

FREE TRIP

TO THE

OLD COUNTRY.

Open to all Readers of The Carleton Sentinel.

The Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, is going to send three or more of their readers to the Old Country next June at the time of the Coronation, with all expenses paid from any part of Canada and a liberal allowance for spending money.

We have completed arrangements with the Family Herald publishers by which our readers can enter the competition for this prize trip, and it certainly will be a trip to be remembered.

Here Are The Conditions:

The issue of the Family Herald and Weekly Star for September 15th, 1910, had 656,370 readers, based on an average of five readers to each paid subscription.

How Many Readers will the issue of March 15, 1911, on the same basis have?

We offer the CARLETON SENTINEL and the Family Herald and Weekly Star for one year each at $1.50, and every person accepting this offer has the right to make an estimate and the Family Herald and Weekly Star will send the first three of its readers who make the correct or nearest to correct estimate to England, with all expenses paid, from any part of Canada, and a liberal allowance for spending money.

Estimate coupons can be had at this office, which must be filled in and accompany your subscription to the two papers.

The Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, is the greatest Family and Farm paper on this Continent, and can be safely depended upon to carry out this unique competition impartially. We hope to see some of our readers win the trip. Send your subscription in now.

As an extra inducement we will give $50 to the Carleton Sentinel subscriber making the best estimate, providing that estimate is first, second or third in the Family Herald's competition.

MORE THAN MONEY IN THE CASE.

The question of better trade relations with the United States involves, as Sir Richard Cartwright said in the Senate a few days ago, something more than pounds, shillings and pence. There is involved as well the infinitely more important matter of good relations with our neighbors. These relations are very satisfactory at the present time, and the best possible method of improving upon and giving permanence to such conditions will be found in the greatest possible freedom of commerce between the two countries. The bonds created by a mutually profitable trade, the knowledge of each other resulting from constant intercourse back and forth in the prosecution of that trade, would form the best possible guarantee for another hundred years of uninterrupted peace. On the other hand the friction due to mutual injuries caused by a double line of tariff walls, the isolation from and comparative ignorance of each other which are the necessary accompaniment of a policy designed to prevent intercourse are calculated to cultivate distrust, suspicion and a latent hostility that may at any time be fanned into flame by some clash of interest or over some fancied wrong.

The spirit of evil actuating those who would, for their own selfish purposes, keep kindred people apart, and the possibilities for mischief in their malevolent activity, is well illustrated in a cartoon published in the latest issue of Industrial Canada, the ill-chosen title of the organ of the protected interest. This cartoon represents the arrival in Ottawa of the gentlemen whom President Taft lately sent to the Dominion capital to open negotiations for reciprocity. These representatives of a great and friendly nation are pictured as a set of tramps, and below the figures are the lines:

"Hark, hark, the dogs do bark, The beggars are coming to town." While a scared native hurries on in advance shouting to the citizens of Ottawa to hide their silver spoons. Those who would offer such a gratuitous and stupid insult to the personal representatives of a man in the position, and of the high personal character of President Taft would, if they dared, go the length of provoking an open rupture with a nation that desires to be friendly if they could thereby continue a condition under which they might be able to go on plundering the Canadian people behind cover of a thirty-five and fifty per cent tariff.—Toronto Globe.

COMMON SENSE TALK.

Sir Richard Cartwright, whose mind is as keen and speech as penetrating as in the days when he was one of the great political schoolmasters of the Dominion, makes pointed answer to those foolish partisans who are charging the Liberal Government with disloyalty. He points out that Sir John McDonald had colleagues who signed the annexation manifesto, and colleagues who not only threatened rebellion, but actually took up arms against the British Government. Cartier, one of the rebels of 1837-8, is a conspicuous case. Sir Richard adds in his usual frank way: "I do not know that I thought very much the worse of them for that. However, when a party can swallow, as the Conservatives did successively, three or four Cabinet Ministers who had signed an annexation manifesto, it hardly becomes them to hurl promiscuous taunts of disloyalty." Senator Lougheed, who leads the Opposition in the Senate, also disapproves of charges of disloyalty hurled by one party at the other. "What Canada needed was a national spirit, and this must be based on a spirit of unity, which could not be established until these charges of disloyalty were no more heard of." This is rational talk. It is not creditable to Canada that any of its politicians should be base enough to revive this ancient slander against the Liberal party.—Chronicle.

RURAL TELEPHONES

BOUND VOLUME SENT FREE ON REQUEST.

In connection with the growth of rural telephone companies throughout the Dominion, a new book has recently appeared on the market which will be of special interest to many of our readers.

Realizing the need for practical information on the subject, the Northern Electric & Manufacturing Company has recently revised into a large volume, its bulletin on "How To Build Rural Telephone Lines." This book, bound in stiff, cloth-covered binding, contains over a hundred profusely illustrated pages of comprehensive information, carefully indexed into seven chapters. "How to Build Rural Telephone Lines" deals with the complete story of the telephone, mutual and stock company organization, line-survey and constructions, the installation of the instruments, the material required, the instrument itself and the government regulations on the subject. Each and every one of these subjects is dealt with fully and at length.

With this book in hand, anyone who can follow printed instructions, can handle the complete organization and construction of a rural telephone company from start to finish. Notwithstanding its cost, the Northern Electric will send this book free—but only on request and when the name of this paper is mentioned. We would advise all of our readers who are in any degree interested in the subject of rural telephones to write for it.

SEMPLE-BREWER WEDDING.

(St. John Globe.)
A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday at 4.30 p. m., at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Mered Brewer, 52 Dorchester street, when their daughter, Vita Irene, was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph Semple, of this city, by the Rev. James Ross. The bride looked charming in a dress of cream serge, with picture hat, and carried a bouquet of roses and maidenhair fern. Her travelling suit was navy blue serge, with hat to match. The popularity of the bride was attested by the many beautiful and costly presents, the gift of the groom being a set of furs. Immediately after the ceremony a recherche lunch was served, after which the happy couple left for a trip to Boston, New York and other American cities. On their return they will reside at 52 Dorchester street.

At the residence of the bride's father, Nov. 23rd., by Rev. G. A. Giberson, Mr. Roy Clark of Fort Fairfield, Me., and Bell L. Kinney of Mineral, Car. Co.

A popular idea to prevail that all teas were pretty much alike, but "Salada" Tea is proving a pleasant surprise to thousands of particular tea-drinkers. Sold by grocers everywhere.
