THE SPIRIT OF PROSPERITY DAY

As the last day of February, Prosperity Day, now less than a week off, draws near, indications are that it will be a great success. And it ought to be. Of course, right away so soon after the big storm of Saturday, the merchants might get a jolt if there happened to be a big rush for mackintoshes, tanglefoot, and goods in that line. What would surprise them of course, would be the foresight displayed, which after all is not a very plentiful commodity.

It is said of the people who are most successful business people in the world, the Jewish, that on a Monday morning if one can only be the first customer he can take what ever he wants at any price he may choose to offer, as it is considered very unlucky to lose the first customer of the week. Well, this idea of making Prosperity Day, once every four years, a real day of bargains has struck such root in Woodstock, that if anyone is disappointed, the disappointment will be shared by every merchant in the Merchants Association of Woodstock.

Elbert Hubbard, who was lost on the Lusitania, wrote that successful business is just the art of establishing goodwillship. You can trust any merchant of good standing much farther than you might at first think. He and all his capital are tied to one place, he cannot sell you a gold brick and then move on, he cannot afford to have one justly dissatisfied customer and will go far to make just one more friend. This is the spirit of the 29th of February, Prosperity Day.

When a wide awake merchant announced a real bargain day, and you by exercise or prudence and foresight are able to make a very advantageous buy, do not imagine for a moment that he does not know pretty nearly all about it, and is not pleased. He knows that every transaction of that kind between two people should be that way. The retail merchant, you know is not, any more than you are, in the class of the Monopolist. Competition is very keen indeed, and the more satisfaction he can give he feels it not only no loss to him, but a substantial addition to his working capital. This is really the spirit of the Prosperity Day movement.

OBITUARY

PATRIOTISM

To give all things Canadian the preference is always commendable, but during the stress and strain world war it becomes our solemn duty to patronize those who with us are bearing the burden of the nation.

THE FORD AUTOMOBILE is the only car which is built in Canada. $1688 worth of material per car is imported. Under the proposed war tax on Companies the Ford Motor Co. if Canada will pay many times the tax that all other Auto manufacturers will pay. This because the car is manufactured here. All profits remain here, and are not sent over the line to pay United States labour to manufacture pretty much all parts of the car except perhaps the bodies and tires.

When you purchase a FORD you help to lighten your own burden of war tax.
