No Trace Of Mr. Allison Carr

No trace has been found of Allison Carr who disappeared so mysteriously Sunday night. He left his home about eight o'clock to get a bottle of liniment and not having returned at a late hour his family became anxious and tried to find him. It is known that he was on the bridge and his pipe and a letter were picked up there. Acting on the supposition that he might have fallen over, into the water below, the river has been searched by men with grappling irons but up to this writing no trace has been found. Wednesday his relatives decided to offer a reward of one hundred dollars for the ward of one hundred dollars for the recovery of his body. The search is known that he was on the bridge fraught with difficulties owing to the cold weather.

Rev. H. C. Archer and Mrs. Archer of Fort Fairfield spent Sunday in town the guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. Mooers.

Mrs. A. W. Fields and daughter, Marion, returned last week from New York.

BREEZY GOSSIP OF LIFE WITH THE 55TH

Reported will be Reserve Battalion—Men feel keenly over the Arrangement—Promised would go as Unit—Part of Pay held Back—Why not wait till get to Trenches?

Stationed at Westenhanger, Shorncliffe, Kent, Eng. On January 30th news arrived at Branshott Camp, Hants, that the men of the 55th Battalion were in for a move. All week-end passes were cancelled and the battalion entrained for the Shorncliffe district in two troop trains on Monday, January 31st, being played to the station, about three miles, by the band of the 44th Battalion. We travelled by the way of Guilford, Reigate and Redhill, when we pulled up at a station called Westenhanger about four miles from Shorncliffe, six miles from Folkestone and two and a half miles from Hythe. The camp is quite close to the station, but the mud here is the worst yet, having previously been occupied by the men of a field battery, consequently this accounts for the soupy nature of the aforesaid mud. It is very little use of cleaning boots, for the mud is so deep that it is impossible to keep them clean. We arrived here on Monday evening about 5 o'clock and next morning we set about cleaning up the place. About 1.45 p.m. we were warned to turn out for parade at 2.15, when Lieutenant Colonel on the staff inspected the battalion. He was so pleased with the battalion that he issued orders for everyone to be confined to camp till Saturday which caused a great deal of hard feeling, because the men considered that they never had a square deal. On Saturday, however, nearly all the battalion went off eight miles to Hythe, Shorncliffe and Folkestone. However, our liberty was soon brought to an end on account, so it is said, of several cases of measles breaking out. After four days' liberty, the battalion is now quarantined for 21 days, whilst at the same time men have been transferred to it. (Continued on page eight.)

TORY CRAFTER DEFEATED IN PEEL COUNTY

A Turn-over of 1,000 Votes
—Victory for Honor in Public Life

BRAMPTON, Ont., Feb. 24—W. J. Lowe, Liberal candidate in Peel County was today elected to the legislature by a majority of 305 over J. R. Fallis, former Conservative member, whose resignation of his seat owing to the disclosures in the recent investigation into the horse purchases in Peel opened the constituency. Mr. Fallis' majority at the last election was 627.

GETTING TOGETHER FOR A GOOD CAUSE

Speakers Urge Need of Greater Sacrifice—Visit to Smith's Lumber Camp will Provide Good Results—Partial list of Those who Signed Roll of Honor in February

On Friday evening of last week, there was a well attended recruiting meeting held at Sticksney, when addresses were made by T. C. L. Ketchum, Sergt. Campbell, Corp. Williams and others. Musical selections were given by the choir of the church. Sticksney has already done very well in the way of recruits, for a small community, and several more are getting ready to enlist. Mr. Joseph Crunt, who got up the meeting deserves credit for the success of the affair.

On Tuesday, by leave of Corn. Wallace Smith a party visited his large lumber camp back of Jackson town, where there are about 1,000 men at work. Those who went out were T. C. L. Ketchum, Sergt. Campbell, Corp. Williams, Private Green of the Military Police and Private Barnes. The party was most hospitably treated by the men in the camp. There was an informal meeting in which brief addresses were made, with musical selection by (Continued on page eight.)

REPORT OF FRANK BUCK'S INJURIES FALSE

In Hospital for slight Operation—His Mother Receives Letter from Capt. Fairweather

Belgium, Jan. 31st, 1916.
Dear Mrs. Buck:—Just a few lines to let you know that Frank has found it necessary to go to the hospital for a short time. Under ordinary circumstances you might be worried but the operation is not a serious one and the rest of six weeks or two months which will follow will give him an excellent rest, and will relieve your

PROSPERITY DAY A GRAND SUCCESS

Stores Crowded with Shoppers all Day—Merchants do Thriving Business—"Miss Prosperity" Successfully Evaded Capture—The Story of Her Experience

Prosperity Day was a success from every point of view. The merchants who were the principals in the event, the people who were out for bargains and those who were enjoying the fun looking for Miss Prosperity, all speak of the day as the event of the season. The stores were crowded all day and the clerks were kept busy from 8.30 a.m. until closing. Many people were in town from outside districts and altogether it was a merry throng of shoppers. Towards evening the efforts to find Miss Prosperity were doubled and some amusing incidents were developed.

I am very sorry to lose him even temporarily for I have been so well looked after while he has had charge of my things that I feel quite lost. When he comes back I will take just as good care of him and hope he will come through without a scratch. Yours very truly,
C. E. FAIRWEATHER, Capt., 26th Batt., C.E.F., 5th Inf. Brigade, H.E.F., Army Ps., London, Eng.

Touching Letter of Heroic Death of Sergt. J. A. Bull

His Death was Sudden—A Favorite with all Ranks

The following letter with reference to the death of Sergt. J. A. Bull on the battlefield of Flanders has been received by Mrs. Bull.

In the Field, 10-2-16.
My Dear Mrs. Bull:—You have by this time no doubt heard through Ottawa a out your husband, Sergt. Bull, that he met his death on Tuesday morning, Feb. 28th. I should have written you before, but even now I feel it hard to write you and adequately express my sympathy for you and yours in this time of sorrow and bereavement. Sergt. Bull was a favorite with all ranks, and his rapid rise from the ranks of Lance-Sergeant is a proof of his ability as a soldier. He was struck down while carrying some steel helmets to his men and that he met his death instantly and painlessly, instead of having to suffer in a way a comfort. In is hard to comprehend, or understand why, he was the one to be (Continued on page eight.)

opted in trying to make the capture. Several young ladies were "shadowed" and in some cases it was insisted that the capture had been made. At six o'clock Miss Edith Everett who had carried out the part of Miss Prosperity and had avoided capture successfully all day surrendered in Watson & True's store at six o'clock. The following is Miss Everett's story of her experiences during the day:

A few minutes after ten o'clock I went in B. W. Mair's and talked to Mr. Newham—Mrs. Mahony who was present suggested that I go over to the 5 & 10 where veils were being distributed to those buying goods.

I then went to Garden's drug store and Mr. Garden waited on me and we talked about Miss Prosperity. Mr. Poole who was there also gave me pieces on some articles I inquired for. Shortly after I visited Dible's and talked to George Dible concerning flashlights. While here Jack Dible called out that I had better be careful or I would be challenged as Miss Prosperity. I then went to Mair's and the place was full of shoppers. While there I talked to Miss McKinney regarding the bargains. As I left there the 5 & 10 were just sending up balloons. I went into the 5 & 10 and waited until the pie was awarded for the lucky balloon ticket. While in there I talked to Mr. and Mrs. Storm about the veils previously mentioned. In the afternoon I went into G. W. Gibson's store and was measured for a skirt and told him I was trying to catch Miss Prosperity. From there I went to Stevens Bros. drug store and talked to Mr. Douglas Stevens about the days business and made a purchase from him. I next visited Gibson & Ross shoe store and the place was so crowded I could not get waited on. I said to Mr. Ross "this is like Christmas" and I told Mrs. Bert Gardner to tell him I would be back. I went into J. R. Brown's and talked to Ernest Burtt. I then called at Verxas and remained there some time. From there I went to Bally's shoe store and had a conversation there with Mrs. Keeney and showed her the Carleton Sentinel—I noticed Mrs. Charles Peabody and thought she had her eye on me and I fully expected to be captured. I spoke to Gordon Bailey but he was very busy. James A. Gibson's was the next place I called and I asked Mr. Atherton to show me some silver pins—just at this time more balloons were going up and we went to the door to see the fun and I did not return, but went down to McLean's drug store and talked to the clerk a few minutes. I then crossed over to McManus' dry goods store and asked Miss Nora Judge to show me some ribbon—I also spoke to Mr. McManus, inquiring as to his wife's health. I went into Mrs. Moores and was waited on by Rev. Mr. Archer, who was there and made an excellent clerk. I went to Mair's again and while there was seen indirectly by Mrs. Robert Riley & I was Miss Prosperity. After this I visited Belge's meat market. Then I went to Corger's tailor shop and asked Mr. Corger about cloth for a skirt and had measure taken for one. At almost six I visited Watson & True's and not having been evicted looked for someone to whom to surrender. No one being in the store I noticed Miss Elva Verward with a Sentinel in her hand and on her way to challenge Miss Mary Sorace, I called her in and "gave myself up" and she accompanied me to the Sentinel Office.
