OF INTEREST TO LOCAL MERCHANTS

The following letter received by the Secretary of the Woodstock Board of Trade should prove of interest to local merchants, as it contains a ruling of dollars and cents value to Woodstock tradesmen as well as conveying information with which the average tourist is unfamiliar.

Treasury Dept., 94935
Office of the Secretary,
Washington.

R. W. Maxwell, Secretary,
Woodstock Board of Trade,
Woodstock, N. B., Canada.

Dear Sir: In response to your letter of the 7th inst., you are advised that paragraph 1695 of the United States Tariff Act of 1922 provides that residents of the United States returning from abroad may bring in without the payment of duty $100.00 in value of articles acquired in a foreign country for personal or household use, or as souvenirs or curios, but not bought on commission or intended for sale.

The privilege is limited by Treasury decisions, however, in the case of residents of this country who go into foreign contiguous countries, to bona fide tourists who make a trip of several days into the foreign territory and who make purchases merely incidental to the trip. The privilege is denied to United States residents who live near the border line and cross into foreign territory for the purpose of purchasing articles, and it is also denied to those who make short or frequent trips into foreign contiguous territory.

Respectfully,
E. W. CAMP,
Director of Customs.

It is suggested that money could well be spent by the local Merchants Association in having window display cards printed drawing the attention of tourists to the decision above referred to. The Sentinel is prepared to fill that order.

FREDERICTON TRI-UMPHS OVER WOOD-STOCK IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The local Tennis Club fell victims to the members of the Fredericton Tennis Club in a tournament played on the local courts on June 3rd. Although defeated by a substantial margin, the local members put up a brilliant fight, many of the sets being very closely contested. The Fredericton members were entertained in a manner characteristic of the hospitality extended by local clubs to visiting teams. Attendance at the King George Dance in the evening marked for the tennis enthusiasts the end of a perfect day. The scores of the tennis tournament follow:

ENFORCEMENT OF EGG REGULATIONS SOUGHT

The Sentinel has recently been advised that this section, in common with other parts of New Brunswick and Canada, is at the present time under inspection of an officer of the Federal Live Stock Branch whose duty it is to enforce to the letter, securing judgments if need be, the regulations pertaining to the sale of eggs. We learn that for a number of years there has existed in Canada a statute law prohibiting the sale of eggs other than on a graded basis. It prohibits, for instance, the purchase of eggs by a dealer from a farmer on a flat rate. Eggs must be candled and graded and the producer paid on a graded basis. Either the producer or follow an egg case plan method of shipping to wholesaler or packing plant, marking the cases so shipped, "Ungraded Eggs." The receiving house then grades the eggs and when returns are made a statement showing the different grades must accompany payment. Using this statement, and deducting a fair handling cost, the local merchant then pays the farmer for the eggs bought from him on a graded basis. The policy of grading eggs has as its chief object the paying for eggs on a quality basis, giving to the careful producer a premium for the superior article and penalizing the producer who is indifferent to the demands of the discriminating consumer. Coupled with this objective is the aim to build up for Canada a commanding position in the export market for eggs, as well as to increase the local or home market. Statistics available at hand show that in 1913 when egg grading was first instituted the per capita consumption of eggs in Canada was fifteen dozens and one. In 1924, as a direct result of these regulations, whereby the consumer is assured of quality consistent with the grade for which he makes payment to the grocer, the per capita egg consumption in Canada had risen to twenty four dozens and ten. It would seem, therefore, that the enforcement of regulations pertaining to egg standards is decidedly in favor of the producer, paying him as it does on a strictly quality basis and tending, as has been proven, to widen and increase the demand for the article in question.

WEDDING

Poole-Chase

A wedding of much interest to the people of Woodstock and vicinity took place on Monday, May 18, at the church in Richmond, when the rector, Rev. W. B. Waddington, united in marriage Mr. Allan Poole, son of Mrs. Ada Poole, to Mrs. Berdie Chase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lindsay. Only the immediate relatives were present.

The happy couple went immediately on the wedding trip, part of the way by auto, which included the cities of New York, Boston and Fall River and are expected home today, when they will reside in Woodstock.

Watson, Mr. and Mrs. John Kerrigan, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. John Montgomery, Mrs. Wesley Delong and Miss Jean Delong, George Flemming, Robert Montgomery, Cook Hall, Corbett Jones, Thomas Patrick and Chas. Clark motored to Debec on Sunday afternoon and attended the funeral of the late Clayton Atkinson.

AMALGAMATION OF POTATO SHIPPERS FALLS THROUGH

There was held in the Court House, Woodstock, on Monday evening, June 1st, a meeting of potato shippers of the Saint John Valley for the purpose of endeavoring to effect an amalgamation of interests with the view of handling more expeditiously and with greater economy the potato crop of this section of New Brunswick. Since the suggested amalgamation was first mooted the proposal has received the keen interest of business men and farmers, and general hope was expressed that the efforts of the organizer committee would be successful. The merger of potato dealers would mean much to the growers, for under existing competitive shipping to wholesaler or packing plant, marking the cases so shipped, "Ungraded Eggs." The receiving house then grades the eggs and when returns are made a statement showing the different grades must accompany payment. Using this statement, and deducting a fair handling cost, the local merchant then pays the farmer for the eggs bought from him on a graded basis. The policy of grading eggs has as its chief object the paying for eggs on a quality basis, giving to the careful producer a premium for the superior article and penalizing the producer who is indifferent to the demands of the discriminating consumer. Coupled with this objective is the aim to build up for Canada a commanding position in the export market for eggs, as well as to increase the local or home market. Statistics available at hand show that in 1913 when egg grading was first instituted the per capita consumption of eggs in Canada was fifteen dozens and one. In 1924, as a direct result of these regulations, whereby the consumer is assured of quality consistent with the grade for which he makes payment to the grocer, the per capita egg consumption in Canada had risen to twenty four dozens and ten. It would seem, therefore, that the enforcement of regulations pertaining to egg standards is decidedly in favor of the producer, paying him as it does on a strictly quality basis and tending, as has been proven, to widen and increase the demand for the article in question.

The meeting above referred to, at which were gathered upwards of twenty of the most important potato shippers of the St. John Valley, was unproductive of any definite basis upon which organization could possibly be brought about. Certain clauses whose insertion into the constitution was demanded by those shippers whose interests were comparatively small could not be agreed to by the larger shippers. This, together with a failure to reach an amicable agreement as to appointment of directorate, it would seem, proved the barrier to organization. Back of it all, however, it would seem that there exists an unjust lack of trust in the bigger interests on the part of the smaller shippers. We take it that the matter, for the present at least, stands in abeyance because of indifference and suspicion on one side countered on the other by considering the demands made unreasonable.

It is to be hoped that the group of men in whose hands has been placed the matter of organizing the dealers into one large shipping association will not permit the abortive character of the first attempt at organization to lessen their efforts in effecting the proposed merger. The scheme proposed is so commendable and the benefits to be derived so valuable that everything possible should be done to bring about materialization of the objectives sought. The so-called unsurmountable obstacles can be overcome. Some defeats are only instalments of victory.

PRESENTATION

The members of St. Paul's choir met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Shaw on Wednesday evening last and presented the organist, Miss Marion Lindsay with a dainty gold brooch. The presentation was made by Miss Laura Shaw, to which Miss Lindsay made a suitable reply. Miss Lindsay has been granted a leave of absence for the summer, as she is in need of a rest.

6 Cross Word Booklets

Have you seen the Acrostic Box of Moins Chocolates? It certainly is an interesting novelty.

Each package contains one of a series of six booklets. Each booklet has four Cross Word puzzles to solve, plus an acrostic the latest twist to the Cross Word idea. Booklets are numbered so that you can see them through the wrapper and not get duplicates.

They say there's a great deal of fun, after presenting the chocolates, for the two of you to solve the puzzles together.

ORGANIZATION OF EGG CIRCLES IN CARLETON COUNTY

Following the long lead already established by Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick recently established, with headquarters in Saint John, the New Brunswick Poultry Exchange, Limited, a farmers' co-operative selling association for the handling and marketing of poultry and eggs for the New Brunswick farmer. Prince Edward Island started her Egg and Poultry Exchange in 1912. Today that organization has a membership comprising some four thousand farmers, and last year disposed of one and one half million dozens of eggs, besides a very large turnover of surplus poultry. In operation since March of this year, the New Brunswick Poultry Exchange has today some thirty five local Egg Circles in different parts of the province whose shipments are being marketed by the Exchange.

The Carleton County Vocational School, co-operating with the Provincial and Federal Departments of Agriculture, has been instrumental in organizing in Carleton County three Egg and Poultry Selling Circles during the past three weeks. The first of these to be organized was the Johnville-Bath Egg Circle which was closely followed by Circles established in Florenceville and at Woodstock.

The prices received by these circles for eggs during the past two weeks, net to the members, was 26 cents for "extras" and 23 cents for "1's" and "2's", constituting a considerable difference to what is being paid for "eggs" at local points.

Patterned after the P. E. I. Exchange, the N. B. Exchange requires each member of an Egg Circle to give his collateral note for $25.00, and to purchase a one dollar share of capital stock. With assured volume of business it is very unlikely indeed that the notes will ever be called. The collateral notes are merely deposited in the bank of St. John as security on which to borrow money with which to operate. The collateral note offers a convenient and cheap method of financing as it enables the business to borrow money for a short time and return it when convenient without having to pay interest on it for long periods.

The amount the banks are advancing on these notes is fifty per cent. Actually, therefore, each member would only be held responsible for $12.50 in the event of all the notes being pledged to the bank and all the money being lost—a very highly improbable happening.

According to the constitution, each member of an Egg Circle agrees to sell all his poultry and eggs, other than those required for breeding purposes, for hatching and for home consumption. These stipulations are willingly accepted, but the stumbling block to a more widespread establishment of local egg circles is the fact that a collateral note for twenty five dollars must be given by each person seeking membership.

The New Brunswick Poultry Exchange, Limited, is a farmers' organization, given the supervision and financial support of the Provincial and Federal Departments of Agriculture for a period of three years. Farmers must soon recognize the fact that if maximum returns for their labors are to be obtained they themselves must capitalize the organizations and channels through which their products are marketed. To expect business men to provide the capital or security for the advancement of projects launched to increase the profitability of farming without expecting that a high rate of interest will be charged for the assumption of the responsibility in question is mythical, to say the least. In return for the giving of a collateral note for twenty five dollars, the advantages to be gained by those who are interested in poultry (and we believe there's a dollar in hens well kept) in marketing their products through a local Egg Circle, are worth while.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Knox announce the engagement of their daughter, Estella Mae, to George R. Caldwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Caldwell, the wedding to take place in the near future.
