

UNION BLEND TEA

the Tea that satisfies

YOU are the best judge of how much Union Blend Tea is worth—but you can't pass an opinion until you have tried it. You are in no position to say—as I say—that it's worth 40c. a pound because it goes easily half as far again as any 80c. tea. You don't know the truth of that until you use it for yourself.

But that's a fact. Sixteen ounces of Union Blend will make as much tea as twenty-four ounces of any ordinary kind. And not only as much tea, but better tea—tea that is more fragrant, that has more aroma, more smack to it.

There is only one way for you to prove this—buy a pound and try it. Or if you are in doubt, let a half pound packet tell the story. Your own teacup will convince you if you will give it the opportunity. Look for my picture on the end of the packet.

Union Blend one pound packets—the pound packets only—contain coupons that are worth money to you. But this is the only advertisement—the tea itself is worth the price, full.

I Take all the Risk

THERE would be no sense in my spending thousands of dollars in advertising if I couldn't back up what I say. If you try Union Blend and don't like it, I am worse off than before, for I can never get you to try again. To make money, I've got to make satisfied customers—and I do. Of all who once buy Union Blend ninety-five per cent. continue to use it. You know what that means, don't you? What will your decision be?

THE EYES.

The eyes are the windows through which the soul looks out upon the world. There is no need of having them darkened or defective. Don't tamper with unknown inexperienced oculists. Vision too precious to have them scientifically fitted with glasses; DON'T DELAY.

For instance—Mrs. Freeman wife of the Rev. Mr. B. L. Freeman, for 7 years pastor of the Centerville Baptist church was troubled by defective sight. Five specialists treated her, one in New York, one in Boston, one in Halifax, one in St. John, one in Woodstock, N. B. She could not wear their glasses and her eyes grew worse. Two years ago just before moving to R. C. with her husband she came to me. I treated her by my new discovery and supplied her with glasses. She now writes me as follows: "The glasses are a perfect fit. You evidently have the right theory. My eyes are better than for years. Many thanks. MRS. R. L. FREEMAN."

If your eyes trouble you at all, come in and let me examine them FREE. I would also like to call your attention to a new line of Jewellery just in, finer and more beautiful than I have ever carried before, my souvenir goods especially will interest and attract you. Prices of course are right, that is why my trade grows.

Thanking my former patrons and soliciting a trial from new ones, I am respectfully yours.

Measuring the Water Supply.

Much attention is now being given by the Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior (which also has charge of irrigation work) to the inauguration and operation of a hydrographic survey in Southern and Southwestern Saskatchewan, and this topic is given special attention in the report of the Department for 1909, lately issued.

The object of the survey is to ascertain the amount of water available in the various streams measured at all seasons such as periods of flood, low water and intermediate stages. Reliable information is thus to be obtained by which may be regulated not only the amount of water to be disposed of for irrigation purposes, but also the amount of water to be allowed for the domestic water supply of the rapidly growing cities and towns in these districts as these outgrow their present sources of supply, and also the amount available for power purposes.

Data will also be procured as to possible sources of supply and sites for reservoirs.

Three parties of two men each have been working in the Calgary, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat districts, respectively. Their duties are to establish gauge rods, in streams suitable points and to arrange with some capable person in the vicinity to take daily observations of the height of water and to report these periodically to the chief hydrographer. At each of these points the bed of the stream is carefully measured, and an instrument known as a "current meter" is employed to determine the rate at which the water is flowing. From these data can be calculated the volume of water in the stream at different periods.

After these observations have been continued for several years pretty accurate and reliable results can be obtained as to the volume of water in the stream.

In the rapid development of the West, agriculturally and industrially, such information cannot fail to be of the utmost importance and merits increasing attention being given to it.

The report also treats at some length of the more important irrigation projects. One of these is the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, which comprises a tract of some 3,000,000 acres, situated along the Bow River, eastward from Calgary. Of this tract some 2,000,000 acres is considered irrigable, and to develop this will require an outlay of about $2,000,000. The Southern Alberta Land Company has now under construction a system of canals for the irrigation of a large tract of land lying between the Bow and Belly rivers and near Medicine Hat. The Alberta Railway and Irrigation Company, the pioneer irrigation company in Canada, has a canal system which covers a large tract in the vicinity of Lethbridge, a tract of country in the development of which irrigated farming has taken a prominent part. This company has expended considerably over $1,000,000 on its system of canals.

Many other interesting topics are taken up in the report, which may be had from R. H. CAMPBELL, SUPERINTENDENT OF FORESTRY.

School Examination at East Newbridge.

The school at East Newbridge closed on Friday 17th inst.

The public examination was held in the day time and a nicely arranged programme was carried out in the evening by the pupils, beginning at 7 o'clock and continuing until 10:30 before an audience of over fifty people.

The school was prettily decorated for the occasion with evergreens.

The first on the programme was a song by the school, "Evening Bells," next a recitation "Paul Veneze" by Clara McCarty which won great applause.

A dialogue "Keeping Store" was well performed by Jeanie and Earl Price and Bernard McCarty.

An appropriate selection; "Vacation Song" was well sung by the school.

A comic recitation by Gertrude Price, "Biddy's Cough" called forth hearty laughter.

"Little Knd" was beautifully recited by Jennie Price. A Santa Claus dialogue followed this when old Saint Nick himself appeared, causing the children to drop their fun making of his whiskers and scamper to hiding places. This part of the program was a composition by the teacher Miss Gertrude McGuire.

A number of comic recitations, "The Maiden and the Crow," "Musement," "The Second Thought," "Guess what's in my Pocket" and "Guess Which" were well taken with gestures by the younger pupils.

The popular song "School Days" was sung by the teacher behind the curtain, and illustrated by two of her pupils.

Now a dialogue, "The Fairies," which fairly brought down the house was well carried out by Jennie, Blanch and Mildred Price, the latter made a pretty picture dressed as a fairy and as she softly glided along the plat-form sweetly humming and touching with her wand, the sleepers, a man in the audience exclaimed "I believe in fairies now."

Next in order was a dialogue, "Watching for Santa Claus," when Bernard McCarty hung up a treat of candy stockings for the pupils, acting his part with skill; and Earl Price hiding behind the chair brought forth many a hearty laugh.

A dialogue, "The troubled House-keeper" was nicely carried out, and very interesting. This also was composed by the teacher.

Then followed a song "Welcome to Friends," the latter part being sung as the scholars marched round the school. After this a number of other comic dialogues and pieces were delivered most charmingly by the older pupils.

Two dialogues, "The Spanish Valet and the Waiting Maid" and "Aunt Prue" caused great merriment throughout the school; the former was acted by Dave McFadden and the teacher and the latter by the teacher and Miss Cassie McDade.

Near the closing of the program, three visitors Leota Lawrence, Newburg, Marguerite McAffrey, Woodstock, and little Mildred Clark, East Newbridge, delivered excellently a recitation each.

A valedictory which was to be read by Clara May McCarty was unfortunately lost a short time before the program commenced.

At the close the pupils circled round their teacher who was sitting on a chair and sang a "Farewell" to her.

This was followed by the teacher passing each pupil a Xmas card.

For a small school the lengthy and well arranged program was a surprise to many, and as one man said he never saw any better child-performer on a stage than little Mildred Price, six-year-old; and for a young teacher Miss McGuire was self-possessed and had confidence in herself and pupils who all did their parts well; congratulations were tendered at the close. Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Sheridan have returned to Lowell, Mass., after an extended visit at the latter's home, D. We wish them a long and happy married life.

Our school, under the supervision of Miss Mabelle Gallagher, closed on Friday last. A nicely arranged programme was recited by some thirty or more pupils. Quite a number of visitors were present. After the programme, the gifts on the Xmas tree (which was prettily decorated) were disposed of. After the usual "God Save the King," refreshments of candy, cake and tea were served and relished by all.

Sure of His Generosity

(Rod and Gun.)

Alfred G Vanderbilt, at one of the many horse show dinners given in his honor in New York last month, told an amusing story of a groom and a turkey.

"I had promised this groom," he said, "a Christmas turkey, but somehow in the rush and flurry of December, I forgot it. It was some days after Christmas when I remembered how I had overlooked my faithful old friend. Meeting him in the paddock one morning, and intending to make good my forgetfulness, I said to the groom by way of a joke: 'Well, Jenkins, how did you like that turkey I sent you?'"

"It was a very fine bird," said the groom. "I came very near losing it, though."

"How so," said I, astonished.

"Well, sir," said Jenkins, "Christmas morning came, and your turkey hadn't reached me, so I rushed right off to the express company and asked the manager what he meant by not sending the bird up. The manager apologized, sir, very politely, and he took me into a back room where there were ten or fifteen turkeys hanging, and he said the labels had been lost off all of them, and I'd just better take my choice. So I chose the largest, sir, knowing your generosity, and it was fine. It ate grand. Thank you very much indeed, sir."

His Present.

"What do you think your wife will give you for Christmas?"

"I'm not sure. I don't know whether she thinks the house needs most a new rug in the parlor or an easy rocking chair, but it will be one or the other, I'm certain."

A man shouldn't imagine himself to be a great dictator just because he employs a stenographer.
