Plain Talk by F. B. Carvell, to Conservatives.

Member for Carleton Dresses Down Lennox and Monk re Public Accounts Committee.

Mr Carvell brought up the Kelly Case in parliament last week, saying: "I desire to call the attention of the Prime Minister of Justice to a matter of considerable importance to a portion of the constituency which I represent. It is stated that a man named William J Kelly, living in Richmond, in the county of Carleton, N B, has been kidnapped by United States officers and is now incarcerated in jail in Portland, in the State of Maine. Of course, of this I have no proofs such as might be required in a court of law, but I have sufficient evidence in my hands to convince me that the man had been kidnapped. The circumstances of the case are as follows:—"

"It seems that about seven years ago this man was one night teaming a load of produce into the United States and was confronted by a gentleman who turned out to be a United States officer. The result was the officer fired on this man, Kelly, twice, one bullet taking effect in his cheek and another striking a buckle on a belt which he wore. Kelly seized a stick and in the end the officer was laid out and Kelly returned to his side of the line. That was seven years ago.

About three weeks ago a gentleman came to Kelly's residence in Richmond and wanted to buy some produce from him. Kelly succeeded in selling him some produce at a good price. Then the man wanted him to haul it to the United States but Kelly refused to do so. However, after considerable dickering, he agreed to take it to the boundary line. They started in the evening and came to a place called Union Corner where for about a quarter of a mile the highway road is, for all practical purposes, the boundary line. They had proceeded along this line 30 or 40 rods when a number of men appeared on the scene and Kelly was arrested, gagged, and carried off into the United States. I am satisfied that the boundary line is at least 3 or 4 rods to west of the point where Kelly was arrested. He is now incarcerated in jail in Portland and I would like to know if the government have any information on the subject and if they have, if they will give it to the House. Will they do what ever is possible in order to have this man set at liberty and to see that the rights of British subjects are not thus interfered with by American officers?

The Minister of Justice said in answer: "The matter to which Mr Carvell has brought to my attention is certainly one of great importance and one which will be, I have no doubt brought to the attention of the government of the United States, and given the most careful consideration. I may say to Mr Carvell that in a very general way the facts to which he referred were a few days ago brought to my attention in the shape of a letter from a gentleman of the vicinity who stated in substance what my friend has just stated to this House. I replied immediately, pointing out the necessity for the most careful accuracy in regard to the particulars of such an allegation, the importance of establishing, as definitely and certainly as evidence could establish such a fact, just where upon the highway, the actual arrest of Kelly took place also, if it was possible to establish it, whether or not the men who arrested him and carried him into the United States were officers authorized by any competent authority of either the federal or state government. I have not yet received any answer to the request for this information and until it is supplied in definite form and supported by the ordinary verification of affidavit or statutory declaration, we should hardly be in a position to ask the government of the United States to investigate the matter. But as soon as we are placed in possession of the necessary evidence in that regard, I shall see that steps are taken to bring it to the attention of His Majesty's representative in Washington and through him to that of the United States government.

Such cases as this, I may say, do occasionally arise, possibly from the over-zeal of officers on either side of the boundary. Occasionally a complaint is received that the sacred soil of the United States has been violated by some Canadian officer and similar cases, such as the hon. gentleman has mentioned, sometimes have been shown to exist where some officer of the United States has undertaken to execute his warrant upon the soil of Canada, which I need not say is equally sacred and which I am sure the government of the United States desires to preserve as equally sacred with their own. There has never been any difficulty put in the way of the most careful and thorough investigation of such charges when they are made, and if it can be established that in point of actual fact this man was deprived of his liberty while upon the soil of Canada, I think I can confidently assure my hon. friend that the fullest reparation will be made by the restoration of the man to Canadian soil.

It is claimed by Kelly that when he was arrested Nov. 17, by United States Deputy Marshal, Fred Stevens, and Deputy Collector, Victor Peters, he was on Canadian soil, while the officers claim that he was on the American side of the line. At the time he was driving a team loaded with hens, turkeys and farm produce and leading a cow behind and he was only subdued and ironed by the deputy marshal after a desperate struggle.

Upon their return to this city with Kelly it was stated that the man who had accompanied the alleged smuggler had escaped after a shot had been fired at him by Peters. According to Mr Carvell, the Canadian claim is that this man was not a friend of Kelly's as stated by the United States officers to the reporters, but a detective who was working in collusion with the federal officers, who was temporarily employed to entice Kelly across the line.

Mr Carvell would give out little of his talk with Kelly, but he acknowledged the interview would lead to further investigation. Kelly was to have been brought before the United States Circuit Court on its opening day, Tuesday next, on the old indictment charging him with an assault on Deputy Collector Burns, April 19, 1902, but out of courtesy to Mr Carvell, who will be unable to be present at that time, the trial will be postponed until Tuesday, December 28. In the meantime the federal grand jury which goes into session on Tuesday undoubtedly will be asked to consider two more charges, smuggling and resisting a federal officer, both these charges dating to the last arrest.

When asked whether the evidence brought out on the trial would determine if the case would be taken to the United States government by the Canadian government, Mr Carvell was diplomatically non-committal, but he intimated that his interview with Kelly was enough to satisfy him that there were grounds to proceed in the case.

In 1902, when Kelley was charged with assault on Deputy Collector Burns, the United States government instituted extradition proceedings, and at that time Mr Carvell was Kelley's attorney, and his client won out. Ever since the United States has been trying to capture Kelley. That the federal authorities are preparing for the possible coming international legal controversy is apparent from the fact that Deputy United States Marshall Winfield S Hasty and Deputy Collector Jenks have been surveying the ground where the federal officers claim they captured Kelley. These officers claim it was forty rods from the Canadian line in Maine. They also claim that the assault on Burns took place sixty rods from the line.

Mr. Carvell says that Kelley claims that Burns fired two shots at him and that he acted in self-defence. One shot struck him in the face and he bears the scar today, the other hit a belt buckle and this undoubtedly saved his life.

Mr Carvell returned to Woodstock last Friday on the noon express.

Canada Places Advantageous Loan in London Market.

London, Dec. 6.—A sharp rise was recorded last week in Canadian 3 1-2 per cent in consequence of the placing of Canadian treasury bills, amounting it is said, to £2,000,000, on the market, where rumors of a fresh loan have been circulating. The bills have been placed on terms thoroughly favorable to the dominion government.

The Standard remarks that "having regard to the present monetary conditions, we think the Canadian government is to be congratulated, first upon the policy of raising money at the present moment in short-term maturities rather than stock and second upon the terms on which the bills are sold."

As an offer to subscribers who have failed to renew, we are going to give, "The Home Journal" with the "Sentinel." The price of the Home Journal is $1.00 but by arrangements made with the publishers whereby we can offer this excellent journal with the SENTINEL for $1.50 for the two papers. It is a thoroughly good attractive magazine it is a necessity, not a luxury, in every Canadian household. This offer means cash in advance of course.

The Canadian Club Lecture.

The lecture by Governor Fraser last Thursday was largely attended by a attentive and appreciative audience. The governor was presented to the people by the chairman, Judge Carleton who said that he did not feel like thanking them for being present for when they heard the governor they would be thanking him and the Canadian Club who made it possible for him to be here. He went on to explain what the club stood for; that it stood for patriotism. Those who wished to become members could do so by handing in their names to the secretary, pay the usual dues and be prompt at the meetings of the Club. He then introduced his friend of many years, Lieutenant Governor Fraser.

The governor was eloquent and immensely pleased those present. He spoke of the great assets of this country, of the soil, waters and forests, but was afraid that the people were not following closely in the footsteps of the example shown them by their forefathers. He spoke of the home and its influences. That home should be, and was the hope of the nation. That home should be above social and club influence. That if Canada was to have citizens worth while, the children must love home more than the streets. The streets must not be more popular than the fireside.

That we must have a love for work. Must earn our own bread by the sweat of our brows. Someway we have the idea that we must look for soft snap in our labor. He had no love for millionaires, but the most of them gained their wealth by hard work. The man working in the ditch is just as good a man as the governor of the province, and a better man if he does his work well and the governor does not. What Canada needs at the present time is life duties well performed by labor. We should be thrifty, we should save a little and have some money for emergency. To be thrifty need not imply that we are mean. "Owe no man anything but love."

The Canadian Club should teach the proper views we should entertain for our country. Patriotism is best shown by making life better for the next generation. Every citizen should walk step by step firmly satisfied that he has done his duty to his God, his neighbor and himself. Canada is in danger only from ourselves who were given this land by God and to whom we will be accountable for the parts played by us. Canada is gathering together the best of every nation for the purpose of blending a into homogeneous whole. Then let Canada be patriotic to herself first and to all other nations afterwards.

Those who sat on the platform with the speaker were Sheriff Tompkins, Rev R W Weddall, C L S Raymond and Judge Carleton.

Sheriff Tompkins moved that a vote of thanks be given His Honor for the able address that was delivered and the views so pleasantly given us.

Mr Weddall seconded the motion of thanks on behalf of the Canadian Club and the gathering. Mr Weddall said that His Honor should have been a preacher. How well he had shown us the beauty of home life, the necessity of thriftiness and duty of good citizens. If we and our children are true to the blood within us, we can blend those vast crowds that are pouring into Canada and we will have even a better country.

The motion was then put and carried unanimously.

Judge Carleton conveyed to His Honor the thanks of the Canadian Club and audience for the magnificent, instructive and masterly address that he had given them.

Governor Fraser said he wished to return his thanks to all for the vote so heartily carried, "I am pleased," he said "that it was moved by the High Sheriff which assures me that I can get out of town without arrest. I am equally pleased that it was seconded by a clergyman, which shows that I have not gone astray in my theology. It is a pleasure for me to come to your pretty city, and I heartily enjoyed my visit.

At the conclusion of the lecture a dainty luncheon was partaken of at the Carleton in honor of the Governor which was attended by Rev G D Ireland, Rev F J McMurray, Rev H G Alder, Rev R W Weddall, Mayor A E Jones, Col D McLeod Vince, Dr R G Thompson, C A White, Sheriff J R Tompkins, and Postmaster C L Smith.

Confers with United States Authorities and Gets Client's Trial Postponed.

In the House of Commons on Nov 29 when the methods of the public accounts committee were under discussion Mr Lennox, of Simcoe, and Mr Monk, of Jacques Cartier, complained that the majority resisted or prevented a proper examination of witnesses. F B Carvell, M P, for Carleton county, promptly challenged their statements. He is reported as follows in Hansard:

Mr F B Carvell (Carleton, N B).—I am very much surprised at the statements of the honorable member for Simcoe (Mr Lennox) and the honorable member for Jacques Cartier (Mr Monk) if these came from other members of the opposition, I would say that they were drawing upon their imaginations, but my honorable friend from South Simcoe (Mr Lennox), I think, is the last person who ought to complain of the treatment he has received from the public accounts committee. I have been rather a regular attendant at the meetings of that committee during the past three or sessions—

Some honorable members—Hear, hear Mr Carvell.—And I challenge the honorable member for South Simcoe (Mr Lennox) to point out one specific case in which he ever asked a proper question for proper information and failed to have that question allowed.

Mr Lennox.—I may say that I have not asked many questions altogether in the public accounts committee and I do not recollect that my honorable friend ever interrupted me, and I would not be particular if he did, because I am able to fight my way, but I have heard, on many occasions, objections made on technical grounds to questions put.

Mr Carvell.—I knew that the honorable gentleman could not point to one instance when he put a proper question and it was objected to. But let me point out, what has occasioned this irritation on the part of the honorable members for Jacques Cartier (Mr Monk) and South Simcoe (Mr Lennox) and other of their friends. In the first place, they ask for the papers and the original papers are brought down. Then they ask that witnesses be summoned; and to the best of my recollection, there never has been a refusal to bring witnesses from any part of the country, from Atlantic to the Pacific. Thousands and ten thousands of dollars have been squandered bringing witnesses, who, not only could not give any information, but who, I believe, these gentlemen knew could not give any information but they brought them because they had some ulterior object in view. After asking a few questions, they drift off to some other outside matter, and

The Temperance Meeting on Sunday evening 28th ult. Under the auspices of the W C T U was largely attended and in every respect counted a success. The addresses delivered by Revs Steeves, Somers and Dow, were interesting.

The last number of the "Observer" was very newswy. Well patronized with advts. The Editor announced it a non-partizan paper. As long as he holds to its text the success of the paper is assured. The system is a curse to the county. Voters want to examine the character and ability of the candidate to fill the position and vote, for him on principle not party and we will have some hope of a pure government.

Chief of police A R Foster made recent seizures of liquor at Plaster Rock. The rummies have a hard road to travel while he is around.

Mr J T G Carr and Keith & Plummers

when members of the committee who have some regard for the rules of order and decency—

Some members—Oh, oh. Mr Carvell—attempt to hold them down to the question under discussion, these gentlemen make the charge that an attempt is being made to burk the investigation. Let them ask for their witnesses, and confine themselves to the subject matter under investigation and I can promise, as far as I am concerned, that they will meet with no difficulty, and I challenge them to point out where I or any other member, in the past four sessions, have attempted to obstruct investigation into any particular subject before the committee.

I am very glad this matter has come up. These accusations have been hurled at members on this side of the house from one end of Canada to the other. And I may say that my own name has been bandied about from the Atlantic to the Pacific as one of the leaders of a dark lantern brigade. I have only to repeat that I have not a word to take back that I have ever uttered in that committee. I have never objected to a solitary question that was proper; I do not mean technically proper; I am not talking along the line of whether a question is one that would be allowed in a court of law or not; I mean a question bearing on the subject at issue. If these honorable gentlemen opposite will direct their investigations to the subject under discussion and not to difficulty. But I am afraid that if they continue to carry out the policy they have pursued in the past, of attempting to bring out matters that have nothing to do with the subject under discussion, if they will attempt to use the public accounts committee and the money of Canada as a means of trying to get some information which they think may possibly be of benefit to them in their constituencies, but has nothing to do with the subject of the investigation, they will meet with the same treatment that they have met with in the past and of which they are complaining here today. We might as well have a clear understanding on this point. As a matter of fact, so far as I, for one, am concerned, there has been no objection in the past, and will be no objection in the future, to any proper investigation; every subject can be laid as bare as it possibly can be laid. On the other hand, I can only warn honorable members that if they will attempt to use this power of investigation in a way in which they are not entitled to use it, I am afraid they will meet with the same treatment as in the past.
