

If you suffer from this painful malady, apply Zam-Buk. It is purely herbal, quickly eases the dull, gnawing pain, stops bleeding, ends the irritation, and in a short time completely and permanently cures. Zam-Buk should be in every home.

Mrs. C. Hanson, Poplar, B.C., says: "I suffered for years with bleeding piles. The pain was often so bad I could hardly walk. I tried remedy after remedy, and finally underwent an operation, but only got temporary relief. At last I tried Zam-Buk. Perseverance with this completely cured me and there has been no return of the trouble."

An interesting event took place at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon in St. Paul's (Valley) church, St. John, when J. Percy Burchill, of Nelson, Northumberland county, was united in marriage to Miss Jean Gordon Garden, daughter of Mrs. and the late Julius T. Garden, formerly of Woodstock and now residing in St. John. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. G. Alder, the locum tenens, assisted by Archdeacon Porsythe of Chatham.

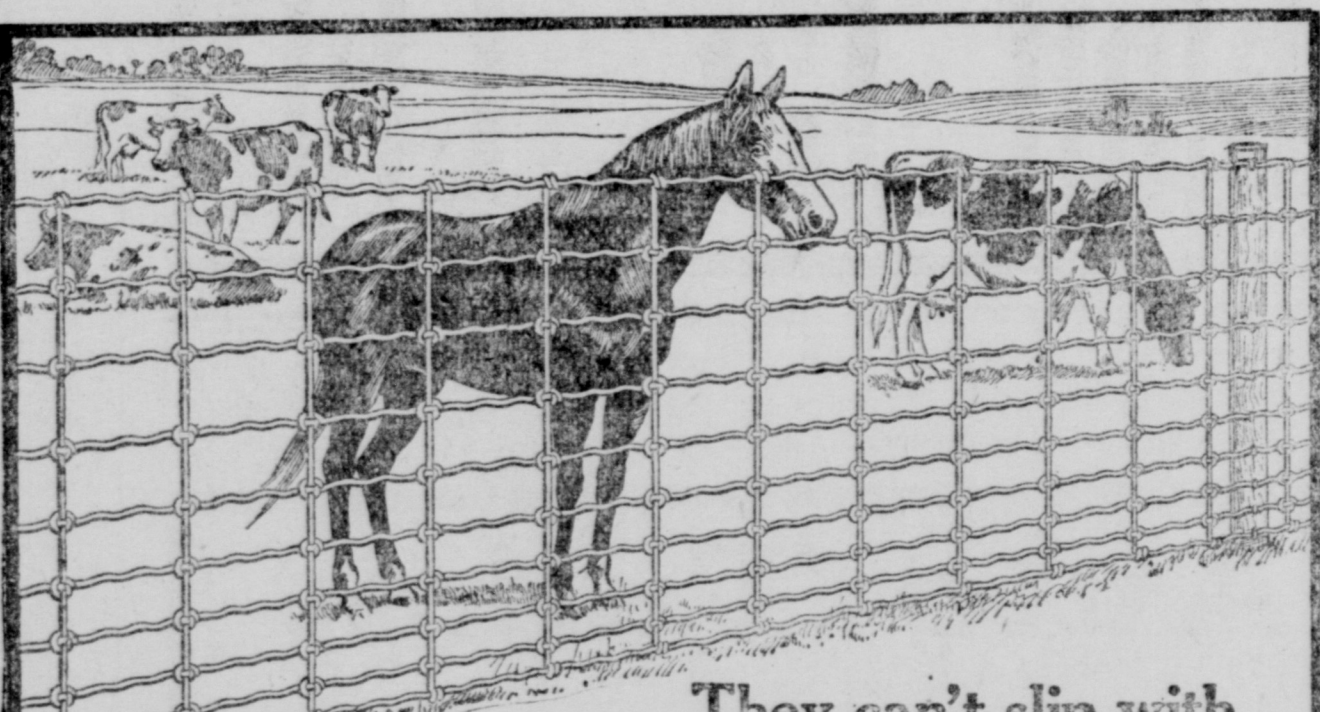

The bride wore a becoming traveling costume of sand color, trimmed with Alaskan sable, hat of sand colored crepe de chene with touches of coral pink and wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses. She was attended by Miss Edna Jarman of Shediac, as bridesmaid, wearing a tailored suit of dark green with black and white hat. David Ritchie of Newcastle, acted as groomsmen.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Burchill left by the Boston train for a wedding trip to Boston and New York and on their return will reside in Nelson, where Mr. Burchill is associated in the lumbering business with his father.

John P. Burchill and Mrs. Burchill, parents of the bridegroom, and his sister, Miss Burchill, were present at the ceremony.

OBITUARY

In loving remembrance of William Sullivan of Kirkland, Car. Co., N.B., who died about half past four o'clock, Feb. 23rd, of consumption, aged about 27 years. He leaves a wife who was Frances Mack, and two little daughters, a mother, Mrs. Cornelius McGillivuddy, and other relatives who very deeply mourn their loss. In religion he was a Roman Catholic. He was a member of the Canadian order of Foresters and insured.

They can't slip with the bull-dog grip

Many farmers are surprised to find Maritime fencing, even when it has been up for a number of years, remarkably free from loose or broken uprights and laterals. Examination shows, however, that the Maritime "bull-dog" lock holds the joints so rigidly that they cannot give or pull out of shape, and because we use nothing but large, strong, "live" wire—No. 9, heavily galvanized—they are able to stand the daily stress of wear and tear without breaking.

Maritime fence is always slightly, always straight, and always efficient. It's bull-strong and hog-tight, because it is made to withstand far greater strains than any it is likely to endure. It gives you all that you can expect in a wire fence at a reasonable price.

Before you buy or even select your fence, learn first what the Maritime fence offers in the way of R.R. fence service. A postal brings our illustrated catalogue with full particulars.

THE JOY OF BEING ALIVE AND WELL

Restored To Health By "Fruit-a-tives" The Famous Fruit Medicine

MDE. ROCHON

Rochon, P.Q. March 2nd, 1915.

"I have received the most wonderful benefit from taking 'Fruit-a-tives'. I suffered for years from Rheumatism and change of life, and I took every remedy obtainable, without any good results. I heard of 'Fruit-a-tives' and gave it a trial and it was the only medicine that really did me good. Now I am entirely well; the Rheumatism has disappeared and the terrible pains in my body are all gone. I am exceedingly grateful to 'Fruit-a-tives' for such relief, and I hope that others who suffer from such distressing diseases will try 'Fruit-a-tives' and get well."

Writes Interesting Letter From Somewhere in France

"This is Sunday morning, and I am feeling great. Had a good wash in a pond of rain water. At present we are not in the billets or the trenches, just a half way place where we stay when not in the trenches and at work. At present I am at work on new trenches, as the old ones are no good. I do not know if I told you before or not, but I spent Xmas in the trenches. Xmas Day passed very quiet; no rifle or artillery fire to speak of along our front. About two in the afternoon I noticed the fellows on our left with their heads over the parapet, and I with the rest found a very interesting view of the Germans doing the same on their side. They did no talking and made no noise of any kind, but just waved their handkerchiefs, and to my surprise their handkerchiefs were clean and white, which we could not say of ours, and with our glasses we noticed they were clean sort of chaps and looked fine in gray suits. That was the first good view I had of them when not in action. Then you would not take any notice of their personal appearance.

"New Year's Day I spent much better than Xmas, for I saw motion pictures, and good ones, too, and being in the billets and having lots of eats, just sent from Canada, we made the best of it, which was not bad.

"You asked me if I ever get homesick. Well, I have not had time to. We are on the go a lot. When I lie down for a sleep I always think of home and loved ones, and with those thoughts on my mind I fall off in a peaceful slumber, sometimes to be awakened in a few hours for attack or to 'stand to'.

"About the only time I get lonely some is when in the billets. Most of the boys take a drink or two and enjoy themselves that way and, as I do not take a drink myself, it makes a fellow feel sort of blue sometimes, as they seem to enjoy it so much. They are all good fellows to me and we get along great.

TRENCHES WERE FLOODED.

"I will explain the trenches to you as they are along our front—and ours is just as bad as any. About two months ago we had fine trenches, but rain came and soaked in the earth, loosening up the sides, and the trenches fell in, mostly at the back, as the front had seen hard to hold it up, but most of that fell in too. The earth filling in had filled the trench, then water drained in and made mud. So there you had your mud and water. We very often had to stand in it for a while if we could not get a plank or trench mat to stand on, but we get busy and drain the water off, and in many cases the water flowing over the mud has made the mud hard.

Along our line is a brook. Where the water is going I don't know. We are very busy at present building up our trench and getting things right again.

"The winter here has been wet but no snow, and for only one week did we have frozen ground so far. But rain—lots of it, and if it was not for the work we have to do we would all most freeze some nights, although it is not so cold. In this respect the worst I find is carrying rations and other things on a dark night, plowing through the mud and maybe trip or your rubber boots come off and you fall in the water and mud. Then you will wish for home.

"The noise of the big guns is not nearly so bad as you think. Artillery fire in the morning usually, then quiet not much rifle fire and very often no artillery fire either. The big noise is when the German shells burst near you, but they don't seem to have many to spare now. About once a week you can look out for their fire. The burst of their shells on your right or left does not bother any, nor does the noise from our own shells, for we enjoy seeing them go off. There is no kick coming about noise, only when a charge or advance on either side comes and the bombs come into use and the machine guns and all the other guns open up their noise.

"As far as pulling through this affair is concerned I don't see why I should not. I have not been sick yet, and as far as bullets go I am not worrying about them, at least I am not looking for any. But, as I told you before, I am not much of a hand at telling what I have done, the hand to hand affairs I have had, my escapades and what I went through where others fell, and I don't know why I should not continue when I have a mother praying on her knees every night for me, and if God spares me to her again I'll make the rest of her life an easy one."

Frank W. Bourgoine, of the Royal Bank staff, Edmundston, has received notice of his transfer to Woodstock, and will leave on Thursday. His many friends while congratulating him upon his promotion, greatly regret his departure. On Monday evening, his many friends met at the Victoria hotel, and were delightedly entertained by Mrs. Bourgoine and her daughters. A luncheon was served to the guests during the evening. After doing justice to the good things provided, the guests retired to the hotel parlor where Mr. Bourgoine was presented with a travelling bag. J. E. Michaud, in a few words, thanked Mrs. Bourgoine and her daughters and expressed to Mr. Bourgoine the regret caused to his many friends by his departure. A special musical programme appropriate to the occasion was presented by Dr. Emile Simard, George Laroiv I had of them when not in action. Then you would not take any notice of their personal appearance.

An Excellent Remedy For The Children

Mrs. Laura Jackson, Brantford, Ont., writes: "I have found Baby's Own Tablets such an excellent remedy for children that I have no hesitation in recommending them to all mothers." Thousands of mothers say the same thing concerning the Tablets. Once a mother has used them she would use nothing else. They are for sale at all druggists or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

German Captain's Word Not Good, So He is Left to His Fate

London, Feb. 5.—(Toronto Mail and Empire cable)—Captain Martin of the trawler King Stephen, who, according to his own report yesterday, refused to rescue the Zeppelin's crew for fear they would later overpower him and his men, tells the following story today:

"We left Grimsby on Jan. 29, for a ten day's fishing cruise. I had on board a crew of nine men, and my trawler carried no guns or other weapons. At dawn on February 2, an enemy crew.

"In peace times, of course, I would have had all the Germans aboard in two trawlers."

A member of the King Stephen's crew, confirming Captain Martin's story, added the following:

"We cruised around and around the wreck for a while. The skipper asked us what we thought best. We all said: 'Let's get away. If they come aboard they'll slaughter us.' So we went, and then a wind got up

"We could see about fifteen men on top of the hamper. Some on hands and knees, were slithering about. Anyhow, there were others in the ring with their heads sticking through the companionway and arms clinging by the side of it. They looked as if they had come from the North Pole. They wore fur packets and queer hats.

"I shouted: 'What is the matter?' 'Send us a boat and I'll give you five pounds,' came the answer of one of the men on the Zeppelin. Saying so, he took off his coat and showed his brass buttons.

YOUNG OFFICER IN CHARGE.

"I knew at once he was a naval officer, the captain of the ship. He looked like our own naval officers. He was a youngish fellow, perhaps thirty years old, with a tanned and weathered face, and a way of ordering men about.

"When one or two of his crew who spoke English, tried to but in, he shut them up pretty smart. He was a gentleman, and behaved as one. He was polite and spoke good English. I could hear hammering in the Zeppelin. By and by other heads crowded up, until there were about thirty altogether.

"I thought a bit, and then said: 'Well, if there was not so many of you, I would take you off, but there is too many.'

GinPills FOR THE KIDNEYS What They Do

DAVISVILLE, ONT.

"I had trouble with my Kidneys and Bladder so I got a sample of Gin Pills and followed directions. I felt better after the first dose and I kept taking them for a month. One day, Mr. Simpson, of this town, told me about the trouble he had with his kidneys, and I recommended him to try GIN PILLS, and gave him one to take. The next day, he bought some for himself, and both he and his wife have derived great benefit from them."

"The officer straightened himself and said: 'There is nothing in that.' 'I thought again, and said: 'But supposing we take you and you sling us overboard, and navigate the trawler to Germany? That would be another decoration for you, but it won't be much for us.'

"He said, 'I pledge you my word, we will do nothing of the kind.' He took a dying oath that he would not interfere with us, and that I could have plenty of money if I saved them. Well I took another thought. They are thirty, I said to myself, and we are nine; they are armed and we are not. We have not got as much as a pistol on board.

"I would not take the risk. If there had been another ship standing by, I could have taken a chance, but there was nothing in sight. Besides I remembered what the Germans have done, and what they might do again. I could see three iron crosses painted on the Zeppelin, two on one side, and one underneath its wooden nose, which was tilted up. I suppose that these crosses were given them for some daring deeds, and I did not want me and my crew to be part of the fourth. So I steamed away from the Zeppelin about 9.30 o'clock.

"The captain said: 'We are sinking now, look here.'

"I said as the last word: 'You will come here and take charge of me.' 'No,' he said, and pledged his word again. We drew away. Some of the German crew at first shouted 'Mercy, Mercy, save us,' and then they shook their fists at us.

"I saw no use. I would have done it except for the reason I have told you. I went away to find a gunboat or a patrol vessel that was better provided than we for looking after
