NO SUCH ASSURANCE IN NEW BRUNSWICK.

(Globe)

Manitoba's new Attorney General is quoted as saying there will be no delay, no hedging, in prosecuting to the full extent of the law those, irrespective of rank or former power, concerned in the Parliament Buildings contract scandals. How welcome would be assurances of a similar nature from the Attorney General of New Brunswick with reference to the Valley Railway report, Gloucester frauds and the Crown lands deals, and from the Solicitor General of Canada for the punishment of those who thought more of personal gain than of public interest in connection with the sale of war materials.

Commissioner Chandler declines to investigate Mr. B. F. Smith's "patronage" connection with the potato gift. IT WILL BE EXPOSED, MR. COMMISSIONER.

If you want to obtain some conception of the size of the Russian empire just recall that the Czar's armies have been retreating for four months now and are still on the outskirts. Pretty big country that, for the Germans to overrun.

The Manitoba grafters will be prosecuted. The light fingered gentry that were prominent in the New Brunswick steal are still free to ply their vocation.

It is reported that the somewhat mysterious visit of special Auditor Dunlop to Woodstock on Sunday had some connection with the crown land matters and incidentally the famous timberland huddle fund. At Woodstock he held a conference with ex-Premier Flemming and Treasurer Teed. The arrival in the city yesterday of Mr. Willard Berry, former superintendent of scalars, has caused some speculation. Mr. Berry seems to be on friendly terms with Tory politicians, particularly Harry Woods the party organizer.—Mail.

TRADE-AT-HOME MOVEMENT

"After a newspaper man, who had yelled himself hoarse in the effort to persuade people to patronize home merchants, stumbled to the fact that the aforesaid merchants were sending away for their job printing, his confidence in mankind had a severe jolt."—Exchange.

"Yes, and they are the same men that will send to mail-order houses or jobbers for goods that they don't carry in their own stocks for their own use or the use of their friends in order to get them at wholesale prices and to avoid letting a fellow-merchant make a reasonable profit."—The Advance.

The trade-at-home movement is based on the theory of live and let live, and within reasonable bounds means the patronizing of home merchants when they can furnish the articles which are wanted. The apparent beneficiaries are the local merchants, as it adds to the volume of their business. Of course the benefits ultimately are spread over the whole community but, inasmuch as the merchants stand in the apparent position of being the beneficiaries, it would seem reasonable that they should be foremost in the ranks of those who practice the trade-at-home preachings. If they do not, if they are unwilling to do what it is urged that men engaged in other walks of life should do, they ought not to complain if those others trade from mail order houses or go anywhere else they may want to. Of course there are some people in the world who are always most anxious to receive and who are equally reluctant to give. Merchants who will not patronize other home merchants or industries belong to this class and they are not genuine community workers. The trade-at-home movement is reasonable and logical if it is not imposed upon by the merchants either in the way of offering inferior goods or of boosting prices. But the merchants must show that they believe throughly in the movement by keeping their personal trade at home, else the effort of others will be worse than wasted.

We are all in this fight, and we should be all one in spirit.

In Ontario, where, according to the claims of some politicians, all the loyalty and interest in the Empire are centred—the bulwark as we are told of national and imperial interests—in Ontario the percentage of enlistment to population is only 1.44.

The percentage in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and British Columbia averages 2.44 per cent.

Our chums and friends and neighbours have gone to fight and they need help. Every man who can help should take his place beside them.

It should be possible to make the military organization sufficiently elastic to admit additional officers enthusiastic enough to covet a place therein.

WEDDINGS

The marriage took place in St. Gertrude's Church, on Wednesday morning, at a quarter to seven, of Miss Alice Lenehan and Mr. Alphonsus Riordan. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. J. McMurray in the presence of a large number of the friends of the contracting parties. The bride, who was unattended, was attired in her travelling suit of navy blue cloth with hat to match. The happy couple left immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trip, which will include Montreal, Toronto and Niagara.

On Thursday morning at 6 o'clock, in St. Gertrude's Church, Rev. F. J. McMurray united in marriage Miss Mary Brophy and Mr. John St. Thomas. The bride wore her travelling suit of navy blue, and was attended by her sister Miss Jennie Brophy. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's mother, where a wedding breakfast was served, after which the young couple left on a trip to Montreal and Toronto.

The marriage was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley DeLong, of Miss Effie May DeLong and Mr. Harry D. Moody. The bride, who was given away by her father, was dressed in white silk, and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and maiden hair fern. The bride couple were unattended. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank Baird, pastor of the Presbyterian church. The happy couple left that evening for their home at Ashland, Me.

CANADA'S WEALTH

Canada's great wealth now centres in the Western Harvest fields. The yield will be above the average—farm assistance must come from all quarters. The first excursions to reach Winnipeg will be from the Maritime Provinces. Government representatives and farmers will be on hand, and months of employment with good wages is assured. If the great demands now being made upon Canada in the matter of good products are to be fully met, it is the important duty of every man that can possibly do so to lend assistance in gathering and taking care of the enormous crops now at the point of maturity. Let the farmer of the East share the work and the profit with his fellow farmer of the West. Let the farmers of the Maritime Provinces be found in great numbers in the harvest fields—an occupation that will be of material benefit to themselves, and add to the productiveness and prosperity of the entire Dominion.

HOULTON AMATEURS DO FINE WORK

Present the Amusing Comedy "Are You An Elk?" to Capacity House—Specialties Make Decided Hit—Audience Heartily Applaud the Young Performers

A capacity house was on hand, Monday evening, to greet the Houlton amateurs in the clever comedy "Are You An Elk?" From the time the curtain went up until the close there was not a moment when something delightful or comic was not being presented. The fifty young people in the cast had come fresh from a notable triumph in their own town where they were greeted by crowded houses at two performances. The first rehearsal was held only two weeks before the performance and it seems incredible that a company busy all day at their various occupations could draw forth such continuous applause and laughter as was done Monday night, we are very glad to say, to a large and representative audience. It is difficult to write a description of the performance that will place all the credit where it is due, but to begin with the play was pregnant with amusing situations. Mr. James Gillan, as Harry Davis, was exceptionally good and he gave a fine representation of a husband who is making desperate efforts to meet the approval of an exacting mother-in-law.

Miss Cochran captivated the audience and everyone was delighted with her clever acting.

Especially credit is due Miss Adelle McLoon who took the difficult role of a mother-in-law. She was extremely clever and kept the audience in roars of laughter by her fine presentation of a rather trying character.

Miss Mary Carroll was delightful and gave a very finished and graceful presentation of her part and looked charming in the pretty gowns which she wore.

Mr. Lee Stone, as Uncle Hiram, was mirth provoking, and brought forth exclamations of laughter and delight from the audience. His song drew forth an insistent encore.

Mr. T. H. Bird, who becoming quite well known in local circles, was very pleasing and made the audience laugh heartily and gayly in the amusing situation which characterized the part taken.

Miss Leighton, Miss Shaw, Miss Champion added very materially to the success of the performance. Messrs. Burns, Eaters, Marriott and Putnam all did well and won applause for their clever work.

Miss Lorraine Cross in her song and stage presence was a pleasure.

She possesses the true instinct of musical acting and her singing made a very decided impression upon the audience. It was one of the most enjoyable features of the evening.

"Fakes," a duet by Miss Marion Cleveland and Mr. Ernest Scribner assisted by a full chorus was a gem and the movement of both principals and chorus kept up the sustained impression of brightness and vivacity that is not usually associated with amateurs. The enclosures of this feature were frequent and decided.

"Here's a Rose for You" added a touch of completeness, by the settings and costumes, to a very pretty stage picture. The scenic effect was excellent. The pretty song, by Miss Lorraine, was crowned by a chorus very effectively rendered.

The duet by Miss Elizabeth Shaw and Harold Marriott received well merited applause as did the solo of Miss Leighton and dancing of Miss Hackett and Mr. Stone.

The grand finale "The Waltz of the Rose" with the solo by Miss Cleveland, who has a very sweet voice, and the lit chorus was effectively rendered.

A pleasing incident at the close was the singing of God Save the King by the company with the British flag floating in the centre of the stage. The audience cheered loudly and deeply appreciated the compliment of our American cousins.

Miss Helen Chadwick played the accompaniments most acceptably. The charming girls, pretty costumes, pleasing singers, well balanced choruses, and sparkling comedy, amused and filled the audience with gayest laughter. There was nothing that did not please. Come again!

Woodstock, N.B., Sept. 2nd, 1915.

August 25th, was the scene of a very interesting and pretty event, when Miss Mary Catherine Bowen, one of Johnville's most popular young ladies was united in marriage to Mr. Charles E. McAloon, of Bangor, Me. The nuptial mass was sung by Rev. R. J. Coughlan. The bride was prettily attired in a gown of crepe-de-chene with shadow lace trimmings and wore a bridal veil of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Annie Furlong who looked attractive in a costume of battleship gray with hat to match, while Colman Bowen, brother of the bride supported the groom. Following the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served at the home of the bride. The bride's presents were numerous and costly, including china, silver, cut glass and one hundred dollars in gold. After a honeymoon trip in the New England States the happy couple will take up their residence in Bangor, Me., where the groom holds a lucrative position in the firm of Bacon P. Robinson.

At the Reformed Baptist Parsonage, Woodstock, N. B., August 30th, 1915, Wentworth Murphy and Valla Victory, both of Houlton, Me., were united in marriage by Rev. H. P. Dow.
