BISHOP DISAP- PROVES PLAN

New York, Aug. 31—Just when it had been conceded that the word "obey" so objectionable to many blushing brides, would be stricken from the Episcopal marriage ceremony with little or no debate a protest coupled with a scathing denunciation of modern family life is voiced by the Bishop of Colorado.

The Rt. Rev. Irving Peake Johnson, D. D., is described as one of the most brilliant thinkers and orators of the Episcopal Church. His dissent scintillates with barbed aphorisms. Representatives of the church said that the publication of his opinion would provoke a lively discussion throughout the church.

The Rt. Rev. Charles L. Slattery, Bishop-Coadjutor of Massachusetts, is chairman of the joint committee on prayer book revision which sponsored the elimination of the word "obey" at the general convention of the church in Portland, Ore., in Sept., 1923. The convention, virtually and unanimously, voted for elimination, but under the laws of the church, an amendment must be approved by two succeeding conventions, and, accordingly, the matter will come up for final determination at the triennial general conference that is to open at New Orleans, Oct. 7.

Editor of Paper.

Bishop Johnson is said to be the first notable leader of the church to come out openly against the proposed change. He is also the editor of The Witness, a church publication, in a forthcoming issue of which his statement will appear in full. It is summarized as follows:

"If women do not love men well enough to accept their leadership, which is the significance of 'to obey' they will not love them any more because their vanity is flattered by the omission."

"Why is it proposed to take the word 'obey' out of the marriage service? In my judgment because modern society has lost the sense of proportion which lies at the foundation of the home, and, in order to justify itself, wishes to accommodate the word of God to palliate the situation. 'The idea that the word 'obey' connotes servility is the heresy of modern families. The word 'obey' is limited always by the circumstances of its use. When asked if you will obey the civil authorities, you do not infringe in any way upon your liberties as an American citizen. When a soldier is asked to obey his captain, he does not surrender his manhood. When a woman is asked to obey her husband, she does not lessen the glory of her womanhood."

Man Must Lead

"God made man to be the head of the family because it was his duty to provide and protect. The church exists to set forth ideals, not to justify the perversion of ideals."

"I believe fully in woman's rights, but I do not believe headship of the family is one of those rights. 'The question before us in the proposed amendment is this: Is the American family today, in which there is little either of reverence or obedience, going to be ennobled by substituting the jejune theories of academic philosophy for the declaration of God through His Prophets and the experience of generations in which family life was sanctified and the proportion of responsibility was definitely set forth?'"

Restore Family Life.

"I know that women are more potent forces for good than men. His mother's name was so and so, means more to a child than that his father made a million and lost his human touch in doing it."

"We are not fit to amend the marrying service of our fathers until we have restored the family life to the sanctity which it enjoyed in their time."

WEDDING

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the United Baptist parsonage, Woodstock, on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 3rd, when Miss Olive M. Cosman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cosman of Debec, was united in marriage to Mr. Lyle McLaggan, of McAdam. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. B. McLatchey, and was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Almer Lutz of Debec. After the ceremony, the young couple left on the afternoon train on an extended trip to Kenora, Ontario.

TWO VICTIMS OF BIG FIRE DEAD

Fire broke out at two o'clock on Monday morning, in the Thompson Block, on King street.

When the alarm was rung in the whole building, especially the part used as a restaurant, was in flames.

Mrs. Guy Cummings jumped with her baby in her arms from the upstairs window, receiving severe injury. Mr. Cummings succeeded in getting to the roof thinking that he could get onto the Baird Company building but, finding escape there impossible, jumped from the roof, striking the sidewalk, breaking his leg in five places. Mr. and Mrs. Cummings were taken to the Fisher Hospital, where Mrs. Cummings died Monday night near midnight.

Miss Beulah Fox, who worked in the restaurant, was burned to death. It is thought she was smothered with the smoke and thus rendered unconscious. The flames spread rapidly until the whole block was destroyed, but was stopped at the Baird Company brick block. This was damaged to the extent of $500 by water and smoke.

The building was occupied by Hartin & Monteith, marble works; John H. Thompson, bottling works; Guy Cummings, restaurant; R. S. Phillips, meat shop; the upstairs was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Guy Cummings and Mr. R. S. Phillips as a dwelling and Mr. Harris as a barber shop. All these parties lost practically everything with but little insurance. Hartin & Monteith carried about $1000 and R. S. Phillips less than $1000. John H. Thompson had an insurance of about $9000, divided between the Sun of London, the Phoenix of Paris and the Imperial Underwriters.

The body of Miss Fox was found in the ruins in the early morning lying on the mattress which had gone through the flooring to the main shop below. Her head, limbs and arms were badly burned. She was 16 years of age, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fox of East Waterville, York county. Besides her parents she is survived by one brother and five sisters. Her remains were taken to her home by her father on Monday afternoon where the funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon conducted by Rev. P. J. Quigg.

Mrs. Cummings was 25 years of age, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Shaw of East Brighton. Besides her husband and infant son, she is survived by her parents, three sisters, Fern, Len and Mina, and six brothers, Clifford, Fraser, Kenneth, Burton, Harold and Horace, all at home, one a baby 8 months old.

The funeral was held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and was conducted by Rev. E. B. McLatchey, Woodstock.

The block was owned by Mr. John H. Thompson and was covered with insurance. Manzer's Dry Goods Store also sustained a heavy smoke damage but carried insurance.

UNITED CHURCH OPENS CONFERENCE

Sackville, N. B., Sept. 1.—Fawcett Memorial Hall, was tonight the scene of a historic religious event when the first Maritime Conference session of the United Church of Canada was called to order by Rev. H. C. Rice, president of the New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island conference, at a solemn inaugural service attended by outstanding divines from all parts of the Dominion.

The gathering, which will be in session several days, was unique in that it marked the first summoning of a United Church conference since the union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregationalist churches was consummated last June. There are 11 conferences in the Dominion and the Maritime Conference was the first to meet.

The most impressive stage of the service was reached when the entire assemblage chanted together the confession of faith and prayer of the new church after which all partook of the sacrament.

Among those taking part in the services tonight were Rev. Dr. G. C. Pidgeon, moderator of the General Council of the United Church of Canada, who led the "Prayer constituting the Maritime Conference of the United Church;" Rev. John MacKintosh, of Sydney, moderator of the Synod of the Maritime Provinces of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, who gave the inaugural address; Rev. J. W. Bartlett, president of the Nova Scotia conference of the Methodist Church, who read the "scriptural institution of the sacrament;" Rev. Dr. W. H. Hertz and Rev. Dr. John Pringle.

Rev. John MacKintosh, delivering the inaugural address, The Glory of the Cross, took his text from Paul, showing the many things in which Paul might have gloried and yet how time had justified him in glorifying the Cross. "Not until Paul saw the Cross did he see his own sin," said the speaker, "and not until the world saw the cross with clear vision would it see the sinfulness of sin."
