Guark Baby's Health In the Summer

The summer months are the most dangerous to children. The complaints of that season, which are cholera infantum, colic, diarrhoea and dysentery, come on so quickly that often a little one is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly to cure them. No other medicine is so safe to mothers as Minard's Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe, said by medical authorities or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CORROBORATORY EVIDENCE. Rather an interesting "memorandum" isn't it? We have evidence of the absolute correctness of several of the amount. For example, John Kennedy swore that he handed Flemming $2,000 and Corbett did not hesitate to say—though he would not come to New Brunswick to testify—that he paid Flemming $10,000. Gould says he holds Flemming's receipts for $400,000. This evidence was not given on the stand but there isn't any doubt about it. Hibbard & Co. were in the same class as Corbett and had a much better contract. That they should have to "ante-up" is not surprising. Drummond had received guaranteed bonds for $297,000 to build a railway to his iron mines, which the government had conceded to him or his corporation for a nominal royalty and this $10,000 was but an addition to other amounts subscribed to the Tory press in New Brunswick. Last, but not least, the Prudential Trust Company is down for $3,000. This concern had over four million of money raised by the bonds guaranteed by New Brunswick in its possession, with almost unlimited power of investment. There is still a million of this money in its hands. I have no special evidence other than this "memorandum" that they contributed $9,000 to the campaign fund but the fact that the name of this trust company which had been so signally favored with a huge deposit when money was scarce and interest rates high was included in such a list as a contributor is most significant. It is not only significant it is alarming to think that men should be willing to pay such an amount to get the handling of the money of the people.

FLEMMING'S PART IN IT. There is no reasonable doubt that Flemming acted as treasurer. He distributed the money to buy himself into power again. The men who were elected by the money of Gould and others have been unable to protest in the interests of the people. Their mouths were shut when they accepted part of the huge campaign fund. Many of them—the most of them—stand by the man who handed them their election money for they voted to whitewash him as against the verdict of the royal commission. They fear what Flemming might say if they did not stand by him and Flemming fears what Gould can tell. The members were sharers and partners with their leaders. They should have followed him into retirement. They will when the people get a chance to vote. They were equally guilty with Flemming for they knew where the money came from and what was expected of them.

What became of the balance of the fund? Did Premier Flemming divide? They who know say "No." He made a trip to the west and bought lands. He made some local investments in stocks and bonds and the next spring began to get another campaign fund from the lumbermen, which everybody knows all about now. Rather sickening, isn't it?"
