MOSBY AND HIS MEN.

The Old Warrior's Attitude Toward Reunions After the War.

The late Colonel John S. Mosby differed from many military men in that instead of being pleased at being given a higher designation than he was properly entitled to the conferring of the higher title was extremely obnoxious to him," remarked Henry D. Rose of Norfolk.

"People who thought to please him by calling him general instead of finding favor invoked upon themselves the resentment of the old partisan chief. 'I never was a general, sir,' I heard him once say with great warmth to a young Virginian who thus addressed him. 'I am Colonel Mosby, and I never attained any higher rank than colonel, so please don't call me general.'"

"As brave a spirit as ever lived, the old warrior was full of eccentricities. One of his peculiarities was his persistent inclination to attend any of the reunions of Mosby's men. He probably derived in the fact that these reunions were held, but no amount of persuasion could get him to be present. "He used occasionally to indulge in a little sardonic humor regarding the number of those who attended the reunions. As the years went by naturally many of his old followers would cross to the grave beyond, but curiously enough, according to the colonel's own statement, there seemed to be just as many of Mosby's men at these annual gatherings a generation after the war as there had been in his command at the height of its numerical strength."

It had been a very tiring case or everybody concerned. The plaintiff and the defendant were both countrymen, and had had to have everything explained to them at least twice.

"Do I understand, my man," said the magistrate at one point, "that the defendant hurled in vectors at you?"

The plaintiff scratched his head wildly. Then slowly a look of understanding dawned in his eyes as he replied:

"No, sir. To tell the truth, it was only bricks as he threw at me; but not I complain about was the way he swore at me when they missed!"

WINCARNIS offers you the quickest, the surest, and the safest way to the new health you need when you are

Weak, Anaemic, Nervous, Run-down

WINCARNIS offers you new health! Think what this means to you. Instead of that out-of-sorts, nervous, run-down feeling, you can revel in the enjoyment of new and buoyant health. You feel well—eat well—work well—sleep well—and rise in the morning refreshed and vigorous, and feel your whole body pulsating with new life.

That is the new health Wincarnis offers you. Because Wincarnis is a Tonic, a Restorative, a Blood-maker and a Nerve Food—all in one. This four-fold power, acting upon the system at one time, enables Wincarnis to give new strength, new rich blood, new nerve force, and new vitality. And because Wincarnis does this, it is recommended by over 10,000 Doctors.

If you are weak, Wincarnis will give you new strength. If you are Anaemic, Wincarnis will give you new rich red blood. If you are nervous, Wincarnis will give you new nerve force. If you are run-down, Wincarnis will give you new vitality.

WORLD'S LARGEST CLOCK.

Its Dial, Forty Feet Across, Carries a Twenty Foot Minute Hand.

The largest clock in the world is in the tower of the Colgate building, on the Jersey side of the river, writes the New York correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

This clock, which is illuminated at night, can be seen by persons using any of the ferries leaving from the lower part of Manhattan and those plying between the New York and New Jersey shores. Staten Island dwellers coming to or leaving New York city and commuters from New Jersey points use it as their official timepiece and regulate their watches by it.

The clock was built at Waterbury, Conn., and so gigantic are its parts that it was necessary to bring the hands from the factory on a flat car and use a box car to transport the works. The minute hand is twenty feet long and weighs half a ton, and the hour hand is fifteen feet long. The weights of this monster timepiece are more than a ton. The dial is forty feet in diameter, surpassing by thirteen feet six inches that of the second largest clock in the world, in the Metropolitan tower; it is fifteen feet greater than that of the clock in the tower of Philadelphia city hall, the third largest in the world, and it doubles "Big Ben," on top of the house of parliament, London, which is perhaps the most widely known clock in the world.

Where a King's Clothes Were Kept. St. Andrew's-by-the-Wardrobe is a conspicuous waymark in Queen Victoria street and derives a grotesque distinguishing title from former proximity to the king's great wardrobe. This was originally the town mansion of Sir John Beauchamp and purchased from his executors by Edward III. for the keepers of the king's apparel. "There were kept," says Fuller, "the ancient clothes of our English kings which they wore on great festivals." Shakespeare in his will left to his favorite daughter, Susannah, the Warwickshire doctor's wife, a house near the Wardrobe, "wherein one John Robinson dwelleth." The present Church of St. Andrew's-by-the-Wardrobe was rebuilt by Wren after the great fire and became the city center of the evangelical revival under William Roine.
