CRISP PICKLES

One cup rock salt, 1 cup mustard 1 cup sugar, 1 gallon vinegar, horseradish root.

Wash cucumbers and wipe dry. Put in stone jar. Add horseradish root well washed and cut in quarter inch slices. Put a layer of horseradish over each layer of cucumbers.

Mix salt, mustard, sugar and vinegar and let stand until dry ingredients are dissolved. Pour over cucumbers.

Continue to add cucumbers and horseradish until crock is full.

Cover top layer of cucumbers with seven or eight long pieces of horseradish root. Cover the whole with a thick layer of grape leaves washed and wiped dry. Put a big plate over the crock and store in a dry cool place.

These pickles will be ready for use in six weeks.

If the vinegar is very sharp dilute it with water. Too strong vinegar is often the cause of wilty pickles no matter how they are made.

THE NET OF NIPIGON

The charm of freshwater, the charm of mirror-like surfaces and the sweet smell of the woods.

Like a flower escaped from a garden is the fish-net found in inland Canada. Nets belong to the sea, to the sea-mists of the Atlantic shores and to the salmon-runs of the Pacific. What are they doing inland, out of habitat, "fish out of water," as it were?

But when you chance upon the "inland net" of the Indian, wound around a crude wheel whittled out of saplings, something inside, some inner sense, speaks out saying: "This is the original. The Seacoast nets of America came here long after this! These threads, these meshes—they run back, back, back to the Garden-of-Eden-time of this continent." And recent discoveries of fossil-skeletons are placing that period back much further than that 20,000 years to which we had become accustomed even if we couldn't understand or comprehend it.

The nets of Nipigon need no aid from men in order to write themselves as belonging in that class of simple things which appeal to the heart. When we happen on one of them in some clearing, its gossamer length thrown about the old wheel's throat it speaks to us with the same human touch as of some bright shawl.

What a vista of a world of the wild and tree, it conjures up. The "Twine" so inanimate written on the page of the Government's "Indian allowance" becomes a thing of life, when you happen upon it changed by the handwork of the Indian into one of these inland nets. Nets of a lightness of quality to complement the frailty and mobility of the dainty canoe which is the hyper-sensitive fishboat of this world of inland lakes and rivers.

Like some lace veil is this Old . . . Inland . . . Net! You feel you might take it in hand and run it through a finger ring. Compared with it, how crude seems the coarse strength of tanned lengths that is the herring-trap of the Atlantic coast. How rude and strong the thick gunwale and heavy timbers, the long ear-sweeps of the fishboats that work the herring nets! These are fine paintings, jealously hung in an inner room . . . not many of them . . . rare. Those others, in the beauty of their strength, are the sculpture in the gallery of Canadian handwork. There is no question of superiority only an interesting and very entertaining one of difference. Sometimes we are in a mood for the sculpture, for the strength of the sea; and nothing can satiate this hunger when it is upon us, but the way of the Maritime . . . East or West.

But these inland nets that stand for Canadian lakes and rivers, those wonderful water highways, or mere bridle paths, and canoe-trails of water, have their own charm . . . the charm of freshwater, the charm of mirror-like surfaces, the charm of the deep peace and the sweet smell of the woods.

What sort of world's work, someone murmurs, can be accomplished of these toy nets . . . more like feminine draperies than tools of an industry? The filigree meshes wound about this old, weathered skeleton of a reel do not purport to be a Blue-Book of the immensity and range of the freshwater fisheries of Canada . . . and they are immense . . . so much as a point-finger of the hundreds of miles of lakes and rivers opened up to sportsmen following the beckoning of . . . "the nets of Nipigon"—Victoria Hayward.

PLASTER ROCK FIRST

Wallace Goforth, of Plaster Rock, N. B., Upper Canadian Intercollegiate cross country and three-mile champion, on Saturday finished first in the five-mile road race for the Dunlop trophy, held under the auspices of the local Y. M. C. A.

Second to Goforth came Colin Thomas, of the Y. M. C. A., and next to him George Spragg, also of the Y. M. C. A.

Goforth's time, 27 minutes, 30-45 seconds, was very good for the course, an up hill and down dale run from a point on the Loch Lomond Road to the Association building.

While Goforth won the individual honors, the team prize goes to the Y. M. C. A., four of whose men, Thomas, Spragg, Yeomans and Lambert, crossed the finish line in second, third, fourth and fifth position, respectively. Thomas' time was 27 minutes, 44-5 seconds and Spragg's 27 minutes, 57 seconds.

Spragg complained last night of having been held up at the corner of Union and Waterloo streets until several cars crossed, the police officer on duty failing to hold up traffic to let Spragg get past. The local runner intends to go to Plaster Rock in April and the boys from that town say he will have no trouble to get a job there. He will run for Plaster Rock.

The Y. M. C. A. team won the Dunlop shield and each of the first four men on the team to finish receives a bronze medal. Goforth, who took first place, wins a cup and Thomas also receives a medal for second place.

The order of the finish was as follows: 1st, Goforth, Plaster Rock; 2nd, Thomas, Y. M. C. A.; 3rd, G. Spragg, Y. M. C. A.; 4th, E. Yeomans, Y. M. C. A.; 5th, N. Lambert, Y. M. C. A.; 6th, George Armstrong, Plaster Rock; 7th, Charles Thibodeau, Plaster Rock; 8th, R. Armstrong, Plaster Rock; 9th, H. Harrison, Plaster Rock; 10th, A. Monteith, Y. M. C. A.; Don McLean, Plaster Rock; and F. Stubbs, Y. M. C. A., dropped out.

Several supporters of the team came from Plaster Rock for the races, included among them being Donald Fraser and R. G. McFarland, manager of the Fraser Companies, Ltd. Mr. Fraser tendered a banquet to the home town boys after the race.

YOU'LL LIKE THIS DESSERT

A dainty tasty dessert is the final touch to any meal, but meals have the habit of occurring so frequently that one runs out of ideas for dishes that will please everybody and yet be simple and healthful. One of the nicest desserts we have run across in some time is this one:

ORANGE FRITTERS

1/2 cupful Borden's Evaporated Milk

1/2 cupful flour

1-3 teaspoonful salt

1 teaspoonful baking powder

1 teaspoonful sugar

1 teaspoonful butter, melted

1 large orange, seedless

Powdered sugar

Add the dry ingredients, sifted together, to the milk, and then add the shortening. Divide the orange in sections. Heat fat. Dip the sections or the orange one at a time into the batter, slip them into the fat and cook till they are golden brown. Drain on crumpled paper, dust with powdered sugar, and serve with fruit sauce as a dessert.

This recipe comes from the Borden recipe book, which contains a wonderful variety of recipes, from soup to nuts, as the saying is, many of them illustrated in natural colors so beautifully as to make one want to try the dish instantly. A copy of the booklet may be obtained without cost from the Borden Company in Montreal on mentioning this paper.
