DO YOUR STUFF, BOYS

Present indications point to an even heavier potato acreage than last year. This year potato prices have been fairly good. Potato dealers state that any increase in acreage is just begging and praying for prices to return to below cost of production levels. Yet when the farmers are told they should plant something else or go in for raising some other commodity the natural reply is: "But what can I raise that will be more profitable? In the meantime Mr. R. W. Maxwell recently told the Rotary Club that the solution of the problem is for the farmers to raise products and by-products which can be shipped to the British market.

Here is a chance for the newly organized Marketing Board to show whether it can earn its way. Let the farmers be told just what it should be profitable for them to raise and where they should logically be expected to sell it at a profit, and we will be inclined to lay a small bet that they will fall in line.

Just now we are told that excellent opportunities exist to ship bacon hogs to the old country. If it can be explained to the farmers just what breeds should be raised, how they should be raised, and when and where they should be sold we do not doubt that our farmers can and will produce the goods.

This looks like a chance for the Board to show that they are an asset to the province, and not merely passengers as so many government bodies have been in the past.

STARTED SOMETHING

The Canadian budget this year was a very colorful one. As pointed out in the House of Commons by Hon. Mr. Ralston, the Minister of Finance failed to break any new ground at a time when the country was hoping that something new and constructive would be developed. However, as usual, the budget started something. Hon. Mr. Rhodes got in trouble last year over the sugar tax. This year he wanted to abate this tax and cut it to one cent instead of two. No fault can be found with the honorable gentleman for this, except that he should have taken the other cent off as well.

Mr. Rhodes had to find some way to offset the loss caused by this reduction, so a ten per cent tax on gold production was decided on. Now last year somebody in the cabinet talked. Word of the sugar tax got out in advance with disastrous consequences. This year, apparently Mr. Rhodes and the premier didn't let the rest of the cabinet in on the budget at all. As a consequence at the time Mr. Rhodes was preparing his gold tax Hon. Mr. Gordon, Minister of Mines, was assuring the mine owners that no such tax was contemplated.

When the new tax was announced, naturally there was plenty of trouble. Among other things it is credibly reported that Mr. Gordon threatened to resign; and all the while the lamentations of the mine owners were arising to heave. The howls have been heeded, and before this reaches our readers it is supposed that, as usual a certain amount of backwater will be taken by the government on the measure. Just what reduction will be made in the tax the next few hours should disclose.

Simple folk are capable of loyalty towards a person rather than towards an idea.

UPHOLDS GRAND JURY

Fredericton, May 1—After experience of 27 years at the bar of the province and 25 years on the bench Hon. J. H. Barry, chief justice of the King's Bench Division of the New Brunswick Supreme Court, would be "very sorry to see the grand jury go", he said today at the May term of the Court of King's Bench for York County.

"I have always felt that the grand jury is a very proper institution in the carrying on of the administration of criminal justice," he declared. At the same time he pointed out there were many who advocated the abolition of the grand jury system, and in some provinces legislation to effect such abolition already had been introduced.

Great for Lumbago—Minard's.
