

Grow Corns If You Will But don't keep them

One can't well avoid corns in these days of dainty shoes. But it's folly to keep them, pare them and doctor them.

A chemist has invented a way to cure corns quickly. It is known as Blue-jay. Attach it and the corn pain stops at once. Then a bit of wax—called B & B wax—loosens the corn very gently. In two days the whole corn disappears without any pain or soreness.

It seems magical. After a Blue-jay plaster is applied, the shoe can't hurt the corn. After 48 hours there is no corn to hurt.

Folks have proved this on some 70 million corns. They are removing in this way a million corns a month.

That's why corns are not so common as they used to be. Blue-jay plasters came—folks found them out—and half the corns that grow today are quickly ended by them.

LITTLE DICK

(By Virginia Shaw, age 11 years, Upper Woodstock.)
Once there was a little bird,
And he always used to sing;
And the children could not catch him
For he was a smart little thing.

Oh, that little bird was cute!
But he did not live very long,
For he flew against the wires
And that ended his little song.

And they buried him one day
In a casket made of glass;
So on the 6th of May
He was laid away to rest.

You can look into his casket
And see him lying there,
He has gone away forever
And has left this world so fair.

The children gathered flowers
For the grave of little Dick,
And they made a little tomb-stone
And they put it on a stick.

Little Dick was very pretty,
His breast was white as snow;
And the children found him dead
Just two days ago.

The sun shines on the grave
Of a little bird named Dick;
The children carried flowers,
And they laid them very thick.

The children buried Dick,
With moans and cries and groans.
