Temperance Items.

A few lines in reference to the workings of the temperance people in town. It is no common talk that they have accomplished nothing. This is very true, and why here lies the bare-faced reason. First, the officers; and here we are at the presiding judge, who has for so long held full control. And it might be asked why was full control placed in the hands of one man. This explanation lies in the influence of a wall of wealth. The different ways that people get connected fast to this wall of wealth is the cause of so much control being placed in one man who could be held so long in power of everybody, and now it seems as if the hand of the law had taken hold to remove this stumbling block, and here we are up against this wall of wealth or influence in the appointment of a successor.

Why was an honest upright man with good principles like Stevens that couldn't be bought, turned down and two men like the two referred to settle the dispute where neither had the good wishes of either the temperance people nor the good reliable citizens who helped to elect the two members, they should have stood up on their feet and dealt fair and square as men appointed by the people to deal, for why should they be influenced by anything but the people's wish by their decision they turned down the good work of the christian churches in the temperance cause called for by the laws of God. This is where the whole trouble lies today that our officers and members dare not stand out and deal fair and square with the people and learn every man that he has got to stand on his own merits and not be influenced by any means to give people public positions to persons who their past conduct does not prove them worthy. This is one of the wrongs of any party. One of the principal troubles of the temperance people today is the friction between the different churches and the friction amongst themselves. They do not stand shoulder to shoulder regardless of any friend who may be a stumbling block. Friend or church or party must be set aside and all pull together. The Hazen government is supposed not to be in sympathy with the temperance people on account of the friction in their ranks in the past. The local government and the federal have got to some day line up and give a hearing as the temperance cause is bound to come to the front. Look at the city of Glasgow with its thousands starving on account of liquor. The king on the throne is in trouble and don't know how to go to work to reform in the mother country. This country is in its infancy compared with the old country and now let us make up our minds that it is our duty to take a hand and stop it in time. Look at the murdering, train wrecks and crimes of all kinds due to rum and then hear our dominion boast of the revenue of seven millions got out of rum. Compare the loss of life and income of population and damage to property and loss of all kinds due to liquor and you will find there is over ten dollars damage for every one of gain and then consider the odds that should be shown to the temperance people and see their endeavor tramped down, and they are in the best work laid down in the laws of God.—TEMPERANCE WORKERS.

Andover.

Miss Edna Sisson gave a very pleasant party to her young friends on Wednesday evening.

Among those who attended the "Burns" celebration and helped to eat the "Haggis" were Mr and Mrs N W Johnston, Mr and Mrs Spike, Mrs Davis Judson, Manzer and Miss Manzer, Guy Porter, Mr McQuarrie, Capt Barle, Misses Pearl Waite, Eva Cameron, Mable Peat, Rosa Hoyt, Iate Olgilvie and Thos Cameron. The concert was much enjoyed as was also the singing and piping of Mr Ross, St John, who also danced the Highland Fling. After the supper was served dancing was indulged in until the "ama wee hours."

On Saturday evening Mr and Mrs M H Craig, Lower Perth, celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedding. About one hundred guests were present. A nice programme was carried out after which a splendid supper was served.

The Perth schools are still closed on account of scarlet fever and chicken pox.

Town Council.

Not since the good old days when the members of the board deliberated in their shirtsleeves and seldom adjourned until the lights went out has there been a more lively meeting of the council than that of Tuesday evening. The Mayor and Couns Dugan, Fisher, Fawcett, Hagerman and Ketchum were present.

The principal hairtangling was in connection with filling the offices. As one gentleman elected to the board had neglected to qualify, the seat was declared vacant and a new election for a councillor ordered, with nomination on the 25th inst and polling Monday, March 1st. J C Hartley, Frank Foster, W B Nicholson and John P Malaney are the returning officers. Pending the by-election, Coun Dugan asked that the offices be not filled. The mayor suggested that in any instances where the board were unanimous it would be well to appoint such officers, leaving the contentious items until the March meeting. A motion that all the offices be filled was carried, however, the yeas being Couns Fawcett, Fisher and Ketchum.

J C Hartley was unanimously chosen town clerk at a salary of $150.

Coun Ketchum nominated H W Bourne for Town Treasurer and Collector of Water Rates, at a salary of $400, being an increase of $100. Coun Dugan strongly protested against voting away public money. If Mr Bourne would not do the work for the same money as last year there were several capable men who would undertake the contract. He didn't believe in letting any one man run the whole show. Coun Fawcett agreed with Coun Dugan's sentiments. The other two councillors spoke in favor of Coun Ketchum's motion. Coun Dugan in amendment nominated Claude M Aughterton for the position. On a division Capt Bourne was chosen, the vote standing

For Bourne—Couns Ketchum, Fisher, Hagerman.

For Aughterton—Couns Dugan and Fawcett.

Owen Kelly was re-appointed Chief of Police, Town Marshal and Poor Commissioner at the same salary as last year. Thomas McCarron was re-appointed night watch.

H W Bourne sent a letter refusing appointment as associate assessor. This was accepted, and on motion of Coun Hagerman John Thibbadeau was selected to fill the position.

Coun Dugan moved that John Lindsay, Scott Act Inspector, be dismissed. This was seconded by Coun Fawcett. The motion being put, was lost, only the mover and seconder voting in its favor.

Coun Ketchum gave notice of motion concerning an amendment to the license by-law, increasing the yearly fee on outside persons coming here to conduct mercantile pursuits, from $100 to $300.

Coun Dugan, in compliance with a request from the W C T U, moved that the other members of the council be added to the Scott Act committee. The motion was not seconded. The Mayor said he had no desire to change the make-up of the committee, having full confidence in it as at present constituted, and any way would have ruled the motion out of order had it been seconded. Upon the advice of the clerk being asked that official said the point of order would have been well-taken, as a motion on the same lines at a previous meeting was defeated, and reconsideration could be moved only by someone voting previously for the existing make-up.

Council, after hearing several bills, adjourned until Friday night. On Jan 30th the Town Account at the Bank of Montreal was overdrawn $2971.26.

Hon Mr Brodeur Compares Records with Mr Foster.

(Ottawa Free Press)

Hon Mr Brodeur was thoroughly justified on Friday night in exposing the striking difference between the manner in which the affairs of the department of marine and fisheries were administered by Mr Foster and that in which they have been administered by himself. He said:

"As to my public career as minister of marine and fisheries, I am not afraid, either, to compare my record with the record of the hon member for North Toronto. He was for a number of years minister of marine and fisheries, and what did he do to reform that department? Let him point to one single action of his when minister where he tried to reform the department. He did nothing, he let things drag on as they had been doing for years. He allowed the same abuses to continue that had been existing before he took hold of the department, and he never had the courage to effect a single reform in that department, as I have done. Sir, I have effected considerable reforms in that department, and if today I am attacked by some of the Tory newspapers and by the Hon member for North Toronto, it is because I have reformed the administration of that department. In the first place we had a bad system of keeping accounts. That system existed when my hon friend was minister of marine and fisheries, and what did he do to remove it? Nothing at all. I have reformed that, and today the abuses which existed under my hon friend's administration have disappeared, and we have now a clear and strict administration of that department.

"Hon gentlemen who were then members of the House will remember the hon member for North Toronto last session referring time and again to Merwin and Brooks and to the minister of marine and fisheries who, he said, was still doing business with Merwin and Brooks. I was attacked and attacked by the hon member for North Toronto on that ground. Let him read the report of Mr Justice Cassels and he will find that the charge which was made against me in that connection is absolutely groundless; in fact, it is stated that the purchases which had been made from Merwin and Brooks were made contrary to and in disobedience of the instructions that I had given by an officer of the department appointed by my hon friend for North Toronto. If there is anybody who is at fault it is not myself, but it is the hon member for North Toronto who has placed in the service, men who will not fulfil the instructions of their ministers, men who have been disobeying the instructions of their ministers.

"My aim upon going into the department was to reform that department and put it on a proper basis. Abuses of the worst kind have crept in, I admit, abuses which had existed since confederation, which had existed under the Liberal government."

Mr Brodeur was able to point to cases in which Conservative members had nominated merchants for place on the patronage list, among them being that eminent purist, Mr J D Hazen, now premier of New Brunswick, and to recall an instance wherein Sir Hilbert Tupper had allowed a Conservative member to inspect tenders before they were accepted by the Governor-in-Council, and was therefore fully warranted in declaring:

"How did the former government proceed? How did he proceed himself? In 1891 and 1892, when officers were charged with being delinquent in their duty, what did he do? Of course he was not minister of marine, but he was a minister of another department in which some officers were also charged. Did he appoint a judge to investigate the conduct of those officers and of the ministers who might be reproached as to their conduct? No, my hon friend was too cautious for that, he did not do what I did, he simply appointed himself a commission in order to investigate the conduct of those officers.

vestigation and we appointed a judge to conduct the investigation and lawyers to assist him. We have had examined everything connected with the administration of the department of marine and fisheries, and all of the evidence taken during the investigation can be found in the reports which have been laid before parliament. Did my hon friend bring down to parliament the evidence which he took when he appointed himself a commissioner? No, he kept it for himself, and now because a minister tries to do the right thing, he is branded as a stupid and foolish man. I followed the course which I took because I was not afraid; my hon friend perhaps would not have followed the same course, it might have been stupid on his part. I made it my duty to have an investigation by an independent judge and the result is as satisfactory as can be expected in the circumstances. For my part I am satisfied with the result of the investigation and in spite of the insinuations of my hon friend, in spite of his calling me stupid, I say that I stand justified before the country, having done my duty fearlessly, having done my duty to my friends, my duty to my party and my duty to the country which I have the honor to serve."

Danville.

As I haven't seen any items from this place for some time I thought a few would not be unappreciated.

Snow storms are following one another in rapid succession, making it difficult for lumbermen of these parts to penetrate its depths.

The many friends of Edward McDade learned with deep regret of his death which occurred at his home in Woodstock on the 22nd inst. Mr McDade formerly of East New-Bridge had been in poor health for some months previous to his death, from the effects of paralysis. His remains were interred in the Woodstock cemetery on Monday.

Miss Eva Gallagher has charge of the school again and is doing satisfactory work.

Miss Gertrude Crayne, Hartland was a recent visitor in Danville.

A jollification for the members of the choir of St Joseph's church was held by Rev Father Bradley on Saturday evening, Jan 16th at the home of D Gallagher. About all the members were present. His reverence also presiding. The proceedings were enjoyed by all; violin music with accompaniment brings the chief source of pleasure. At midnight a repast was served and relished by all.

Murray Gallagher who was employed as cook for Mr Upham has returned home.

We are glad to hear of the recovery of little Eda Gibbons, who has been troubled for some weeks with an abscess.

Miss Abiel Gallagher of this place is teaching the Newburg school this term.

The choir practised at Daniel Gallagher's on Friday evening.

Chas Sparrow and family have moved to Newburg for the winter.

Mrs Rosie Sparrow is receiving congratulations on the arrival of a little son, the father of whom met his death by drowning some months before.

Rev Father Bradley celebrated high mass here on the usual 3rd Sunday of the month. The attendance was small on account of the bad condition of the roads.—STAR-LIGHT.

A CHARLOTTETOWN VIEW.

The Charlottetown Guardian (Independent Prohibition), discusses the temperance situation in New Brunswick:

"A strong temperance delegation waited upon Premier Hazen in St John on Thursday last and backed by a petition with over ten thousand signatures asked that the government should adopt the policy of provincial prohibition. The case was very ably presented but the reply of the Premier was quite disappointing and indicated that so far as the present government is concerned the prayer of the petitioners will not be complied with.

"His objections were of the stock variety and many of them weak. Only the federal parliament had the power to prohibit the manufacture, sale and importation of liquors; New Brunswick once had a prohibitory law and repealed it; so had the Northwest Territories and Manitoba; New Brunswick counties now generally have the Scott Act which forbids local prohibition—and so on. But it was over fifty years since New Brunswick tried a prohibitory law. The influx of a vast foreign born population into Manitoba and the North west make conditions, and local prohibition in Prince Edward Island has proved the most powerful instrument for the repression of the liquor traffic yet tried in Canada.

"Premier Hazen of course promised his earnest consideration to the petition of the temperance people. His reply as a whole indicates that so far his earnest consideration has been given to framing plausible reasons for continuing present conditions in which the strong liquor interests in St John is entrenched behind the license law. He has by his reply given the Opposition in New Brunswick the opportunity of a lifetime to take up prohibition and rally to their standard the religious, moral humane order-loving majority of the community.

"The situation in New Brunswick affords the best possible opportunity for leaders with a little political courage to take up prohibition as a rallying cry, carry it to a triumphant issue and confer an inestimable boon upon the community. Planked by the prohibition state of Maine on the one side and Prince Edward Island on the other, and with the strong temperance sentiment in Nova Scotia to the south and east, New Brunswick is not only ripe for prohibition, but is admirably situated to make it effective. The political strength of the liquor interest has been always greatly overrated. Once resolutely and persistently attacked its weakness will be speedily demonstrated."

"Reuben and His Sweetheart" was put on Tuesday night in the new theatre and proved to be one of the best attractions ever given here. The company carry an excellent band and orchestra, the best show musical organizations seen here for years. Prof Harry W Lee of this town is the musical director, and an excellent one at that.

Mrs M E Alguire, New Brunswick manager for the Spirella Co, makers of the famous Spirella Corsets, is in town, and can be seen any evening at the Carlisle Hotel by local ladies interested or will make appointments to call, at their homes. Call up 'phone 25.
