(Continued from page six.) looked after their finances. He admitted having received one letter from W. H. Berry after June 3, soon after Berry arrived in Boston, but said that he had not replied and had no communication with him. He also denied having any communication with G. C. Cutler since April 6, or knowing whether Berry had seen Mr. Cutler since he left St. John.

The premier said he knew nothing of Mr. Brankley's leanings in federal politics. He denied that Mr. Brankley had paid anything to the defendant or to him for the privilege of violating the law prohibiting the exportation of rossed pulp wood from crown lands.

The witness could not recollect any of his colleagues having asked him if the lumbermen were not paying more than their bonus for the renewal of their licenses.

It had been reported to him that the Bathurst Lumber Company were cutting under-sized logs and he had referred the matter to Mr. Berry. He denied that that the company because they paid well for the privilege. He said he did not know of any lumber men claiming special privileges on account of their contributions.

In 1913 he had given the Dominion Pulp and Paper Company the privilege of cutting logs slightly under size to thin out a thicket and improve the growth. He did not know until recently that they had continued this year and did not know that they protested that they had paid dearly for the privilege.

The premier would not fix the date of his meeting with Messrs. Brankley, Berry and Teed, but said it would be before June 6.
