A SACRIFICE TO SCIENCE.

The news of the death of Captain Scott while on his return journey, after a successful dash to the South Pole, has caused a wave of sympathy to sweep around the world. This daring man, had he been satisfied with returning to civilization content with receiving the applause which would have been his, though he had been beaten in his quest by the Norwegian Amundsen in point of time, even now would have been alive. But it was his choice to stay in the deadly ice fields that science might gain his sacrifice.

Men are filled with admiration for this man and his companions who helped him attain the goal of his ambition and who went to their death with their chief. These loyal companions in the days of danger and death ought not to be forgotten when tribute is being paid to Scott. The awful fate of this little party of explorers, the cutting off of men when their ambition is just realized, is a lesson to mankind. This lesson is simple because none other than "the paths of glory lead but to the grave."

The Moncton Transcript discussing the dismissal of James Friel from the office of registrar of probates and clerk of the peace for Westmorland says:

"The dismissal is said to be for cause, the cause being an alleged interference in local politics. Not one particle of evidence was submitted to prove that statement. It is true that there were some affidavits filed in the court but which are now admitted to have been forged to that effect. If the commissioner, Mr. Grimmer, was not influenced by the affidavits which are said to be forged, then upon what testimony outside of those affidavits did he justify his recommendation for this dismissal?"

"Mr. Grimmer is the attorney general of this province but as a partizan he holds an unenviable position. There is a suspicion that his mind may be made up before he holds an investigation. That was illustrated elsewhere than at Dorchester."

"At Dorchester there were brought before him, as attorney general, documents which are alleged to be forged and these documents were filed by a gentleman who is reputed to have been an applicant for the succession to Mr. Friel, but who was not appointed."

Does not Mr. Grimmer owe it to the people of this province when this matter was brought to his knowledge under the circumstances reported, to take proceedings against the alleged offender?"

Agricultural colleges, speakers and publications are doing their share toward stimulating interest in farm life, but bigger markets for farm products at good prices will bring the farmers to a point where they will realize that there are possibilities for them and opportunities worth embracing. The farmer works for reward the same as other men, and is ready to prove that when the reward is in sight he is not afraid to work. Many of the best lessons in agriculture must be learned through hard contact with the soil.

The one effective way to make Woodstock bigger and busier is to secure the hearty co-operation of the people in every movement calculated to promote the common development. Barriers always impede progress, and wherever a local craft becomes so barnacled as to become almost stagnant the only thing to do is to turn the thing over and do some vigorous cleaning. The people ought to get together in Woodstock and make a progressive year in the history of the community.

The action of the Council in doubling the license on picture shows seems to be meeting with much adverse criticism. Perhaps there is reasonable basis for complaint that the Council was too hasty, and that those affected by this legislation expect some indication of the Council's purpose and should at least be given a chance to be heard on a matter in which their interests are vitally affected.

For the price of hay and potatoes in Houlton we would refer the local Tory organ to the Richmond farmers who are selling in that market. They are losing $4.00 a ton on hay by paying the duty, and still have a larger margin of profit than they can get at home. The publication of comparative prices each week tells a story that should make these Empire savers and lip-loyalists blush with shame.

The people of Fort William have decided to appoint a business manager for the city. He will be appointed by the city council and salary will be no object if they can get the right man. This is to say, the city council of Fort William wants business principles applied to city government to the fullest extent. Commenting on its action, the Toronto World says:—"A good man would save any salary paid him many times over."

Councillor Dibblee wants a meter installed in the schools. For financial reasons this move would apply to private institutions, but there is a doubt that it will work out in the way intended in the schools—unless the town expects more revenue—in which case the revenue will come from the same old source—the taxpayer.

Hon. Geo. J. Clark has been elected to the speakership of the Legislature. This is Mr. Clarke's second term and he has filled the office with great credit and deserves the honor of a re-election. Mr. Clarke is undoubtedly the ablest man in the House and very popular with everyone.

The security of tenure is not attached to any office no matter how varied the qualifications of the incumbent. This is the Borden precedent.

The first vote of importance will afford the government little satisfaction. A majority reduced to 32 means something and is ominous for the Government.

The Public Accounts Committee searching for Liberal dredging scandals has been "baffled". Better give it up and "investigate" Bob Rogers.

The Liberal party, at Ottawa, have a great duty to perform and they can be depended upon to rise to the occasion.

Thou shall not covet ROOM 15, life, but bigger markets for farm products at good prices will bring the farmers to a point where they will realize that there are possibilities for them and opportunities worth embracing. The farmer works for reward the same as other men, and is ready to prove that when the reward is in sight he is not afraid to work. Many of the best lessons in agriculture must be learned through hard contact with the soil.

And all the military and the lightnings, and the noise of the trumpet; and when the military and the band saw it they were removed and stood afar off.

Councillor Lindsay does not approve of the fire department paying for water which it already owns. There is a system of bookkeeping which is a deep-rooted feature of town affairs that will require earnest and effective measures to wipe out, but Councillor Lindsay can be depended upon to give it some rough handling.

Some recent transactions would go to show that political partisanship should be eliminated from municipal affairs. To barter the town's interest for political and personal spite is something which the tax payers cannot afford and which no intelligent citizen should countenance.

Councillor Dibblee's criticism of some features of a picture house made a dent in the civic conscience of the town that raised the fee of picture houses from ten to twenty dollars. This is moral reform on a business basis, and a ringing cry for better vaudeville.

Councillor Gallagher is a hard-working, efficient official and his work street building is generally regarded as sound. No one doubts his honesty and his requests at the Council are always granted.

It may be some consolation to Tory farmers who voted against reciprocity to know that Hon. George E. Foster has gone to China to look up a market, which may include potatoes and hay.

Premier Murray never spoke truer words than when he said the other day that the people were beginning to feel that there were men in the Government at Ottawa who were a menace to the country.

The fate of Captain Scott and his party must be universally deplored, but it is the imminent danger of just such an ending that gives polar exploration a large part of its fascination.

Mr. Borden's majority of thirty-two on the naval bill would be wiped out by a change of sixteen seats. Mr. Borden will not go to the country if he can help it.

If you look forward to sometime being an oldest inhabitant, better write down all the particulars of this winter and have them attested by a notary public.

The first vote of importance will afford the government little satisfaction. A majority reduced to 32 means something and is ominous for the Government.

No wonder the House of Commons laughed when "Bob" Rogers said he was defending "an attack on my honor."

They are getting through the business of the session at Fredericton so as to be ready for the next.

Those who have been longing for winter weather will welcome spring as cordially as ever when it comes.

Have you invested in a ticket for the base ball automobile? If you have, here's hoping you will win.

The farmers are showing much enthusiasm and interest over the location of the new agricultural grounds.

Do you suppose that winter will be lingering in the lap of spring this year?

Here's that you may win the automobile.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY AND EXHIBITION GROUNDS

A Woodstock dispatch to the Telegraph, Feb. 15th, says:

W. A. McVey, of St. Stephen, was in town last week looking over the plans of the new public library. It is expected that tenders will soon be called for the construction of both the library and agricultural college. There is considerable interest over the meeting of the Agricultural Society to be held Wednesday night, when the question of grounds will again be taken up. The land desired is in the hands of two trustees, A. B. Connell and the mayor of the town, and was given to the town some years ago by the late John W. Connell. The Agricultural Society are anxious to buy this land, but it would appear that one of the trustees, Mr. Connell, is not anxious to sell and the matter, as it now stands, hinges on his decision, which is to be made known at the meeting Wednesday night.

The town council in a discussion at their last meeting were disposed to accede to the request of the Agricultural Society and passed the following resolution:

Whereas, The Carleton County Agricultural Society has been left without lands and buildings owing to the construction work of the St. John & Quebec Railway through their former lands, this council deem it advisable to request the trustees of the John W. Connell estate to sell at a reasonable price that portion of the John W. Connell property lying between the land owned by the estate of the late L. P. Fisher, on Elm street, and that part now used by the Golf Club, some fourteen acres, to the said Agricultural Society for agricultural buildings and for such other purposes as the society deems necessary.

As it is the intention of the society to expend from $30,000 to $35,000 building a race track and erecting buildings, the citizens are deeply interested in the matter and almost unanimous in the opinion that the grounds should be given to the society.

Rev. Chas. G. King, who has been pastor of a church in Portland, Me., for six years, and a church in Presque Isle for four years, has accepted the pastorate of the Adventist church in Woodstock, and will probably enter upon his duties this week.

The Missionary Anniversary will be held in the Methodist Church next Sunday. The Pastor will speak on the subject in the morning and Rev. Percy Fitzpatrick of Hartland, in the evening. A day of very special interest is looked for and a new impetus in the great Missionary Movement.

A REQUIEM RONDEAU

(To Charles H. Lynott, on the death of his mother.)

When mother dies the world grows gray,
As when the sunlight fades away
Ere darkling storm-clouds swiftly loom
The summer skies to shroud with gloom,
And spread night's pall o'er sparkling day.

Life's scheme seems all in disarray,
The heart bewails its prop and stay,
And peace and joy lose all their bloom
When mother dies.

Yet when we feel, as here we may,
That death means fuller life for aye,
And that the incensed, hallowed tomb
Is only Heaven's ante-room,
What shall we do but softly pray
When mother dies.
