Out For Surprises

Interest is growing in the BIG CONTEST. New nominations are coming in and a substantial gain has been made in the standing of some of the contestants since last week. Mrs. Lee is ahead, with Miss Pearl True a very close second, followed by Miss Gunter, who is also gaining. The other new candidate, Miss Olla Graham of River de Chute, will undoubtedly have to be reckoned with before very long and will probably be heard from next week, as will Mrs. J. Wilson Johnson, of Or Bow, who also appears today. Don't make any mistake—nobody has got a cinch on that piano or any other prize for some time yet. It is hard to tell who will be at the top next week and the winner will not be decided until the very last moment of the contest. Half-hearted work won't win a prize. It is the whole-hearted, enthusiastic, steady effort that will bring those prizes within your reach. NEW SUBSCRIPTIONS COUNT UP VERY QUICKLY.

More nominations will be coming in—Watch out—The slightest relaxation of effort may mean the loss of the prize you have set your heart on.

Read the conditions—Ask us any questions, we will help you in any way we can—KEEP AFTER THE GRAND PRIZE—Set your goal high —Keep at work. Look out for surprises next week.

The prizes are ideal and the Sentinel commands them to its readers, and manifests its approval by offering them to the contestants receiving the largest number of votes in this great contest.

NOW FOR ONE BIG EFFORT.

Mr. James Carr of this town has in his possession letters and papers addressed to the following: W. C.
Crow, J. Byrne, G. Green and Sam-he will be glad to deliver the letters.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Hay and thank all friends and relatives who cent bereavement.

MR. BORDEN FACE TO FACE WITH HIS OWN CHALLENGE

Liberal Leader, in the Senate Calls for Submission of Navy Bill to the People—They are the Sovereign Power and Their Mandate Must Be Obeyed

Sir George Ross Voices Aspirations of Manly and Self-Respecting Canadians—As an Imperialist He Opposed the Contribution Scheme and in a Dramatic Speech He sounded the Note of True Canadian Patriotism

Ottawa, May 27—The naval bill will have to be submitted to the people before it becomes law. Sir George Ross, the Liberal leader, who represented the majority in the senate, made this declaration today when he closed a notable speech that the people should be consulted upon an amendment which declared that a question of such far-reaching constitutional importance.

Great interest was shown in the proceedings. A large audience assembled to hear the speech. The government house gallery was filled by members of his royal highness' household, including Col. Lowther, Premier Borden and Mrs. Borden. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Lady Laurier were also present, with many members from both sides of the house of commons during the delivery of the speech. The debate ran until midnight and will be continued tomorrow afternoon.

It is now for the government to decide whether it will allow its naval aid proposals to drop or submit them to the people by a general election. Opinion is equally divided as to which course they will pursue.

SIR GEORGE ROSS.
(Canadian Press.)

Ottawa, May 27—In the senate this afternoon Sir George Ross, opposition leader, is an eloquent speech, at length, put forward the views of the Liberals in the upper house on the naval aid bill and moved an amendment to the motion for second reading that: "This house is not justified in giving its assent to this bill until it is submitted to the judgment of the country."

After Senators E. D. Smith, Alexander McCall, James Mason and J.
J. Donnelly had been introduced by Hon. Mr. Loughheed and Senator Taylor, Sir George Ross resumed the debate.

In opening, he congratulated the government leader, Hon. Mr. Loughheed for his able and comprehensive review of the situation. He then reviewed the origin of the question of naval defence in Canada at length.
He said the government of today was now responsible for the naval service act of 1910, since it had not repealed or amended it.

Touching but briefly on the question of an emergency, Sir George noted that the admiralty memorandum did not declare that there was an emergency but simply said if immediate aid was to be taken it should take the form of the largest and strongest ships of war which science can build or money supply.

The number and express character of these ships was not specific. That memorandum further said that Great Britain was still able to meet every need and to do all that was necessary unaided, if need be, to maintain her supremacy on the sea. In Great Britain there was no party strife and no disunion on the question of defence of the empire. That was the position which should obtain in Canada.

OBJECTIONS TO BILL.

The first objection he had to the present bill was on constitutional grounds. Under the British North America act the parliament of Canada was entrusted with defence. The present bill sought to put under the control of another government the monies that the Canadian parliament voted for defence purposes.

"The ships are to be given to Great Britain," said Sir George,
"merely as empty shells. This idea is abhorrent to me. Then the ships are to be maintained by the British taxpayer. The poor, impoverished people of Canada sends to Great Britain three empty shells and asks Britain to man them and keep them out of the way of all harm. Canada ties up her purse strings and

REVISORS FOR CARLETON CO.

New Man For Woodstock—John McDougall Forced to Make Way For E. R. Teed—Why?

The Royal Gazette on Wednesday, published the list of revisors for Carleton county as follows:

E. R. Teed, for the town of Woodstock.
Gilbert W. Brown, for the Parish of Woodstock.
John F. McLean, for the Parish of Richmond.
Edwin Lipsett, for the Parish of Wakefield.
Howard Read, for the Parish of Wilmot.
Oliver S. Miller, for the Parish of Simonds.
William Green, for the Parish of Wicklow.
G. W. Perry, for the Parish of Kent.
John Crawford, for the Parish of Aberdeen.
Allan Greer, for the Parish of Peel.
H. N. Boyer, for the Parish of Brighton.
Herbert N. Tompkins, for the Parish of Northampton.

supercilious in discussing the question of responsible government.
There may be emergencies when we have to yield a little here and there.
Indeed, if there were no other way of meeting the present difficulties at defence I would perhaps forego; if there were a real emergency some of my convictions on this report, because in danger everything must give way. There is no emergency in this case, so that we are not required to give way or surrender any of our constitutional rights."

A second objection was as Mr. Borden had himself pointed out in 1909 that the placing of the control of the money voted by the dominion parliament in the hands of a British minister, not responsible to the Canadian parliament, would lead to friction. It was a doctrine foreign to the whole trend of constitutional development under British institutions.
The third objection to the bill was that it did not provide for any permanent naval force in Canada. To use the words of Hon. G. E. Foster:
"There are no bones in it, no Canadian flesh or blood or mental attitude." It provided merely empty ships.

A fourth objection was that the bill did not provide for any Canadian training for naval service in Canada, as did the naval service act of 1910. In the one case the government proposed merely to place ships at the control of the admiralty. In the other case, under the Laurier act, the government proposed to place at the general service of the royal navy the officers and men serving on such ships.

EMPTY SHIPS, CANADA'S GIFT.
"The ships are to be given to Great Britain," said Sir George,
"merely as empty shells. This idea is abhorrent to me. Then the ships
are to be maintained by the British
taxpayer. The poor, impoverished
people of Canada sends to Great Britain three empty shells and asks
ada ties up her purse strings and
