

The New Day without corns

To suffer corns now is a folly. One test will prove them needless.

Blue-jay comes in liquid form or plaster. You apply it by a touch. The pain ends then and you forget the corn. In a little while it loosens and comes out.

The way is easy, gentle, sure. It is the modern way, the right way.

Blue-jay is scientific. It is made by a surgical dressing house of world-wide repute.

It is fast displacing treatments which were harsh and wrong.

One test will convince you. Try it tonight.

THE BIG FIGHT OF JULY; OTHERS OF PAST DAYS

New York, June 15.—With a difference in weight about twenty pounds when they meet in the ring four weeks hence, Dempsey and Carpentier will otherwise appear almost equal in build and stature. If both were to mix in among a few collegiate athletes, football players, and oarsmen, probably neither would be picked out as being unusually big or formidable in general make up.

Dempsey stands six feet 1½ inches in height, just two inches taller than the French champion, and while Carpentier will weigh about 170 pounds in fighting condition, Dempsey expects to enter the ring slightly under 190 pounds.

The champion's shoulders are broad, while Carpentier's are slooping in shape, but otherwise the bodily measurements of the pair do not differ to any marked extent.

Experts who have seen both men are satisfied that they will be well matched in speed and cleverness, but the majority believe that Dempsey will carry by far the heavier weight in his blows. Dexterity and suppleness are claimed as advantages for the Frenchman by his following, but just how hard a punch he can deliver is still a problem.

Dempsey showed in his bout with Willard at Toledo that his blows possess enormous punishing power, but his more recent encounters with Bill Brennan at Madison Square Garden did not demonstrate that he still retains the forceful punch necessary successfully to stand off a man of Carpentier's undoubted ability and cleverness.

Just how good the challenger is or how hard a blow he can land is problematical to the majority of American fight patrons, who have seen him in action. His only bout here, that with Levinsky in Jersey City last year, did not afford much of a line on Carpentier's prowess. Levinsky, always a clever boxer, made practically no serious effort to defend himself on that occasion and went down and out an easy victim for the Frenchman in the fourth round.

Nearly thirty years have elapsed since Queensbury rules and glove contests were substituted for the London prize ring code governing pugilistic contest for championship titles. In most of the bouts fought for the heavyweight championship since the change took place there was a decided advantage in stature between the principals, but this did not always carry victory with it.

Beginning with the Corbett-Sullivan battle at New Orleans in 1892, the big Boston man was massive in proportion to the lithe, supple and extremely clever Californian, but the smaller man bore the big champion down and annexed the title. In the twenty-first round, Corbett was one and one half inches taller but fifteen pounds lighter than Sullivan, who stood five feet 10½ inches and weighed about 200 pounds.

Corbett and Bob Fitzsimmons were more evenly matched in height and age. Corbett was half an inch taller and four years younger than the Cornishman, but he was nearly twenty pounds heavier than Fitzsimmons when the latter knocked him out and won the title at Carson City, March 17, 1897.

Two years later James J. Jeffries, of huge build and outweighing Fitzsimmons by fully fifty pounds, won the title in eleven rounds from Bob at Coney Island, and five months later in November, 1899, Jeffries got a referee's decision over Tom Sharkey in a twenty-five round bout in the same arena. Sharkey was several inches shorter and about twenty pounds lighter than the then champion.

Corbett challenged Jeffries twice for the title, but was knocked out by the bigger man each time, once in twenty-three rounds and the next time in ten rounds.

Jack Johnston, who defeated Jeffries at Reno, Nev., in 1910, was nearer to the big man's size than any of the other heavyweights who had met him for the title in the previous ten years. Johnston was three years younger, one inch shorter and only ten pounds lighter than the Ohioan. Johnston scored a knockout in 15 rounds.

Jess Willard, the giant Kansan, was by all odds the biggest man who ever held the world's heavyweight title. He stood six feet, six inches, weighed 250 pounds and had decided advantages in every way over Johnston when he won from the negro at Havana, in 1915. When he met Dempsey, two years ago, these physical advantages did not enable him to withstand Dempsey's sudden onslaught, as he confessed afterward that he did not remember much after he was knocked down in the opening round.

ture. Scouting is not something outside the home to turn your boy over to, and forget about. Scouting is the most active force ever let loose in the world for welding father and son together into a winning team for home and country.

Every father does not realize that the average New Brunswick boy is awake 5,500 hours a year. You put him in school for 900 of these hours and everlastingly keep after him to make good. You place him in church and Sunday school for perhaps another 100 years and let him know you are looking for results. You keep him around home and under your watchful eye for probably 1,500 of his waking hours and then turn him loose for his play—3,000 hours a year—and that's the end of it. Why? Because you are past the play age or think you are.

Yet, right here, in these hours he is away from home and other wholesome influences is where your boy forms his character and needs you. The home with Scouting in it wins. If Scouting is not in your home, a most. Scouting gives you, as a father addressed to the Provincial Headquarters of the Boy Scouts Association, 24 Ritchie Building, St. John, will bring back a reply telling you how you can help to put it there.

Scouting is the manliest program ever devised for a boy. As Associate members of the Boy Scouts Association fathers unite with their boys in Scouting. They become pals with their sons and "home Scoutmasters" backing up the regular Scout leaders.
