of the flying of the flag. But when the Grand Master, as the representative of the association, waited upon the government, he received little encouragement, in fact nothing which would lead him to hope that this measure would receive sympathy, let alone support, from the government. And the reasons stated above were given.

In view of these facts does it not seem as though Mr. Flemming is playing to the gallery? I would like, through your paper to ask the Orangemen of St. John, who no doubt gave generous applause to Mr. Flemming's speech and also applauded the Hon Mr. Maxwell, how much faith have they in sincerity of these gentlemen. I have more faith in the intelligence of the association as a whole than Mr. Flemming evidently has, and do not think he can pull the sheepskin over our eyes as easily as he may think it can be done.

Band Matters.

Now that the open air concert season is over and the band has settled down to hard practice, we think a few words regarding band matters will not be amiss. The great trouble that Woodstock had to contend with in the past was the scarcity of players and the same difficulty presents itself now. We have at the present time only fifteen pieces and if these men could get away on an engagement and could always be on hand at rehearsals we would have a band big enough for our town. But here is where the trouble lies. We have but one each of several of the heavy instruments and should that particular player be prevented by sickness or other cause from attending practice, or going on an engagement, the band is all at sea. We must have new members if we expect to have a band. There are openings for young men to learn, Baritone, Bass drum, snare drum, trombone, cornet and clarinet and tuition will be free to those who desire to become bandmen.

We have one of the best instructors in Canada and it is a privilege that but few towns enjoy and one that should be taken advantage of by the young men. Speaking to several young men on the subject they have given as their reason for not joining that it would probably interfere with their work and that their employers objected to them playing in bands. To these I would say that in very few cases will band and business clash in Woodstock, for the simple reason that engagements are very few and the evening concerts can be placed just as well on closing nights as on open, thereby giving everyone a chance. In Fredericton at the present time there is one band of thirty-six members with several boys learning, another band of twenty pieces, and a new band just starting with a membership of sixteen, a total of seventy-two young men in the band business, and all these men work under the same condition as exist in Woodstock. In proportion to population

Woodstock should have at least thirty or thirty-five active bandmen instead of sixteen. We trust the young men of the town will take advantage of this opportunity to get a first class musical education free of all charges.

Application for membership will be received by any member of the band, but only those who mean business need apply. To the young man who wants it means staying off the streets at night, for he needs all his spare time for practice. Boys starting now will be playing with the band next season and we know they will never regret the start. There are only two ways to make a band, either to start young players, or to bring musician from outside and give them employment. We have applications at present from musicians who wish to locate here. One man in particular, a very fine musician, is very anxious to secure employment, but up to the present time we have been unsuccessful in securing a position for him. We hope that merchants and all business men will take a hand in this matter and help the band by encouraging young men to become members, and if they have to secure men from outside to fill positions try and get musicians.—Com.

What Does It Mean? (No. 2.)

To The Editor of The Sentinel:

In the publication of last week we have noticed a letter over the signature X Y Z, and we admit the inclination to ask the writer the same question as that which appears over his letter, or in other words, kindly explain.

The writer quotes with capitals the Bijou Theatre announcement with the apparent object of showing the incongruity of the word "classy," as referring to the arrival of the talented and popular lady pianist, Miss Doherty. But "owing to the ubiquity of the Irish race, the name was somewhat dubious, but not impossible." This because of the use of the above word.

As critique the writer is exercising an undoubted right and reference to the dictionary quite natural, but he forgets, probably, that there are many words in current use for which he would look in vain in the dictionary, and also a number which convey at the present time an entirely different meaning to what they did in the past. Not very long ago, the word "intensity" was unknown. A literary gent once declared to a friend that he could invent a word which would be generally known and repeated amongst the people of the city or town. The challenge was accepted and the other caused to be posted in several places, the word "quizz." Hence its present meaning. The clipping or abbreviation of certain words that they may appear novel and "catchy" is quite common, and as the word "classy" for high class, order or rank has been occasionally used, the writer of the ad, no doubt, used it off hand, and without the slightest doubt that it would be misunderstood. Its use conveys no pretense to high coloring, for Miss D. in her proficiency of the gifted art, and the sweet harmony and pleasing effect of her renditions of high class music are in themselves a leading attraction.

Although our friend, who mentions his curiosity did not see the "importation" as mentioned, the personal reference which follows seems irrelevant and puzzling.

The exaltation of Celtic womanhood has been a theme of poets and historians. Britain's Empire, and our near neighbors of the Great Republic constantly endorse the deserved tributes to the glorious achievements wrought by those of the great Celtic race—Saints, scholars and heroes, from the antiquity of the days of Niall of the nine hostages, who drove the invading Romans to the Alps, and later King Brian, who crushed the designs of the Danes to the lately retired hero of the Admiralty, Lord Berosford. We should therefore, freely excuse the personal reference mentioned, and refrain from misjudging. But, friend, why intimate an inability to distinguish a fore and aft schooner from a full rigged ship. We really do not understand why they might not as easily be distinguished by any lady of refinement, as an aeroplane from an air balloon, or the different terms in vogue at the golf links. A B C.

That "Classy" Pianist.

In regard to the article signed X Y Z in the preceding issue of the SENTINEL, the management of the Bijou Theatre regrets that the advertisement in question caused X Y Z so much bewilderment, still, the obvious purpose of an advertisement is to attract attention. If X Y Z had ever strayed beyond the limits of his native town he would understand the use of the word "Classy" in our advertisement. "Our Classy Pianist is here." Any grammar school boy will tell you that "Classy" is used there as an adjective. X Y Z in his haste to refer to his dictionary (which some people use instead of common sense) neglected to notice that he found the word "Classy" used as a noun; so the management feels that the gentleman cannot claim that any misstatement was made about our high class pianist, even if X Y Z was disappointed to find that she did not attempt to "climb the rigging" of the piano or any similar nautical feat. Nevertheless, if X Y Z wishes, his ten cents will be refunded (if he can prove that he was not admitted on a complimentary ticket) as the Bijou Theatre wishes to live up to its well deserved reputation of always pleasing its patrons. Signed, C H SEYMOUR.

Obituary

The death of Mr. Matthew P. Shaw occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Porter at Westfield Village, Me. Saturday October 9th 1909. The cause was heart failure aggravated by other disorders. Mr. Shaw was born in New Brunswick and at his death was sixty four years of age. He came to Maine seventeen years ago and settled at Smyrna Centre, where he purchased and conducted a large farm until a short time ago. This he sold and a few months ago came to Westfield Me. When a young man Mr. Shaw took to wife Miss Lydia Wright of Sussex N. B. but she preceded him to the higher life seven years ago. Six children survive him two sons and four daughters; Geo. B. of Butte Montana Wendall P. of Presque Isle Me, and Mrs. H. W. Shaw of Smyrna Centre, Mrs. R. J. Mean Windsor N. B. Mrs. J. B. Shaw Bristol N. B. and Mrs. J. W. Porter Westfield Me, where he died. For several years Mr. Shaw has been in poor health but kept around until some five weeks ago when he took to his room where he died. He was at times a great sufferer but bore it all without complaining. In early life he embraced the Christian faith and became a follower of the Lord and lived and died strong in the faith of the fathers and filled with the glorious hope of immortality with Christ. Oft in his suffering he spoke of the home over the river and the rest prepared for the children of God.

The funeral service was held Thursday, Oct. 12th, consisting of singing by the Westfield choir. Scripture reading and prayer at the house after which the remains were conveyed by train to Smyrna Mills, where service was held in the M. E. church. Rev. A. E. Saunders of Easton F. B. Church his last pastor officiating. Text Rev. 14:13. Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord.

The choir of the church rendered beautiful and appropriate selections. Mr. J. Everett a close friend of the family went with the remains from Westfield and conducted the services through out. The pall bearers were A. Leavitt, Philip Shaw, Wm. Shaw and B. Pomeoy old friends of the deceased.

During the last illness of Mr. Shaw he was tenderly cared for by Mr. and Mrs. Porter in every way and was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Shaw, of Presque Isle.

Interment was made in the Smyrna Mills, cemetery by the side of the departed wife and mother.

Vancouver B. C.

Mr. J. A. McDonald, K. C., who has been the leader of the opposition in the B. C. government has resigned. It has been currently reported that he will be elevated to the bench. Mr. John Oliver of Delta has been appointed his successor, Mr. Oliver is known as "Honest John," and is one of the successful farmers of B. C. He is an able speaker and a thorn in the flesh of the present government, at a meeting held in Rensselaer hall this city on the 11th inst, under the auspices of the young Liberal association he was given a grand reception. In an able and eloquent manner he exposed the maladministration of the present government of this province. In all the departments—the Crown land, their railway policy, the fisheries and the oriental question. In the Financial department he said "any 15 year old school boy could be more accurate with estimates and figures than the finance minister. The Finance minister's calculation of estimates and expenditures were 80 per cent short as the records will show" (The whole outfit reminds one very much of the pure Tory government in N. B.) He said, "Mr. Bowser, the Attorney General, is the Napoleon Bonaparte of the conservative party. He is the brave fighter who goes to England, gets an introduction to the Privy Council and loses his suit. This gentleman has fought the Dominion Government on every point, and on every point the courts have decided against him." The speaker very clearly demonstrated the fact that the great prosperity of this city and province was not the result of any legislation enacted in Victoria, but the policy of the Federal government causing the North-west to be peopled with farmers whose abundant harvests causes the money to flow this way in exchange for the lumber, fish and fruit of B. C. This meeting was the first public reception of Mr. Oliver as leader of the Liberal party in the city and was presided over by Mr. G. E. McCrossan, leader of the above association. Mr. Ralph Smith M. P. and Mr. L. D. Taylor spoke briefly. The meeting closed at a late hour after singing "God save the King." Cheers and a tiger was given for Oliver.

The friends of Mr. F. H. Hale will be pleased to learn that he is restored to his usual health after passing through a critical operation for kidney trouble in the hospital. Mr. Wm. Loan, who arrived in this city some time since, is working at his trade on Westminster Ave. He is on the look out for a suitable location to establish a business for himself. In looking around the city and seeing the rush of business and the manner by which it is conducted,

Derrah vs Bently.

In the circuit court the case of assault came up before Judge Landry of Derrah vs Bently. It seems that a horse that belonged to Bently had gotten into the hay, potato and field of Amos Derrah and on being discovered by Derrah was driven into his stable and tied in a stall. Word being sent to Bently to come and get it. Bently came and while in the stable a fracas ensued in which Derrah gave evidence that Bently struck him over the head with a piece of board rendering him unconscious, and Mrs. Derrah mother of the young man gave evidence that Bently kicked her on the leg and body thereby incapacitating her for general work for five or six weeks.

Bently gave evidence that he, when he got to the stable to take the horse out, Derrah "put the boots" to him and "booted" him as he went out of the stable and that Derrah also threw rocks at him. That he did not lose his temper while Derrah was "booting" him nor did he swear any. The petit jury which consisted of twelve good men and true retired and changed the case from aggravated assault to that of common assault and brought in a verdict of guilty against Bently.

Judgement in the case was reserved until Thursday morning. Solicitor General McLeod opened the case to the jury while F. B. Carvell M. P. defended Bently.

The Judge's decision was $20.00 fine or three months imprisonment.

Wedding Bells at Muniac.

A very pretty wedding took place on Oct. 12th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Miles, when their youngest daughter, Annie Alberta was given in marriage to Mr. Thomas Oron Morehouse, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Morehouse of Kilburn, N. B.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white silk with bridal veil and flowers, carrying a large bouquet of white roses and ferns.

At sharp four p. m. while the wedding march was being played by Miss Clara Kimball, the bride and groom appeared; the groom was unattended, the bride was escorted to the altar by her father, making a fine appearance as they passed through an aisle formed by six ribbon girls very prettily attired for the occasion. Also little Paul Mavor acting as flower boy, neatly dressed in a Russian suit of white velvet.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. M. Mallory, uncle of the groom, in the presence of one hundred and twenty guests.

After the ceremony all repaired to the dining room where a sumptuous repast was in waiting prepared by a genial host and hostess, that would tempt the most delicate appetite.

The presents were both numerous, costly and useful including a number of cash envelopes showing the high esteem in which the young couple were held by the community.

The happy couple will reside at Kilburn followed by the best wishes and kind regards of their many friends for a long and happy life.

Disastrous Fire at Quebec.

A fire broke out shortly after eight o'clock in one of the immense grain elevators of the Canadian Northern, Oct. 17th and spread to the custom house, police station, storage plant. There were 150,000 bushels of grain in the elevator which was destroyed. 15,000 packages of butter in the storage plant and other merchandise. The loss is estimated at between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000. One fireman was killed and another severely injured. It was found necessary to move the C. P. R. steamship, the Empress of Ireland which was laying at the dock. Practically everything on the embankment was destroyed including a train of loaded cars. The firemen made a determined fight at the customs house to check the advance of the flames. Fireman Fortier who was operating a hose from the top of an extension ladder assisted by Canadian locomotive firemen were precipitated to the ground thirty-five feet below killing Fortier who fell on his head, but Martel is reported not to be seriously injured.

The property is only partially covered by insurance.

Having adopted the Cash system in their business, Gibson and Ross are putting on sale each Saturday until further notice, different lines of goods, which are new and staple, and are only offered once and that on the day advertised, it may save you dollars to watch their ads, as you are sure of getting good bargains.
