CARLETON COUNTY CANDIDATES PLACED IN NOMINATION

SCATHING CRITICISM OF THE GOVERNMENT

Joint Meeting in the Afternoon With Speeches by the Candidates—Upham Shows up Flemming and Munro's Contemptible Canvass—The Premier Given a Very Uncomfortable Half Hour

The Nomination proceedings took place at the Court House, Thursday, 11 a. m., Sheriff John Tompkins, presided.

The opposition candidates, Frank Rowe Shaw, George W. Upham, Chas. Lewis Smith, were nominated by the following:—
Andrew D. McCain, W. Riley Trafford, Dennis McGaffigan, Benj. McIsaac Sr., J. Jarvis Bull, Arthur Burpee, James W. Gallagher, Walter Estabrooks, Don A. Nicholson, Albert E. Jones, Robt. B. Jones, Walter E. Shaw, Fred O. Creighton, John H. Thompson, Michael McManus, Henry A. Phillips, Edgar W. Mair, J. Hallam Drysdale, W. D. Cumber, Joseph Fewer, Albert G. Fields, Patrick Bradley, W. A. Hayward, Charles Jones, Roy McLaughlan.

James Kidd Flemming, Donald Munro and George Leverett White, the Government candidates were nominated by the following:
A. B. Connell, F. H. J. Dibblee, John P. Malaney, William Balmain, Wilmot A. Hay, Howard E. Burt, George Mitchell.

A joint meeting was held at the Armory, attended by a large crowd in spite of the disagreeable weather. Each speaker was allowed half an hour and all got a good hearing. It was very apparent that the government candidates were laboring under a great disadvantage and they heaved a sigh of relief when the proceedings were over. They were on the defensive and their explanations of the crookedness of the government while not very enlightening were most amusing and caused much laughter.

Col. Dibblee was chosen chairman and in a brief speech introduced Mr. White, who used up about two minutes of his half hour, merely saying he would stand by his colleagues on the ticket and answer for their political sins.

Mr. C. L. Smith received an ovation on rising to speak and put the crowd in good humor when he claimed that he had many tory friends as well as liberal and said "Very many tories will vote for me because they believe in me." He made a pleasant allusion to the premier who belonged to the same parish. Mr. Smith read in detail the promises of the government made four years ago, touching especially upon the public accounts and the item of "Various Persons" was called upon by the chairman. Every Municipality, town and city published a detailed statement of their accounts, and it was hard to understand why the government refused to do so. Only one construction could be put on it, and it was a desire to cover up their crookedness. Speaking of the agricultural department the speaker went at length in the methods employed in running this most important department of the government. It was placed in the hands of a medical doctor, and he was furnished with assistants, politicians only, without any knowledge of the needs of the farmer. A poultry expert was appointed whose only achievement thus far was demonstrating the art of skinning a chicken which no doubt came to him from his barber shop. The Kentucky horses, purchased by an insurance agent was another illustration of farce now carried on under the name of agriculture. Mr. Smith dwelt at some length on the bridges and made the startling announcement that the Woodstock bridge on which $1,000 had been spent for flooring, was done under the old government in 19 days with ten men, and even with the expenditure of $1000 the bridge was not now completed. Mr. Smith was loudly cheered at the close of his practical speech.

Donald Munro, M. P. P., appeared before the electors after four years service and claimed amid much laughter, that every pledge made had been carried out. He said that all public works had been put up at tender and a proper account of all expenditures had been made. Touching on the Valley railway he exhibited a plan of the road and was asked if it was the same plan he had at Summerfield, or the one he had at Royalton. The speaker was greatly embarrassed at these pointed questions and did not reply but abandoned the plan after the audience refused it look it over. He endeavored to read the tory version of Mr. Upham's vote on the Valley railway, but when presented with the official record by that gentleman he was painfully embarrassed and cried of "read it", "read it" from the audience intensified his discomfort, and Mr. Munro was compelled to abandon his attempt to play the cheap politician which has been a conspicuous feature of his campaign.

Mr. Frank R. Shaw was greeted with prolonged applause when he was called upon by the chairman. His reputation as a pleasing and eloquent speaker was enhanced by his effort on this occasion. He dwelt on the road question and his comparison of conditions now with 1907 was clear and explicit.

He handed the Birmingham matter in a way that convinced the whole audience of the absurdity of his connection with any deal that was not straight and above board. The dastardly attempt of certain tories to besmirch his character in connection with this case is only more convincing evidence of the desperate straits to which the graft element in the tory party are driven in this contest. The plain truth of the whole matter is that no official has been paid since 1907, at which time the parish of Wakefield had $13000 to its credit in the Royal Bank. Mr. Shaw made an eloquent appeal for support of the whole opposition ticket, and promised if elected to carry out and support the platform of the party as laid down by the Opposition leader, A. B. Copp.

Mr. Shaw had the audience with him and was the recipient of warm congratulations at the close of his brilliant speech.

Premier Flemming had his own time and Mr. White's, in all about fifty minutes. He devoted all his time to ancient history and a long tiresome harangue about the old government. He never mentioned the Valley railway, but regretted he had not more time to go into it. It was evidently a subject that he planned to avoid. He did not even exhibit a plan of the road, in spite of the fact that he is touring the County with four plans, all different routes. It remained for Mr. Upham to start the fireworks that made the Premier wince and turn pale when brought to task for the lowest, meanest and most contemptible canvass ever made against a public man.

Mr. Upham did not hesitate to tell the bumptious premier that when he stated that he (Upham) voted against the Valley railway he told a malicious falsehood. He dared Mr. Flemming to repeat it on this platform, but the Hon. gentleman remained dumb as an oyster. Never in the history of the County has a member of the legislature got such a grilling as was dealt out to Premier Flemming, on this occasion. He was minus his pleasing smile and when brought face to face with his despicable campaign tactics he was not man enough to even deny the charges made against him.

Mr. Upham spoke at some length on the Crown lands and showed plainly that it would be only a few years when this source of revenue would be exhausted if the present conditions were allowed to remain. The speaker was repeatedly cheered and applauded during his speech, and his denunciation of the Premier was the talk of the town. The Conservative steering committee had a prolonged session after the meeting and it is rumored that all efforts will be directed to save Flemming and let the other members of the ticket go. The head boodler is in town and was in consultation with Flemming after the meeting. He will be closely watched by the Liberals executive and all cases of bribery will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

BIG MEETING IN GRAHAM'S OPERA HOUSE

The Liberal rally in the Opera house was largely attended and the audience listened to excellent speeches by the candidates, Coles Dugan, Councillor Kinney of Kent, and F. B. Carvell.

Mr. Dugan explained in detail how the work was done on the Woodstock bridge and caused much merriment when he told the liquid end of the story. It took so long to floor the bridge that when the workmen got to one end, the other end needed repairing. He could easily understand why it cost a $1000 as against $800 when same work was done under the supervision of Mr. Brewer. Councillor Kinney said he worked hard last election to elect Flemming and he would now work as hard to defeat him. He had talked with many who had supported Flemming last election but will now vote against him. As a member of the highway board he could state that the board received only $800. but were charged in the Auditor General's report with $1200. This charge of $1200 was false, and he knew it time and Mr. White's, in all about was, he felt it was time to get this clear of a rotten dishonest government.

Mr. F. B. Carvell made an address the dress that was received with much enthusiasm. He showed the duplicity of Flemming and Munro in regard to the Valley railway, and made a sensation when he produced a letter signed by Mr. Gould and which he said he would read if that gentleman would give his consent. It would tell a story of attempted bribery and show the true situation of Mr. Flemming in his connection with the C. P. R. He ridiculed Flemming and Munro for going around the country with a canvass against Mr. Upham that was without parallel in the history of politics. It was the methods of a low-down-mean politician and showed the calibre of these gentlemen, who were getting desperate with defeat staring them in the face. Mr. Carvell intimated that something of a startling nature might be given to the public before June 20th.

Owing to pressure on our columns we are unable to give a full report of the speeches, but a deep impression was made on the large audience by the speakers in showing up the condition of affairs in the Province under the present administration.

CARD OF THANKS.

K
Mr. C. A. McBride wishes to thank his many friends throughout the county for their kind assistance in helping him to secure such a large number of votes in the Contest, and trusts that he may be able in some way in future days to repay them for the favors they have bestowed.
