DELHI DURBAR GREAT PAGEANT

Coronation Took Place Tuesday—General
Holiday Proclaimed in All Parts of India—
Tented City Occupies 25 Square Miles

The Durbar, which was held Tuesday to celebrate the accession of King George as Emperor of India, far outshone the coronation Durbar in 1902, when King Edward VII. was proclaimed. A public holiday was observed throughout India and the royal proclamation read in every town and village. Already King George and Queen Mary have taken part in many functions and have received the homage of princes. Delhi is overrun with visitors from all lands.

In the Durbar of 1902, the emperor and empress were represented by the Duke and Duchess of Connaught. About 100 ruling chiefs were in attendance, and the visitors were estimated at something less than 200,000. This year the personal attendance of the king emperor and queen empress attracted a vast concourse of spectators, while the ruling chiefs gathered from every quarter of India.

The Durbar camp is a vast canvas city, covering about twenty-five square miles. It is lighted by electricity served by a perfect water supply and provided with excellent roads and a special railway system. Chief of all stands out the emperor's central camp. The huge tent in which both the investiture and the reception were held is on Grand avenue. This tent is capable of seating 3,000 persons. It is decorated in blue, white and gold. Behind is the king's state dining tent, hung with blue, where 160 guests attended the state banquet Tuesday evening. Their majesties' private tents are to the right, and the viceroy has a somewhat similar encampment to the left. The green lawns and gardens surrounding many of the big camps are attractive and restful.

About 150 ruling princes were present at the Durbar, these camps being in close proximity to that of the king. The historic ridge in the evening presents a truly wonderful sight. As far as the eye can reach twinkle myriads of electric lights, which disclose a picture of white and gold, and here and there splashes of color.

King George arrived at the centre of the great plain, about three miles from his camp, for the Durbar in state procession, and proceeded half-way around an enormous banked up arena, in which were assembled not less than 80,000 spectators. From there he proceeded to a smaller amphitheatre, accommodating 12,000 persons. These comprised the Indian chiefs, governors and lieutenant-governors, the imperial and provincial councils, with all the leading officials nobility and gentry of India.

After receiving the homage of the chiefs on a special dais under a regal purple canopy, their majesties proceeded to a marble dais surmounted by a golden dome, and should themselves in their coronation robes and crowns to the assembled multitude. Twenty thousand troops, with the heralds and massed bands surrounded the dais lending picturesqueness to the scene. After the ceremony and the return to their camp, their majesties completed the second half of the circle in the big arena, and then proceeded along the princes' road through a number of other camps occupied by the Indian princes.

CHURCH UNION DISCUSSED BY PROMINENT MEN

That Many Presbyterians Will Band Together—Against it is Statement Made at Meeting

The declaration that hundreds of ministers and members of the Presbyterian church are opposed to church union under the proposed agreement and that if the union is attempted they will band together to resist it from the pulpit and in the courts and that they will continue their organization as the Presbyterian church in Canada, was one of the most interesting features of the discussion of the proposed union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches which was held in St. Stephen's church hall under the auspices of the Young People's Guild last evening. This declaration was made by Rev. J. J. McCaskill who expressed in vigorous terms his opposition to the plan as submitted to the churches by the committee on union.

Hon. J. G. Forbes who championed the union of the three bodies is a member of the Union Committee and as such is thoroughly familiar with the details of the negotiations. His chief argument was the overwhelming need of greater efforts on the part of the churches in the northwest and in the foreign field and he argued that under such a union the saving of effort effected by the elimination of competition would set free a large amount of money and a great number of men for this work of extension. He commended the basis of union and dismissed the doctrinal objections as matters of less importance than the work which the church must face.

Rev. Frank Baird, of Woodstock, who spoke for those who are opposed to union, protested against the dismemberment of the Canadian Presbyterian church declaring that the result of the attempt to unite would be simply to add another denomination to the large number existing. He maintained that the competition in pioneer work could be eliminated without corporate union and expressed the opinion that the number of churches now existing would not be lessened. If denominational rivalry were lessened we believe the churches would lose by the diminution of interest. He objected to the terms of the basis of union on the grounds that they do not agree with Presbyterian ideas of church government and doctrines and predicted that the union agreement would not be carried into effect with the consent of the Presbyterian church.

The discussion was also participated in by Rev. David Lang, Alex. L. Law, and M. J. McPherson of Harvey Station.—St. John Times.

PENITENTIARY FOR TWO YEARS

The County Court, with Judge Carleton presiding, opened in the Court House on Tuesday morning. Arthur Garden was foreman of the Grand Jury. Two criminal cases were taken up under the speedy trials act. An English lad, Hartland by name, got two years in penitentiary for stealing a small sum of money from Duncan Dickinson.

The Mission Band of the Presbyterian church of Richmond, held a most interesting service in the church at McKenzie Corner on Sunday evening, Dec. 10. The church was filled to the doors by a very appreciative audience who listened to a most pleasing program consisting of recitations, exercises, solos, quartette's and choruses exclusively by the children who conducted themselves in a praise-worthy manner under the careful management of Mrs. J. S. Merrithew. Every one present expressed pleasure at the manner in which the service was conducted. Rev. Wm. Girdwood who was present, spoke encouragingly to the Band of the good work they were doing. The offering amounted to $14.80.

At a meeting of the parishioners of St. Luke's Church, on Monday evening, it was decided to extend an invitation to Rev. Mr. McDonald of California to accept the charge of the church here. Up to the time of going to press no answer has been received from the Reverend gentleman.
