

LOCAL AND GENERAL

When a Woodstock citizen goes into a strange community he is either favourably impressed by the neat condition of the street and private premises, or he is unfavorably impressed by the evident lack of care and civic pride which may be evidenced by dirty yards, untidy lawns, streets filled with waste paper and uncleared gutters. It is exactly the same when a stranger comes to Woodstock. He gets his good or bad impressions of the town by its outward appearances. This is clean-up week.
