THE WRATH OF THE BOURASSITES

The great demonstration at Montreal in honor of Sir Wilfrid Laurier—a demonstration which the Montreal Star calls "a fitting climax" to the series of memorable orations tendered the Prime Minister during his recent tour of the West—seems to be giving certain Oppositionists much distress. They are describing it as a flat affair, and are foolish enough to think that the public will believe their assertion that this splendid popular welcome in the commercial metropolis of the Dominion was a packed party rally—a canvassed-up demonstration.

It is worse than foolish to attempt to belittle such a reception as Sir Wilfrid was accorded by his friends and admirers in the great city which is proud of the Imperial statesman who spent his early days within her walls. That such a demonstration should have been given him at a time when there was no political excitement indicates that Sir Wilfrid is still the popular hero of his countrymen of Quebec and that in his native Province, as elsewhere throughout the Dominion, he commands the confidence, admiration and affection of the people.

One would have imagined the those pure-souled Oppositionists who are constantly parading their patriotism from the house-tops would have applauded, instead of sneering at, Sir Wilfrid for going to Montreal for the express purpose of combating the mischievous propaganda of Mr. Bourassa and his band of firebrands who are seeking to sow the seeds of racial strife and dissatisfaction. This group of Castors are accusing Sir Wilfrid of being a traitor to Quebec, of plunging Canada into the vortex of European militarism, of robbing the French-Canadian mothers of their sons to "provide food for the cannon on board the English warships," of filching French-Canadians and Catholics of their rights in Alberta and Saskatchewan, of being the arch-betrayer of his race and religion, and so on. This is the kind of campaign the Bourassites are waging, their special aversion being the step which the Government of Sir Wilfrid has taken toward Imperial defence in the organization of a Canadian Navy. These are the lofty souls whom some Oppositionists are eulogizing as "independent people!"

The rebuke which the Prime Minister administered to Mr. Bourassa and his firebrands was no less effective than his expose of the guerrilla campaign planned by the Opposition generally throughout the Dominion. In both cases he struck home. With incomparable banter, he pointed to the hopeless disunion and disorganization of the Conservative Party, which being unable to agree upon any definite programme, would enter the next contest with as many programs as there are Provinces. There is to be guerrilla warfare all along the line.

We have already been given a forecast of the Tory strategy. The Toronto correspondent of the London Times, who is none other than the editor of the Toronto News, the close confidant and chief adviser of Mr. Borden, has given the snap away in a recent letter to the Times, he tells about the political partnership entered into by Mr. Monk (the Conservative leader in Quebec and up to last session Mr. Borden's lieutenant) and Mr. Bourassa, and says that they have joined forces against the naval policy of the Laurier Administration, and that "their plan is to substitute Nationalist for Conservative organization in Quebec." This explains the wrath of the Opposition organs over Sir Wilfrid Laurier's ovation in Montreal, which is the headquarters of the new Tory game.

What the Opposition hope to gain from this new-fangled alliance is suggested by the following passage in the letter of Mr. Borden's intimate friend, the editor of the News and correspondent of the Times:—

"Only on rare occasions when Sir Wilfrid puts forth all his power does he equal or excel the Nationalist leader. Besides, Mr. Bourassa still has out and a physical vigor which the Prime Minister no longer possesses. With the French electors of Quebec Mr. Bourassa has a great platform popularity. He has the eloquence of Chapleau with the elegance of Laurier, and he appeals directly to the race feeling, or, as his opponents would say, to the race prejudices of French-Canadians. Mr. Monk is like-wise a gifted and scholarly speaker, with an impressive appearance and an intimate knowledge of the temper of his compatriots. United they are formidable and can hardly fail to make an impression on the French constituencies."

The editor-correspondent goes on to say that there will be Monk-Bourassa candidates throughout Quebec in the next Dominion elections, and adds: "To oppose these with nominees of Mr. Borden would be to ensure an overwhelming Liberal victory in the French Province." The plan of campaign thus begins to take shape. "The probability is, therefore, that the Government will have to meet a body of Nationalist candidates in Quebec and the regular Opposition in the English Provinces."

What this combination upon which Toryism is going to rely, stands for is elucidated by Mr. Borden's friend in the article under review. He writes: "In Quebec the Nationalists denounce the naval policy of the Government as supervising of Canadian autonomy, as leading to the 'vortex of militarism,' and as tinctured with a dangerous Imperialism."

Here, then, we have the plan of campaign which is being waged for Mr. Borden. On Quebec Sir Wilfrid Laurier is being denounced, under the direction of the Bourassite faction, as a traitor to Canadian autonomy, tinged with a dangerous Imperialism, and as plotting to "hurl the Dominion into the vortex of militarism" and to "tear sons from their mothers and homes to fight the battles of the Empire," while concurrently "the regular Opposition in the English Provinces," headed by Mr. Borden in person and clattered by the News and all the other super-loyal organs, will attack the Prime Minister and the Liberal Party as setting up a policy which is designed to bring about separation from the Mother Country and so smash up the Empire.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has gone to Montreal, and before a great gathering of his own people has defended the naval policy of his Government and exposed the tactics of his enemies and traducers. Hence the rage of the brawling brood of partisans who hoped for so much from the mischievous and dangerous appeals of the Bourassites. It is fortunate for Canada that she has at the head of her affairs and in the place of national leadership, the calm, steadfast statesman whose paramount aim is the safeguarding of the unity of the nation. Otherwise it would fare ill for the integrity of Confederation—Chronicle.

Presentation to Miss A S Calder.

Wednesday evening at the close of the prayer service in the Methodist Church the members of the "Lend a Hand" Bible class invited their teacher, Miss A S Calder, to remain for a few moments and the Rev R J Weddall on behalf of the class presented Miss Calder with a beautiful equipped travelling bag. Miss Calder, who was taken by complete surprise, was deeply touched by the tribute from her class. The following address accompanied the bag:—

DEAR MISS CALDER:—
The "Lend a Hand" Bible class of the Methodist church in Woodstock, N.B., of which you are a faithful and respected teacher, desire to convey to you their appreciation of your valuable and self-sacrificing services.

The lessons as taught by you invariably indicate careful preparation and much study. Your manner of teaching has impressed us all with the value of Bible knowledge, and proven helpful and inspiring to us. Our hope is that these pleasant relations may long be continued.

In the meantime we, the members of the class, wish to give expression of our appreciation, and ask you to accept the accompanying "travelling bag" as a token of our respect, gratitude and love.

Signed on behalf of the class—
R W Weddall, Pastor.
Mrs R E Holyoke, President.
Clara Carson, Secretary.

EXCELLENT SERMON By Rev. Father McMurray On Total Abstinence.

Rev. F. J. McMurray, in his sermon in St. Gertrude's church on Sunday morning, from the epistle of the day, delivered one of the very best temperance sermons heard in this town for many a day.

He was firmly of the opinion that moderate drinking was dangerous and that the only safe cause to pursue was that of total abstinence. He quoted authorities to show that intemperance caused more misery in the world than war, pestilence and famine. He particularly dwelt on the fact that it was the only evil that robbed man of his senses—the murderer even can call upon God for pity in his last moments with the hope of being heard but this last chance is denied the drunkard dying while under the influence of intoxicating liquor which had robbed him of his senses, making it impossible for him to realize his dying condition. The speaker had during his ministry been called to the deathbed of drunkards but he was helpless and stood by watching the frantic ravings of the man dying from delirium tremens. He had also stood by the deathbed of other criminals who have their senses were able to make their peace with God. With the removal of the public bar-room from a community, the people of all classes, irrespective of religion, politics and business have been greatly benefited morally as well as financially. The closing up of the rum shop with all its immoral accessories, profanity, indecent pictures, gambling, lewdness, late hours, temptations to minors, must be a gain to any city or town besides a saving of thousands of dollars, formerly spent for liquor, which are now spent for the home and other good causes. The drinking man to a considerable extent is barred from obtaining employment. The reason given is that it is simply a business precaution. Laws of many countries hold the employer liable for damages done by accident in his establishment and it is only prudent to employ men with their heads. It is distinctly in a man's favor to be sober. While the speaker was thankful that he had but few offenders in his congregation, still the few who do well to become total abstainers, remembering that strong drink was the greatest foe to the peace, happiness and prosperity of the home, church and country.

MARRIED.

DEWITT-PLUMMER.

A very pretty marriage was solemnized at six o'clock, Wednesday evening, 19th inst, at the home of Mr and Mrs Ernest Plummer, Waterville, when their only daughter Elizabeth was united in marriage to J Henry DeWitt of Woodstock.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev George Ayers, pastor of the Methodist church, in the presence of one hundred and fifteen guests.

Mendelssohn's wedding march was rendered before the ceremony by Miss Emma Deware, and later as the bridal couple received their congratulations, the bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played.

The bride wore a handsome gown of white silk with an overdress of hand-broidered net. Her veil of mechlin net was held in place by a coronet of white flowers, and she carried a beautiful bouquet of bride's roses.

Little Miss Helen Flemming cousin of the bride was flower girl and looked very pretty in a dress of white net over pink silk mull, and carried a beautiful arrangement of flowers.

The decorations were white and green in the parlour and in the dining room white and pink, where an elaborate luncheon was served after the ceremony.

The gifts were numerous and beautiful including cheques, silver ware, cut glass, china and furniture.

Mr and Mrs DeWitt will reside in Woodstock.

MULHERON-GALLAGHER.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in St Bonaventure's church, Williamstown on Wednesday morning, Oct 12th, when Katharine, second daughter of Mr and Mrs Michael Mulheron, St Thomas, was united in matrimony to Francis Lewis Gallagher of Danville, by Rev Father Bradley.

THE FAMOUS CRIPPEN CASE.

Dr Crippen the London physician has been found guilty of murder and sentenced to be hanged Nov 8th. As it will be remembered this case became famous owing to the remarkable chase by Serg Dow of the Scotland Yard Detective force across the Atlantic after Crippen. The wife of Dr Crippen, an actress of some repute was missing for some time. Crippen claimed that she had gone to visit friends in America and in the mean time a young girl named Le Neve had been living with him. Friends of Crippen's wife however became suspicious and instituted a search which resulted in a body being found buried in the cellar of the house in which the Crippens lived. In the meantime a reward had been offered for the arrest of Crippen and he was discovered by a captain of an Atlantic Steamship on board his vessels with Miss LeNeve registered as his son. He was arrested and taken back to London where he was tried and found guilty of murder.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT BEECHWOOD.

Mr Galen Love of St Stephen, a C P R brakeman, was instantly killed at Kilburn, at 10.30 Friday evening; with another brakeman named Seely, he was setting off cars at the siding. For some unaccountable reason he tried to get between the cars and was caught between the drawbars and instantly killed. The coroner was summoned and with his permission the remains were brought to Woodstock to the undertaking rooms of A C Day, where they were placed in a casket and forwarded to St Stephen on Saturday morning. He was 25 years old, unmarried and son of Hugh Love. He was a member of the Thistle Athletic Association, St Stephen, and one of the best all round athletes, clean and fair, and a great favorite with his associates. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon.

Mr H J Nelson, who has been transferred by the Massey-Harris Co to take charge of their business in Charlottetown, P.E.I., left yesterday morning for his future home. Mrs Nelson had preceded him by a few days. Mr Nelson will be much missed by the patrons of the Company. He is a careful and painstaking official and has made good with the Company he represents. Mr Nelson is a prominent member of the Masonic Fraternity and his departure is regretted. We hope that continued success shall attend Mr and Mrs Nelson in their future home.

That portion of land adjoining the Methodist cemetery on the north and west, it is understood, is about to be purchased and added to the cemetery. Information as to lots may be had by applying to the caretaker of the cemetery, E L Greer.

Wedding Bells march was sweetly rendered by Miss Mae Gallagher, sister of the groom. The bride was becomingly attired in a princess suit of cream Louisienne silk with hat to match, and carried a white prayer book. Miss Eva Gallagher, sister of the groom acted as bridesmaid and wore a dress of white tulle. The groom was supported by Murray Mulheron, brother of the bride.

After partaking of dinner and tea at the home of the bride, the happy couple drove to the home of the groom's parents in Danville, where a pleasant reception awaited them.

The bride received many beautiful and costly gifts, among which was a handsome gold brooch from the groom. The groom's present to the bridesmaid was also a gold brooch.

MCLAUCHLAN-EVERETT

A quiet wedding took place on Wednesday evening, at 7.30, at the home of Mr and Mrs W H Everett, where their youngest daughter, Elsie, was united in marriage to Guy McLauchlan. The ceremony was performed by the Rev H Goring Alder of St Luke's Church, in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bride was dressed in her travelling suit of navy blue serge with hat to match with persian trimming and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and maiden hair ferns. After the ceremony supper was served over which Miss Edith Everett and Miss Bessie McLauchlan presided. The young couple have taken up their residence in the house owned by Mr John McLauchlan on the Corner of Richmond and Maple Sts.
