Session Opens With Lively Debate

Congratulations to Sir Wilfrid as He Enters Upon His 70th Birthday

With felicitations to Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the celebration of his 69th birthday and excellent speeches by the mover and seconder of the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, who well deserved the congratulations heaped upon them, Parliament entered upon the work of a session that bids fair to be a memorable one. Nothing could have been happier than the vein in which Mr. Borden extended the congratulations of the Opposition to the Prime Minister who was obviously touched by the tribute paid to him by those who, while opposed to him in politics, recognized and appreciated the qualities that have made him Canada's first commoner in name and in fact.

The speeches of Messrs. Hal McGovern, of Ottawa, and Lapointe, of Kamouraska, in moving and seconding in the Address respectively, were models of their kind and admirably sustained the note of felicity upon which the session opened.

But the amenities of debate though unusually marked quickly gave way to a more contentious spirit, and before the day's work closed there were evidences that both parties have entered upon the session in great fighting form.

A HESITATING LEADER.

Mr. Borden began well, but when he found himself in the controversial sphere, his effort was labored with ineffectiveness.

The Drummond-Arthabaska election, he claimed as a vindication of the Opposition's demand that the Government's naval policy should have been submitted to the people, but he skillfully kept in the background what had been the main contention of his party, namely that Canada should pledge itself to a policy of building Dreadnoughts or of making a money contribution.

IN FIGHTING FORM.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's reply revealed the Prime Minister in his best fighting form. In striking contrast to the nebulous and hesitating attitude of the leader of the Opposition, he handled the question of better trade relations with the United States with a frankness and lucidity that carried conviction to all who heard him, declaring that in the hands of the Government the negotiations, while looking to a closer commercial intercourse with the Republic, will absolutely safeguard the interests of Canada and maintain the preference extended to the Mother Country.

It was in this treatment of the Drummond-Arthabaska election, however, that the Prime Minister showed his true mettle, and the Opposition looked very sheepish while he drove home the lessons of that famous or infamous campaign.

GUTHRIE ON FOSTER.

Mr. Hugh Guthrie, of South Wellington, resuming the debate on the Address, devoted his attention chiefly to Hon. George Foster's speech of last night. He pointed out that the member for North Toronto had omitted any reference to the question of the Navy, or to the Drummond-Arthabaska election, which was all the more remarkable in view of his outspoken utterances immediately after the election.

Reverting to the naval issue Mr. Guthrie pointed out that if Mr. Borden's amendment of last session had been carried, the Dominion would have been committed this year, to an expenditure of twenty-five million dollars, an expenditure which, with the passing away of the German scare, members would have found difficulty to justify to their constituents. The result in Drummond-Arthabaska, Mr. Guthrie regarded as a national calamity, and in cheering it Conservatives reminded him of nothing so much as the mad cheer which went up from an angry mob in the streets of Jerusalem 1900 years ago when they cried out "Give us Barabbas!"

"TO BE AS A CANADIAN."

Mr. W. F. Maclean strongly deprecated the result of the Drummond-Arthabaska election and the character of the campaign pursued by the Nationalists there.

"I speak as a Canadian and for every Canadian," he said, "when I say that the argument used in that County was a misguided one." He repudiated the doctrine which had been expounded in Quebec and those who used the kind argument, that had been offered in Drummond-Arthabaska were playing with dangerous weapons. He did not agree with the argument that the people should be consulted on the question of war. The Government of the day must be responsible. The people of Canada did not like what was said in the Province of Quebec.

MR. MONK SPEAKS.

Mr. Monk dealt at great length with the Drummond-Arthabaska election claiming that the question of the Government's naval policy dominated in importance any other referred to in the Speech from the Throne.

Mr. Monk strenuously denied that he or Mr. Bourassa or their supporters had been disloyal in their utterances in the campaign. He had said nothing that he was not prepared to repeat in Ontario. The idea of separation, he declared, had never been expressed, and he protested against being branded with the infamy of disloyalty because he had discussed the far-reaching effects of a policy that involved grave responsibilities.

A GOOD STORY.

Mr. Monk declared that Mr. Bourassa and he were loyal to Britain, but as Imperialists had the right to advocate centralization of authority it was only fair that their proposals should be discussed. Mr. Monk claimed that he was still a good Conservative and that the doctrine which he and Mr. Bourassa preached was good Conservative doctrine, as it was in effect simply for autonomy in municipalities and in provinces and the right of parents to have their children instructed as they wished. When he heard members say that he should be expelled from the Conservative Party he asked himself where the Conservative Party was heading for.

Social Festivity as Seen by a Correspondent.

The poet in his advocacy of bright hours of relaxation, writes of the "Sad Old World," and the judicious admission of the sunshine of mirth and gaiety as an antidote for the dangers of dull care or depressing influences, which, creeping into our lives constitute in themselves carriers to mar or impede to a certain extent, our courage in the path of progress in the ways of continuous higher aims or purposes.

There are many, probably, who would advocate other ways of recreation than dancing. It would seem, however, in the days long gone by, that the ball room and dancing parties with well-advised restrictions were the solely popular social functions. Those were the days when the sets and vis-a-vis, with the regulation eight measures of time with variations, altogether, or nearly formed the whole programme, and the gent lacking in the knowledge of the figures would be liable to a share of sharp criticism from some annoyed and clever maid, because of his mistakes, which spoiled the correct time. It is related that of recent date a number of young ladies asked a clerical gentleman supposed to have antagonistic views about dancing, if the amusement was forbidden. His reply was diplomatic: "It is not forbidden if you dance with decorum; if not, it is wrong and of course not allowable." So there you are.

One of the series of dancing assemblies held by the Ladies Auxiliary of the A. O. H. took place on the evening of the 18th inst. It was a gala assemblage, with the sparkling mirth, buoyancy and enthusiasm of young life and quiet pleasanties and balmage of later years. The crowd

WORDS OF EULOGY FOR SIR WILFRID

PREMIER McBRIDE CHARACTERIZES HIM AS A MIGHTY STATESMAN AND GREAT CANADIAN—ADMIRE HIM WHILE DIFFERING FROM HIM.

Prince Rupert, Nov. 9.—At the close of an address delivered by Premier McBride at the Empress Theatre in Prince Rupert on Wednesday night, he eulogistically referred to Sir Wilfrid Laurier in terms which evoked the enthusiastic applause of the large audience. He said in part: "Sir Wilfrid well deserved at the hands of British Columbia the very best of hospitality and the most generous possible reception. He is a great Canadian. He is a mighty statesman. We may not, as Conservatives, agree with his policy; we may not, as Conservatives, sympathize with his political acts; but we can, as true Canadians, nevertheless, admire the talent of this great son of Canada."

"And undoubtedly in the fourteen years of his administration he has made a reputation that will live long in the history of Canada and in the history of the mighty British Empire."

"To Sir Wilfrid Laurier is also personally due undoubtedly the Grand Trunk Transcontinental project. We are told from most authoritative sources that he had many trials and difficulties with his colleagues in the early days of the Grand Trunk Pacific project. But nevertheless he triumphed, and the transcontinental line is now being built under an arrangement for which he must stand sponsor and be held responsible."

"We Tories say that he broke his fealty to the people; that he forgot the interests of the people of Canada in not giving them that consideration to which they are entitled. Nevertheless, under our present democratic form of government where the majority must rule, the people have agreed that the Grand Trunk Pacific shall be built, and under the policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier."

"And apart from this, as a duty owed to the first citizen of the Dominion of Canada from the people of the city of Prince Rupert, for whom he has done and is able to do so much, was the magnificent reception tendered to him more than due. And I say as a fellow citizen, as a British Columbian, I most heartily join in the commendations won on that occasion by Prince Rupert by the Canadian-like way her people showed their loyalty to Canada and Empire and their respect for Sir Wilfrid Laurier."—Vancouver World.

IMPORTATION OF FINE BEEF CATTLE.

The Imperial Packing Company this week imported three carloads of number one beef cattle. These cattle are from the west and were purchased in Montreal by Mr. Page of the Packing Company. The lot is made up of cows and steers and is as fine a lot of beef as it is possible to get together. The Company have found it impossible to get sufficient beef in the country to meet the needs of their growing trade hence this importation.

Mr. William Dalling entertained a number of his friends at a Bijou party followed by a dance on Monday evening last. The guests included Mr and Mrs C. M. Augherton, Mr and Mrs Oley Townsend, Misses Annie Graham, Carrie Boyer, Edith Dalling, Mabel Glidden, Gertrude Courtney, Hallett, Aurilla Boyer, Helen Woolverton, Mabel Lister, Jean Sprague, Alice Sprague and Maude Henderson and Messrs Bell, R. Currie, H. Dunbar, K. Connell, Eldon Clark, M. Smith, Walter Stone, Burpee Hay, Vivian Carruthers, William Dalling and Frank Woolverton.

space was a labyrinth of motion and graceful poise. Of confusion there was none, as the calls of the efficient prompter found quick response and with the precision of military manoeuvring. Violin and piano furnished music.

A first-class lunch was served by the ladies during the intermission.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC OFFICIALS ON THE VALLEY

CHIEF ENGINEER H. A. WOODS HAS BEEN DRIVING DOWN THE ST. JOHN RIVER VALLEY.

That Mr. H. A. Woods, chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, has been quietly making an inspection of the route of the proposed St. John Valley Railway, is the definite statement which was made to The Gleaner today from an authoritative source and the statement is borne out by the facts.

The greatest secrecy has been observed and every effort made to avoid publicity. When Mr. Woods was seen by The Gleaner at the Queen Hotel on Saturday, where he was with Mr. Bouillon, the chief engineer of the G. T. P. Company in New Brunswick, the reporter was informed that they had just arrived from Montreal and were en route to St. John.

As a matter of fact Mr. Woods drove down the St. John Valley over the route of the proposed railway, driving from Centreville to Woodstock, where they stopped over night, and thence to this city via Prince William. On Saturday evening they left for St. John by C. P. R. and the horses with which they drove here from Woodstock have been taken back up river by a driver, who was sent for them.

Just what this tour of inspection at this time means is not announced as yet. All that is known is that every effort was made to have the real object of Mr. Woods' visit remain a secret and development; will be watched with interest.—Gleaner.

CELEBRATED FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR MARRIAGE.

The St. John Telegraph of Monday the 21st, has the following:

"Yesterday was the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. William Carleton, 223 City Road and many friends visited them to congratulate them on the occasion and wish them many more years of happiness together. Mr. Carleton was married to Bridget O'Connor in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception by the late Rev. John Quinn, on Nov. 20, 1860. There were ten children born of the union, who are all dead except four. Of the survivors all, with the exception of one son, William T. Carleton, of New York, gathered at the old home yesterday and helped to make the day a pleasant one."

Mr. and Mrs. Carleton are deservedly popular among a large circle of friends, and all joined in expressions of good will and esteem. The other members of the family who are alive besides the son in New York and who congratulated their parents yesterday, are two sons: Hon. John L. Carleton, of Woodstock; Rev. G. P. Carleton, of Peterville; and one daughter, Mrs. John Connor, of Boston."

TAG DAY REPORT.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Carleton County Hospital desire to express their thanks to Mr. N. W. Winslow for the use of store on Tag Day, to Mr. Chas. Watson for the use of sewing machine to do sewing also to the young ladies who gave their services and helped make Tag Day a success. The proceeds of Tag Day amounted to $345.91. The expenses of the young ladies in connection with the work were to Mr. Adam $4.60, to Millville $1.50, to Hartland $1.20, to Debec $1.40.

C. L. S. Raymond, who recently retired as superintendent of St. Luke's Sunday school, which position he has filled for the past fourteen years, was on Friday evening, at the residence of Mrs. Thomas Neales, presented with an address and a handsome roll top desk by the teachers and members of the Bible Class. Mr. Harry B. Smith made the presentation. Mr Raymond in reply expressed his regret in severing his connection with the Sunday school and his appreciation of the kindness of those with whom he had been associated so many years in Sunday school work.
