

The fourteenth season of the Young Adams Company would not be complete unless Woodstock were included in the tour, nor would the winter season of Woodstock be complete, unless this popular company, and particularly popular actor-manager Mr. H. Wilmet Young, paid us a visit. The natural result is, that the Young Adams Company, open a short engagement at the Hayden-Gibson theatre tonight in "Under the Bear's Paw." This bill gives splendid opportunities to the cast, and particularly to Miss Adams, who is ably supported by Mr. Young. Miss Adams has been the recipient of glowing newspaper comment throughout the present tour, and "Under the Bear's Paw" gives Miss Adams a role, in which to display her versatility. Mr. Young has also an admirably role which he handles skilfully; his performance at all times commanding interest. The cast is well balanced and a treat is in store for patrons who attend the performance given by this company. Besides a splendid drama abounding with sparkling comedy—a first class line of vaudeville is also given. Live high class, clean and clever acts will be presented, so that the evening's entertainment is arranged to suit the most exacting taste, as well as those who desire variety. Particular mention must be made of Miss Adams' wardrobe, which has been the subject of many press notices. Miss Adams has perhaps the most elaborate wardrobe of any actress in repertoire; during the engagement here, Miss Adams will wear many of her costumes, which should prove very attractive to the lady patrons. The usual prices will prevail. A matinee will be given Saturday afternoon, the prices being 10 and 20 cents. Bumper houses are expected to greet this popular company.
