POTATOES.

Some Tory papers have discovered that potatoes are being brought in to Sault Ste Marie, Ont., from Wisconsin, duty paid, at a considerably lower price than is quoted by Carleton County dealers.

The potato arguments of these organs of the "special interests" are merely spasmodic rather than vigorous.

The Ontario importation of potatoes can hardly be said to be on a colossal scale, as less than two thousand barrels have been imported in the three months ending Dec. 31st. The following are the official figures:

"Statement, by provinces, showing the imports for consumption in Canada, quantity and value, during the three months ended December 31st, 1912, of Potatoes, N.O.P.":

MR. BORDEN'S GREAT RESPONSIBILITY.

(Toronto Globe.)

The proposal of Mr. Guthrie that the parties arrange such a compromise on the issue of naval defence as will render a general election unnecessary places very great responsibility on Mr. Borden's shoulders. If he is sincere in desiring that the navy question shall not become a party football the way is open for a retreat from the position of antagonism to a Canadian naval defence force into which his alliance with the Nationals in 1911 forced him. In effect Mr. Guthrie, who voices a very general opinion among Liberal members, suggests that the Government will go on with its policy of immediate aid to the extent of ordering at once the construction of two Dreadnoughts in British yards. Should an emergency be apparent with these ships all ready for sea all parties in Canada would without hesitation place them at the disposal of the British Admiralty.

In consideration of the Liberals consenting to this it is proposed that the remaining portion of the appropriation of $25,000,000—some $11,000,000—shall be devoted to the enlargement of the Canadian naval service and the building in Canada of vessels for that service. In its practical working out this method of solving the problem would increase the naval strength of the Empire by two Dreadnoughts, several scouts or light cruisers of a type Lord Chas. Borden says are absolutely necessary, and a number of fast destroyers.

Even more important would be the result in strengthening the personnel of the navy. The failure of Mr. Borden's scheme to carry public sentiment with it is due to the fact that he proposes to give Britain money which she does not particularly need, and to do nothing toward securing the active participation of Canadians in the defence of their own shores and overseas trade. Britain needs men far more than she needs money, and a serious and sustained effort to build, man, and maintain in Canada vessels for the safeguarding of Canada's shores would before very long and several thousand trained and physically fit seamen and gunners to the Empire's naval strength.

Were Mr. Borden to accept the olive branch held out by Mr. Guthrie he would prevent the cleavage inevitable party lines that now seems inescapable. The Liberals of Canada will never consent to the firing of the naval defence of the Dominion either by occasional or annual contributions of money to the British Treasury. If the Premier is committed beyond recall to that principle, if he persists in the face of the proposed compromise in saying that no naval organization of an efficient character could be built up in this country within a quarter or perhaps half a century, THERE WILL BE A VERY STRENUOUS TIME IN PARLIAMENT DURING THE NEXT FEW MONTHS, WITH THE PROBABILITY OF A GENERAL ELECTION IN THE SPRING. Mr. Borden has the issue of peace or war in his own hands. His political reputation depends on the way in which he deals with the proposals of the Opposition.

SHOULD BE FROWNED UPON

Whether it can be construed as contempt or not, there is a preponderance of public opinion that the complexion of juries in this country is such that some uneasiness is felt by those who are looking for justice. Whatever may be the intention, these things do not go unnoticed and considerable criticism is heard that has a bad effect on the public mind. It may be that some of the criticism heard is based on incomplete information and is unjust, but the fact that it is talked about so much is evidence that there is something to criticize.

The danger of a condition of this nature will not pass unnoticed and if the selection of juries is carried on as is rumored those responsible will find that public sentiment will not stand this political tuggery.

The Tory litany offered daily in every Conservative temple of Borden-olatory is "Deliver us from the hands of the wicked Grits." From the hands of the wicked Grits, the Frederickton Gleaner heads an alleged Ottawa despatch with a three column heading reading "Will pass naval bill within next fortnight," and continues to state that the Liberals see it would hurt their party to oppose it. Now, this is precisely the reverse of that which the Liberal men bers have found in the constituency. Because Mr. Hugh Guthrie suggested to the government that it should amalgamate its own with the Liberal policy and take the naval question out of party politics, the Tory papers pretend that this created a sensation as a backdown. The sensation will be created if the government does not adopt the proposal. If the government does not adopt the proposal, then it will be proof positive that it is tied hand and foot to the disloyal tendencies of its Nationalist allies in the Province of Quebec. It is short-sighted journalism to fail to see the jutting rocks, on which the Tory ship lies in peril of being wrecked. Journals like The Frederickton Gleaner are merely whistling to keep their courage up.—Moncton Transcript.

SUBSTITUTES FOR PROFANITY.

It is said that the foreigner who comes to this country first learns to swear. It is the lingo he first hears. There are countries where profanity is practically unknown, countries where no one with any pretense at being a gentleman swears in public. Recognizing the fact that there are occasions when expletives bring relief to the surcharged mind, an authority has called out the following list for the use of those given to profanity, and he claims that through the use of them he can get rid of as much spleen as through the use of the rank and sulphurous kind of exclamations:

Gez Whiz!
Gosh!
By Heck!
Golly!
Piffle!
Tush!
Pish!
Great Scott!
My Gracious!
My Land!
Rats!
I Swan!
I Vum!
I'll Be Jiggered!
That's the Limit!
Blast it!

These are only a few suggestions for relief. They can be indefinitely multiplied. Pick out one, you to whom the English language is barren, and give it a fair trial, and see if you are not relieved.

Somewhere in the Koran, the good book of the Islam faith, under a section called "The Coming Award," is something to which the Turkish envoys to the London conference might well turn and ponder over a bit, for its application to the present Ottoman situation seems exact. It reads as follows: "Answer, I am able neither to procure advantage unto myself, nor to avert mischief from me, but as God pleases. Upon every nation is a fixed term decreed, when their term thereof is expired, they shall not have respite for an hour, neither shall their punishment be anticipated." May not the faithful find some consolation in this, now that the current of events has turned against them?

The Old Country politicians who are fighting Home Rule and predicting bloodshed in Ulster are the men whom the Tories of Canada delight to honor. They are the leaders of the party with whom the Borden Government have concluded a close offensive and defensive alliance. Think it over.—Chronicle.

The Liberals are unalterably opposed to the policy of giving a $5 million gold brick to Great Britain. Whether the stand taken by the Liberals should force the Government to the country is of little moment in comparison with the adoption of the policy of giving England an "emergency" gift of 35 millions when there is no emergency.

The true policy is the establishment of a Canadian navy, built, manned and maintained in Canada, for Canada, by Canadians and at the disposal of the Empire in the time of need.

The St. John Globe, a local government organ gives currency to a rumor that Premier Fleming is shortly to retire from public life. Unlike the average politician Premier Fleming has found public life fairly profitable from a financial standpoint and now that he has been just returned to power by an overwhelming majority it will be difficult for the ordinary Plebeian to see why he should want to pull up stakes and quit, unless it be that he deems it expedient to desert the ship of state before the public get wise to his curves.—Mail.

Double taxation falls upon two classes, the farmer and the home-maker. If either one of these classes buys land and runs in debt for four fifth of its cost, he must pay a tax just as large as though he owned the entire property. In other words, the man who borrows money on a farm, or a little home in effect pays a tax in what he owes as well as what he owns.

The Conservatives are conspicuously nervous over the attitude of the Liberals in the naval debate. They have good reason to fear an election. If Mr. Borden persists in his policy "there will be a very strenuous time in Parliament during the next few months, with the probability of a general election in the spring."

Fortunate indeed, is it that the winter thus far has been an unusually mild one, for had it been of unusual severity the high cost and scarcity of coal must inevitably have brought suffering to many people.

The town election wound up well. The choice was unanimous and good feeling prevails among all the citizens.

When the new Council gets in harness, those who know exactly what ought to be done should speak up.

The winter proves that the cold does not always begin to strengthen when the days begin to lengthen.

"The suns gettin' higher all the time" in spite of the fact that we do not see much of it these days.

If those with "skates on" confine their activities to the ponds there will be no complaint.

Is the Empire in peril for the want of $35,000,000? Asks Mr. Pugsley.

The first half of the winter is the "better half."
