SACRED CONCERT

The concert by the United Choirs in the United Baptist church on Sunday evening was attended by about 800 persons, the large auditorium and overflow being completely filled. With the exception of a few slight changes the program was the same as that given in the Capitol Theatre a week ago. The proceeds amounted to $80 for the benefit of the Fisher Memorial Hospital. At the rehearsal on Sunday afternoon, Mrs. E. W. Mair, accompanist, and Mr. C. B. Watson, director of the choir, were presented with tokens of appreciation by the choir, Mr. Arthur Sprague making the presentation.

Dr. Criss Clifford, Chiropractor, died at his home, Main Street, on Tuesday night, after a lingering illness aged 35 years. The doctor came from Ohio to this town with his aged parents last summer. Great sympathy is extended to his parents who have been living with him he being their only son. The funeral was on Thursday afternoon conducted by Rev. E. B. McLatchey. The body was taken to Houlton in charge of Harold Montgomery, a member of the I. O. O. F. Lodge, he being a member of that Lodge in the United States. Burial was in Houlton on Friday.

The Track Supervisor received the following note from one of his track foremen:

"I'm sending in the accident report on Casey's foot when he struck it with the spike maul. Now under 'Remarks,' do you want mine or do you want Casey's?"—Atlantic Seal.

Blakely: "You always object when I try to tell a joke—always! It's the same old story."

Mrs. Blakely: "I know it is, that's why I object to your telling it over again."

RUN-DOWN AFTER BIRTH OF BABY

Ottawa Woman Made Strong by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ottawa, Ontario.—"I was terribly run-down after the birth of my third baby. I had awful bearing-down pains and was afraid I had serious trouble. I was tired all the time and had no appetite. My sister-in-law was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and cannot praise it too highly and asked me to try it. I have had splendid results and feel fine all the time now. Any one who needs a thorough pick-me-up soon learns from me what to take."—Mrs. RENE PAQUIN, 320 Cumberland Street, Ottawa, Ontario.

Terrible Backache

Hamilton, Ont.—"After my baby was born I had terrible backache and headaches. I could not do my work and felt tired from the first minute I got up. But worst of all were the pains in my sides when I moved about. I had to sit or lie down for a while afterwards. I could keep my house in the time now. I was relieved before I had taken the first we bought and have not had any trouble like it since."—Mrs. T. MARKLE, 115 Ferguson Avenue South, Hamilton, Ontario.

THE RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCER

November 14, 1873

The following concerning the late Elder Robert Colpitts, who departed this life in Norton, Kings County, on the 7th November 1855, aged 88 years, was written by the late editor of this paper, and appeared in the INTELLIGENCER immediately after Elder Colpitts' decease. It is now re-published by request, and we doubt not will be read with interest by many who remember the subject of it, as well as by many who know him only from having heard of his abundant labours as a servant of Christ:—

The wisest of men has said by the spirit of inspiration that "The memory of the just is blessed," and we believe that few men have lived and died more generally beloved, or more highly esteemed by those who knew them, than the late venerated Father who is the subject of this sketch. "He being dead yet speaketh;" and long will his memory be cherished not only in that branch of the Christian church to which he belonged, but by many others also. We regret that we have no more of the facts and incidents of his life and experience at hand to give our readers—we are unable to gather them, he having kept no diary, and the generation among whom his early labors were spent having principally passed away. For much of the following we are indebted to the venerable widow, who for sixty years shared with him his joys and sorrows, and who at the advanced age of four score years still survives him. The deceased emigrated to this country from England with his parents and the rest of their family, when he was about fourteen years of age. His parents belonged to the established church, according to the forms which they taught their children. They settled in the country on the Petitediac river, which was then with but little exception a dense and uncultivated forest. The preaching of the gospel was at that time rare in this new country and whether the deceased enjoyed any opportunity of hearing it, until he was twenty-three years of age we cannot say. At that time, however, a Mr. Bishop—whose name and labors may still be remembered by some who survive—visited the settlements on the Petitediac, and preached the gospel of Christ with the Spirit sent down from Heaven. He was a Frenchman by birth. He belonged to a wealthy and respectable family, and was well educated. But God had converted him, and the "love of Christ constrained" him to seek the welfare of his fellow men. If we are correctly informed, he was one of those devoted men who were sent out as missionaries to this country by the pious and excellent Lady Huntington. Of this, however, we are not quite sure. Under the labors of Mr. Bishop, the mind of Robert Colpitts became deeply moved to seek religion. A single inquiry made while crossing a small stream in a canoe was the words "Blessed spoken," and accomplished that whereunto they were sent. This enquiry was, "Do you know the Lord?" The importance of this knowledge pressed upon his mind and led him to seek God, until some time after when ploughing in the field with his brother, in the bitterness and agony of his soul, he was enabled to cast himself upon the Saviour and found relief. Like many others, however, he kept these things in his heart and confessed not with his mouth, until he began to doubt what God had done for him; but the reading of the Bible and such other good books as came in his way he still followed. At the age of twenty-six he married the daughter of Mr. Christian Steeves. Mr. Steeves who was converted under the labors of Mr. William Black of Cumberland, was a devoted Christian, and frequently held meetings and taught the people. Mrs. Steeves was converted under Henry Allene; she was the first person converted on the Petitediac river—and at that time considered insane. She could not speak English—being with her husband recently from Germany. About three years after Mr. Colpitts' marriage, he attended a meeting at the Pollet river, where a revival was in progress, under whose labors is not definitely known. In this meeting he for the first time opened his mouth to speak of God's dealings with his soul; on the same evening also one of his brothers was convicted of sin, and soon afterwards converted. At this time he began to pray in his family; but after a while in consequence of being much from home—and other causes, declined the public exercise of his gift. At this juncture he began to feel the chastening hand of God; a little daughter was removed by death—he felt the blow, but all was not accomplished that was necessary—God's hand was again stretched out, and a little lad, the eldest son, seven years of age, was taken away. This was a heavy stroke, but designed to save the sorrowing father. How often does the disobedience and wilfulness of parents render the loss of beloved children necessary! What compassion is often manifested in the sorest bereavement. Happy he who like him whose history we are sketching recognizes God's hand in these things, and says from the heart, "Thy will be done."

Keeping Fit! A Matter of Habit!

Good Health Is Within Reach of All Who Observe This Healthful Habit

There is a very good reason why so many people find themselves subject to listlessness, headaches, biliousness and weakened vitality. They have failed to acquire that healthful habit of regular daily bowel evacuation, with the result that they find themselves victims of constipation.

Modern living conditions tend to decrease the amount of natural lubricant in the intestines, making regular easy elimination of the bowel contents difficult.

Under such circumstances poisons from the waste matter that remains behind, are picked up by the blood and absorbed by the system, resulting in the general health and vitality.

Nujol, the scientific internal lubricant augments nature's lubricant, and makes elimination safe and easy.

Nujol softens the waste matter and permits thorough and regular elimination, without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol is not a laxative, and may be taken for any length of time without ill effects. At all druggists.

Children necessary! What compassion is often manifested in the sorest bereavement. Happy he who like him whose history we are sketching recognizes God's hand in these things, and says from the heart, "Thy will be done."

The remains of this dear child was brought up the river about 15 miles for interment. Returning on the following day in a boat with Mrs. Colpitts and infant, he was called to converse with a sick man, who was thought to be dying, and who was out of Christ. After leaving the melancholy scene, as he rowed down the river, suddenly he drew in his oars, rose upon his feet, and began to proclaim aloud the salvation of God! Mrs. Colpitts was deeply affected, while he continued in this exercise until the boat reached the landing, a distance of some miles below, to which place it drifted with the tide without any human agency. So exhausted was he on landing that he had to be aided in ascending the bank of the river. In his account of the extraordinary exercise, he said an innumerable throng of people were presented before him, the side of the river seemed lined with precious souls, while he felt within him the love of Christ constraining him to preach the gospel of the grace of God. This exercise, perhaps will only find sympathy in those who have been similarly led, and similarly called of God. He now began to labor more frequently and more publicly in the vineyard of Christ. Telling hard through the week with his hands for the support of his family it was no uncommon thing for him a Saturday night, when the tide served to row his boat several miles to attend an appointment the next day, and return the following night. He resided at this time about four miles below the Bend of Petitediac, and frequent were his visits to Hillsboro, on the opposite side of the river, then called the "Lower Settlement," as also to Shepody. In both of these places God owned his labors, and his ministry was much blessed. The following in relation to his first visit to Shepody has been communicated to us by one acquainted therewith, and will give some idea of the nature of his toils, and the result of his labor:—Leaving home on Saturday evening in a boat alone, he rowed to the place he intended visiting (a distance we think, of some fifteen or twenty miles). Arriving there some time before day, and being a stranger, he wrapped his great coat about him and laid down in his boat until

Things You Would Not Do Without

There are many forms of advertising, but the world could get along without some of them

Billboards are good, but if they were to disappear nobody would worry.

Circulars that come in the mail are sometimes interesting, but if your mail was free from them you would not worry.

Electric signs are often beautiful, but you wouldn't miss them.

Street car cards serve a useful purpose, but if they weren't there you would hardly notice it.

But think what chaos would reign if the world were suddenly deprived of its newspapers.

The newspaper is man's only point of contact with the universe. It is this fact that makes the newspaper the greatest advertising medium. It is the only form of advertising that people pay to read.

Use it to stimulate your trade.

"How is your wife?"

"To tell the truth, I don't see much of her. She belongs to so many committees and societies that I only see her for about an hour every day."

"Poor fellow!"

"Oh, an hour soon passes!"
