TUBERCULOSIS.

Every year sees some increase of the knowledge possessed by the medical fraternity in regard to tuberculosis. In this month's issue of the famous English medical organ, The Practitioner, 36 specialists of world-wide recognition contribute articles, and in each one there is a message of hope, and an optimistic strain runs through them all.

There is no need here of relating the terrible ravages of the white plague, either in this country or in others. It is well known that deaths from this cause are so common as to pass with almost little consideration. Every person is exposed to the disease, many have it without knowing it, and many get over it, having been able to shake it off. But while one has it, one may act as a carrier and here is the danger of ignorance.

It is generally agreed by the expert in the Practitioner that ignorance is the cause of the high mortality. People are unable to recognize the disease in its early stages, and they either act as carriers unknowingly and then shake off the affliction or finally die of it. It is also noticed that the lower down in the social scale, the higher becomes the mortality from the white plague. And what is of most interest and of great importance is the fact that there is an agreement among these leaders of the medical world that an infant born to tuberculous people is at birth entirely free from the taint of the disease. If the little tot falls a victim to consumption it is the result of the ignorance or neglect of the parents. It is pointed out that one way that children in a tuberculous home may contract the disease is by playing on the floor, crawling over rugs and carpets where the germs are, and during their play transferring the germs from the floor to the mouth.

If these wise doctors be so wise as they are credited to be, then the lesson is obvious. There must be an untiring propaganda of education throughout the land.

THE SCOTT ACT.

The following figures from the report of Inspector Colpitts, for 1912, will be of interest to the citizens.

Received in fines	$1569.50
Paid Expenses	$251.85
Magistrate	270.00
A. B. Connell	350.00
Owen Kelly	152.50
Salary	300.00
Surplus	245.15
	$1569.50

Sept. 24—there is an entry of $50. paid J. N. Tompkins for detective work.
Dec. 7—$50. paid for secret information.

There is a charge of $42.00 "attending court in 42 cases in which no costs were recovered." $104.85 was paid out for witnesses.

The police magistrate's report to Dec. 1st shows 58 arrests for intoxication, 1 for fast driving, 1 for speeding automobile, 1 for profane language, 2 for interfering with garbage cans, 3 for fighting.

During Sept., Oct. to Nov. 16th, 28 were committed to jail and 31 fined. Fines collected amounting to $80.90; costs $74.90, leaving a balance in favor of the town of $6.00.

In discussing Chatham civic matters F. E. Neale writes the Commercial:

"My opinion is that the annual election of a town council is a mistake, and it ought to be a matter of very serious consideration whether or not some form of government, similar to that recently adopted by the city of St. John, would not be more advisable.

Then, I would like to state plainly that your town business will never be conducted satisfactorily or in the best interests of the town, so long as Scott Act administration is part of the Council's duties. It has been a stumbling block in the way of good town government ever since the town took hold of it. My personal opinion is that the only satisfactory solution of the temperance question is high license and the sooner our temperance friends realize this, the better for the town. The greater part of my life has been spent here as one of you, your interests are my interests, and as one of your representatives at the Council Board today, I do not think I should be doing my duty if I did not express these views to you and ask for them your earnest consideration, I trust you will appreciate the fact that they are made purely with one object, the good of the town we live in."

It is the opinion of the Sentinel that Mayor Ketchum and his Council gave earnest, honest and faithful service to the town during the past year. There may have been mistakes but if the board was backward in some cases it was progressive in many others and business methods were brought into town affairs that were productive of good results. There has been, perhaps, just criticism on account of lack of merit in some undertakings, but we believe there was always a sincere endeavour to carry on projects with the sole object of being of service to the community. The Mayor and gentlemen of the Council have made many friends and they will retire with the reputation of being sincere in their efforts for town betterment.

The services of a CERTIFIED ACCOUNTANT should be secured to go over the town books and audit the town accounts. A report supplementary to the regular report should be given to the citizens.

No doubt the town treasurer recognizes the value of having an certified accountant go over the books at the end of the year, it would increase the satisfaction for work well done to himself and add to the assurance given to the people that all is well. It would be a most excellent procedure, satisfactory alike to the people and treasurer and would be a step that good business judgment dictates.

That Councillor Balmain can be relied upon to give faithful service to the town was demonstrated in his report as Chairman of the Poor Dept. He was able to announce a substantial surplus with the affairs of the department in good working order.

Councillor Mair retires with all the honor that belongs to a position worthily filled as a public official. All know his lofty conception of good citizenship, and that is as good as being a Councillor, after all.

Councillor Gibson was frank in his acknowledgment of a deficit in the fire department, but it is wiped out by the best equipment the town ever had.

Will the town adopt a policy of having a trained man look after its business? A man fitted by education and experience could do good work.

The expected has happened—the Canada West India Company will not connect with those "BIG DIVIDENDS."

The Scott Act enforcement, as now carried on, should command the thoughtful consideration of the new council.

Councillor Gallagher announced the fact that a vote for permanent streets is a vote for economy.

Hon. W. P. Jones, announced that his "hat was in the ring," and the announcement was well received.

The chairman of any committee should be in complete control of his subordinates.

How many of those good resolutions have gone by the board already?

Councillor Dibblee delivered a knock-out punch to Scott Act methods.

The citizens were conspicuous by their absence.

The prophets of evil had nothing to say.

The Council made good.

Is winter really here?

OBITUARY

DAVID CROPLEY.

David Cropley an old resident of Forestville, North Lake, died Jan. 9, of La Grippe and heart failure. He was a man very highly respected in the community; has been county councillor, post-master for a large number of years, and with his son kept a large store. He was a valued member of the Loyal Orange Lodge.

MRS. JANE KELLEY

We regret to chronicle the death of Mrs. Jane Kelley, which occurred Tuesday, after a long illness borne with patient fortitude. The deceased was 78 years of age and is survived by two sons, Owen and Ambrose, both at home, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Gallagher and Mrs. Belle McDade of Lowell, Mass. One son, Owen, is Woodstock's Chief of Police. The funeral was held from St. Gertrude's church Thursday morning.

TORIES DO NOT WANT ELECTION

Liberals' Policy May Be to Force Borden to Country-Government Has Million For Campaign

Ottawa, Jan. 15—The programme of the Liberals respecting the naval bill will be decided at a caucus next week. Members on both sides of the house are coming back slowly. There was but a handful in attendance yesterday and few came today. Neither side could hold a representative caucus until next week.

Most of the Liberal members who have returned seem to be in favor of forcing the government to the country if possible. They are generally confident that they could succeed in a campaign upon the naval question.

The Conservative members say that there will be no election upon the navy and that the government would be returned if there was.

One member is credited with having said that the government now has a campaign fund of a million dollars and that it can get as much more as it requires. About half of this sum was left from the last general election when the Conservatives were supplied with more money than they were able to spend. The remainder has since been collected from various sources.

It is certain that the Liberals have no such fund and in fact they have none, but it is pointed out that a party in their position can go through a campaign and make a good showing with very little campaign funds. It looks today as if the Liberals will try to force an election and that the government will strenuously resist.

Most members are expecting a long debate and a bitter one. There will be nothing but navy unless the government decides to change its house programme, for the naval bill is made the daily order of business for every sitting day until disposed of, to the exclusion of all other business. Even the private members days have been taken. The present speaker may be counted upon to keep the opposition pretty close to the resolution.

COUNTY COURT

The County Court met Tuesday, Judge Carleton presiding.

The Jury found a true bill in the case of the King versus Lemuel McIntyre for assault on J. Harold Hayden and Albert Hamm. Owing to Habeas Corpus proceedings this case will be tried January 23rd.

A bastardy case, the King, at the instance of the oversees of the poor, Parish of Kent, vs. Maurice McCrea, was dismissed after argument. J. R. H. Simms for plaintiff, T. J. Carter for defendant.

John S. Rogers versus B. F. Smith, an action for recovery of $190. for fertilizer plaintiff alleged he supplied to a third party for which the defendant became responsible. The defendant denied the contract. After deliberating for two hours the Jury reported a disagreement. W. P. Jones for plaintiff, J. C. Hartley for defendant.

The case of the town of Woodstock versus Margaret Sherrard, an action for taxes, on affidavit of defendant and her physician, presented by A. B. Connell as to her illness, the case was allowed to stand over until the next term of court.

GET ON THE RIGHT SIDE

One hears nowadays about "town boosting," "booster citizens", etc. It's all very good talk and should be repeated over and over again.

But there is a deeper side of the subject in what might be called town spirit—the keen feeling of loyalty to any cause that belongs in your town.

In schools and colleges a great deal is said about school spirit. The pupils are exhorted to stand by their athletic teams, to root for them, to support school entertainments, as something expected of every member of the school.

If towns could have the same feeling, how many a community might go ahead. If you root for new enterprises as the boys root for the ball team, nothing could stop your community's growth. Even from selfish reasons that spirit of loyalty pays. Every new enterprise that can be built up here, every public improvement, every store, factory and farm, all professional service, all faithful labor, the entertainments that are given, the churches that are supported and the societies that are conducted, all help to make the community more attractive and livable. They attract new residents and they bind old ones to our homes.

The tie between the people living in one town ought to be one of loyal friendship. If you meet a townsman a thousand miles away, you welcome him like a long lost brother. Next time you see him on your own street you pass him with a cold nod.

In towns where there is a fraternal spirit between the people, there grows up a feeling of affection for that community. If you move away from such a town you never forget the cordial welcome you met there and you never cease to speak a good word for it. All of which makes life pleasanter, and from the sordid point of view it is good advertising both for the community and the individual.

Now, how about yourself? Are you a booster for your own town? Or are you a knocker? Think it over and get on the right side.
