

The low cost per cup

It is hard to believe that a cup of good, rich tea only costs about a fifth of a cent, but, you see, Red Rose consists chiefly of Assam teas—the richest, strongest teas in the world. Red Rose easily yields 250 cups to the pound. And it's a tea of rare economy and flavor.

THE HONORED DEAD

God's only Son, who too died in order that others might live? Have they not been inspired by His life of deep self-sacrifice?

Arthur Fisher again was one of those of whose life's record we, his friends, may well be proud, it is indeed a tribute to his life, that through this whole community, a sense of personal loss and an evidence of personal grief, are shown. We grieved not merely through sympathy with those who are bereaved, not merely because a life which seemed so promising was cut off, but because our loss was a distinctly personal one.

It would be an unworthy commonplace to say "he had not an enemy". No trite negative statement such as that is satisfactory for his record was something nobler than that. Rather was his one of those true, intense, loyal natures which are naturally lovable. He easily made friends, partly on account of his sterling worth, but chiefly because you knew that here was one whose friendship would stand the test and would be worth holding. You knew that friendship was no idle term with him and that he threw "his all" into the friendship. Most of you knew him from his childhood up. Others of us only for the last few years, but all can bear witness to his loyalty of friendship and depth of character and it is these things which count when we sum up a man.

His record during the war was that of his life, lived amongst you and of his profession as well. He was ready to offer because he was wanted and because it was his duty.

Life held out for him the fairest of promises but these were foregone for the path of duty, and even then, when there seemed reason that he should return, he went back into the mainstream because he felt that it was his duty. The sense of duty was paramount in all those whose lives and deaths we have commemorated during the past three years and like them in its performance he gave the greatest sacrifice that men can offer. He died securing his fellowmen, even as he ministered his spirit went to the God of heroic duty loving men, while many a man perhaps owes his life to him.

And for us there is the awful sense of loss—the suffering which is inevitable, the suffering which at must share—the suffering which must not be meaningless, for out of the furnace of suffering and of pain our lives must emerge, purified and better.

The reason for such deaths we may not understand, but the suffering must not be ineffectual, for in the plans of God there is a reason and a purpose for suffering. The eternal Son of God suffered, and through His sufferings did His work, and fulfilled the purpose of His life. So did these hero-friends of ours. They achieved the purpose to which they came into the world, the performance of duty, and that done, they have been caught up into the life of God where nothing counts except it has the mark of duty and sacrifice and in our sufferings this too must be our aim. Do not think they are something to be avoided. Do not let us lose the inheritance of the heroism of these men's lives, who will suffer for duty might be accomplished. Let our sufferings so refine us, that we too may be ready to take our place in the great plan of God, where only suffering men and women have a share.

It is not suffering alone, borne despairingly perhaps rebelliously, but suffering inspired by the thought of the Son of God and of these dear heroes who were not afraid to follow in His footsteps.

"In this world's mortal journeying" Wasid shade is more than wasted sunshine."

There is so much to be done in this great world which lies before us, so many sorrows to be alleviated, so many wrongs to be comforted, so many wrongs to be righted. There are lives gone astray, lives weighed down with loads which others can lift. Social wrongs clamoring for adjustment, oppression, villainy and hardship; and only those who themselves have suffered, have the needed touch, the necessary sympathy, the inspiration, and the courage to attempt the solution of such problems. We have suffered through the war, but please God, we shall make the world more happy and more wholesome, more fitted to be the training ground of God's children.

"Christ held to me a cross and crown of thorns and said—My child this is life's mystery. And this thy Cross is hung with love's sweet flowers. And this thy Crown is placed by mine own hand. And all the sadness of Thy darkest hours is mine own gift. Thou dost not understand. I need those tears to help my dilemma. I need those hours of sorrow sadly given. For, oh, I need the child in highest heaven. Christ appeals through His suffering, these men appeal, that we in suffering, through devotion to duty, will make our lives more noble, more self-sacrificing, more loyal to the glorious ideals of humanity to which they bore such noble witness.

"I DON'T SUFFER ANY MORE"

"Feel Like a New Person," says Mrs. Hamilton.

New Castle, Ind.—"From the time I was eleven years old until I was seventeen I suffered each month so I had to be in bed. I had headache, backache and such pains I would cramp double every month. I did not know what it was to be easy a minute. My health was all run down and the doctors did not do me any good. A neighbor told my mother about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it, and now I feel like a new person. I don't suffer any more and I am regular every month."—Mrs. HAZEL HAMILTON, 822 South 15th St.

When a remedy has lived for forty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their health to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Keep Minard's Liniment in the house. We regret that some interesting news matter has been crowded out this week owing to pressure of advertising.

Mrs. R. W. Estabrook went to Woodstock, Wednesday, where she will undergo an operation for appendicitis at the Fisher Memorial Hospital. Mr. Estabrook accompanied her to Woodstock. Vic. Co. News.

Mr. Andrew Johnston, of Cliffordville, received a cablegram last week advising him that his only son, Pte. Harold Johnston, aged 18 years, died of wounds at the Clearing Station, France, on Oct. 11th. Private Johnston was wounded in the arm and leg during an engagement in the month of September.

The masquerade ball, under the auspices of the War Veterans Association in the Vogue theatre, Wednesday night, was a pronounced success. Over two hundred persons were in costume and the various characters assumed furnished much merriment. A full account of the affair will appear next issue.

The Soldiers' Comforts Assn. wishes to thank the management of the Hayden Gibson theatre for the donation of tickets from the sale of which was realized for the Society the sum of $30.20.

Also we thank the Wakefield Centre Red Cross Workers for 34 pairs of socks.

The Soldiers' Comforts Assn. requests a full attendance at their annual business meeting to be held on Monday, Nov. 5th, 1917.

WILL LECTURE ON IMPORTANT SUBJECT

A free Lecture by Mr. Robson Black, Secretary of the Canadian Forestry Association, will be given on Monday, November 5th, in the Auditorium of the Fisher Memorial School. The subject of the Lecture will be—"The Forests of Canada" with particular reference to New Brunswick Forests, and will be illustrated by numerous Lantern Slides. Mr. Chas. Rogers will preside. The subject is one of vital economic importance and should interest all classes.

It is hoped that a good representation of the lumbering trade will be present. The Lecture will be under the Auspices of the Woodstock Standard Efficiency Club.
