WILLIAMSTOWN.

Oct 12th, 1912.—We are now having another cold rain, with heavy wind hardly any one is done digging and quite a number are not done harvesting owing to the wet weather.

Mr Wm Armstrong, Deputy Sheriff, met with a heavy loss last Monday afternoon by having his fine residence and horse, barn and shed, all destroyed by fire, nothing was saved from the dining room, kitchen, pantry or shed. The contents of the main house were nearly all saved. The neighbors were most all in their back fields when the fire broke out, but all worked like heroes that were there, men, women and children. He has moved into the Robert Jones house at Lakeville, for a few weeks and then intends to move to Miss Lonsa King's house as she intends spending the winter with her sister, Mrs Marjorie Reynolds in Glassville.

Word has been received here of the serious illness of Miss Nancy Bradley in Woodstock. She was a resident of this place until the last few years.

Mr and Mrs John McWaid have returned to their home in Boston, after visiting relatives here the last few weeks.

The threshing machines and potato diggers are in great demand when we have a fine day.

Miss Sadie Jameson was sewing for Mrs Burns King, Lakeville, recently.

The railroad survey still continues. The fields for about two miles above Lakeville are nearly covered with their paths, where a number have spent the summer. The surveyors are here, but when will the railroad come. O when? is the question.

Word reached here Oct 13th that Wm Jameson of this place had died at his son's residence in Rhode Island, where he went about four weeks ago to spend the winter. He would have been 78 years old the 21st of this month. He leaves a widow, one son and two daughters.

BENTON

We are all very pleased with the appearance of our new school house. It is a lovely building up-to-date with all the necessary equipments. It is a credit to the village and also to the architect, S McIntyre.

Hints to Housewives

To whiten clothes add one tablespoonful of turpentine to a boilerful of washing.

Flatirons will keep bright and smooth by rubbing them over waxed paper before putting them away.

Tartaric acid removes almost any iron rust blemishes, and is an excellent article for removing yellow marks.

To keep down dust when using the carpet sweeper moisten the brush of the sweeper with kerosene. This will also brighten the carpet.

To clean vinegar or oil crust break up egg shells very small, add to warm soap water, fill in to crevices and shake well. This is simple and does not injure the glass.

To keep your sponge in good condition, you should occasionally wash it in warm water with a little tartaric acid or soda, afterwards rinsing it in clean warm water.

Soiled and shabby leather bags should be rubbed over with the well-beaten white of an egg. They will then look almost as good as new.

Save the baking powder, coffee, or other cans, and put dried things in them; spices keep well in the tightly closed boxes. Label them as you fill them.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Chopped Stuff

This is the age of the small farmer.

Prevent the bees from swarming too often.

Don't forget to salt the stock in the back pasture.

Poultrymen must use lots of coal oil in the poultry houses.

The sow must be strong and in good condition at time of service if a large litter of good pigs is to be produced.

A good type of feeding steer is a joy forever, while the scrub, no matter how he may be managed, spells loss to the feeder.

No sow should be bred until she is eight months old, and very often from two to four months more on.

her age is more beneficial than otherwise.

Do not fail to return regularly to the stallion all mares that are being bred. This is where many make a failure of horse-breeding—a failure which is often wrongfully blamed to the mares or stallions.

Horses may very properly be given a more bulky ration when idle or doing light work than when at heavy work. It is believed that the practice of permitting work horses to gorge themselves with hay is all too common.

Farm workhorses at hard labor should receive from one and one-fifth to one and one-third pounds of grain, and from one to one and one-fourth pounds of hay, per 100 pounds of live weight per day, in order that their weight may be maintained.

Keep a little fresh paint on the breast of the ram during the breeding season. It is very little trouble and in doing it no difficulty is experienced in ascertaining the date of service of each ewe and it also serves as a check on the ram's sureness as a breeder.

A PILL THAT LIGHTENS LIFE.—To the man who is a victim of indigestion the transaction of business becomes a added misery. He cannot concentrate his mind upon his tasks and loss and vexation attend him. To such a man Parmelee's Vegetable Pills offer relief. A course of treatment, according to directions, will convince him of their great excellence. They are confidently recommended because they will do all that is claimed for them.

Live Stock Notes and Suggestions

On cold evenings, especially if rain threatens, the milkers should be provided with shelter. On a cold, wet night may easily come a check in the milk flow that cannot be overcome all winter. Warmth and comfort are feed economists.

You may be pretty sure that the cow that has something wrong with her disposition is owned by a man that isn't just right in the upper story.

Heifers of the dairy breeds, if well grown, should be bred at a little over a year old.

Be very gentle with the nervous cows. They are always the largest and richest milkers, when treated with consideration.

Any tendency to constipation in hogs should be overcome by feeding oil-meal, bran mash, or other feeds having a corrective character.

The man who sticks to hogs whether they are high or low will come out right in the end every time.

Keep the pigs up during cold, stormy days and hard winds are just about as bad as rain.

The sunshine will make the porkers stretch right out. Give them a chance to lie in it every day if you can.

See that the milk flow that has been stimulated by the rich autumn grass is maintained by judicious feeding beginning before the grass fails.

With a young horse or two for sale each year of the type suitable for the market demands, the farm income is noticeably increased.

There may be other corn cures, but Holloway's Corn Cure stands at the head of the list so far as results are concerned.

A MATTER OF TASTE.

"Mar-y!" Father's voice rolled thunderously down the stairs, across the tesselated hall, and into the dim and silent drawing room.

"Yes, papa dear," came the silvery reply. "Ask that young man if he can tell me the time."

A moment of silence followed; then Mary spoke again: "He says it's ten minutes to eleven, pa."

"Then ask if he doesn't think it's about bedtime."

Again there was momentary silence broken once more by Mary's dulcet tones: "He says, pa, that he rarely goes to bed before twelve, but it seems to him a matter of personal taste. And he says, pa, that if he were in your place he'd go to bed now if you feel tired."

"If anything should happen to me, remember I am innocent, of stealing, not knowing the horses to be stolen, and I do not believe the judge thought me guilty. He sentenced me because he is hardened to such proceedings. Life is not worth to live five years in hell, so good-bye all." Thus wrote Alexander Hammer, of London, Ont, a man of thirty years who was sentenced to serve five years in Kingston penitentiary for the theft of a team of horses and a buggy. Friday morning turkey Marsh discovered his body cold and rigid, suspended lifeless by his sheet, which had been attached to the bars of his cell door about seven feet above the ground.

Referring to the fact that Mr Borden has now rushed Hon George E Foster off to England, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said at Cornwall: "I don't know what he will bring back; I am reminded of the story of the acrobat, however, who announced far and wide that on a certain day he would jump over the dome of St Paul's. A great crowd gathered. He arrived on the scene in tights and spangles, and then announced that he couldn't jump over that day because his manager had failed to put any straw on the other side for him to light on! I think Mr Foster has gone over for some straw."

REQUISITE ON THE FARM.—Every farmer and stock-raiser should keep a supply of Dr Thomas' Electric Oil on hand, not only as a ready remedy for ills in the family, but because it is a horse and cattle medicine of great potency. As a substitute for sweet oil for horses and cattle affected by colic it far surpasses anything that can be administered.
