QUICK ACTION

It did not take our new premier, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, very long to get action with a view to increasing Canada's trade. Mr. King has been in conference with President Roosevelt regarding a reciprocity treaty with the United States, and already preparations for the final agreement are far advanced. While no announcement has been made regarding its provisions it is quite apparent that the treaty is intended to further the development of Canada's primary industries, rather than the secondary industries which received such tender treatment from the late administration. Lumber and seed potatoes are among the items on which it is reported a marked reduction of the duty into the United States will be made.

It goes without saying that the volume of trade north and south should be a tremendous one, and at one time it was tremendous. Of late years, strangled by high tariffs on both sides of the border, this vital flow of commerce has dried up to a fraction of its former proportions, and as it dried up industrial and economic conditions in the Maritime Provinces gradually became worse.

It will be remembered that in 1911 an advantageous reciprocity treaty with the United States was negotiated by the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but at that time all sorts of canvasases were used against the proposed pact, and with prosperous conditions prevailing, following many years of Liberal rule, the necessity for greater trade was not so apparent as it is now. As a result reciprocity was decisively beaten, and ever since our people have wished they had once more the opportunity they threw away.

It now appears that this opportu-ity is again at hand. Whether the bargain that can be made now is as good as the bargain that was made in 1911 remains to be seen. At any rate the new treaty will be a long move in the right direction, and may be the forerunner of similar tariff reductions in various parts of the world.

The people of Canada in general, and the Maritime Provinces in particular, will await with eagerness the full details of the new trade pact.

THE BRITISH ELECTIONS

The people of Great Britain will go to the polls today to decide whether the National government will be continued in power or not. The present government consists largely of Conservatives with a sprinkling of Liberals and Labor. Elected to office at a time when Britain was in the depths of the depression the government was able to bring about a steady improvement in conditions, and has a good record on which to go to the people.

The principal plank in the government's platform is re-armament for the nation. This is a plank which we believe would have been thoroughly unpopular a year or two ago, but under the existing circumstances it seems to be one which will be supported by the majority of the electors, who have become seriously alarmed at events in other parts of the world.

Political observers in Great Britain agree that the national government will in all probability be sustained by a substantial majority, not only in its past record, but because the people believe it offers the best chance of adequate action for the solving of the present international difficulties.

It is needless to say that the result in the old country will be watched with the keenest interest by the people of Canada.

CANNOT REDUCE PAY UNLESS GOOD CAUSE IS SHOWN

Fredericton, Nov. 13—According to a notice appearing in today's issue of The Royal Gazette, an average wage of $27 per month and found for the lumbering industry in this province, which was fixed last week by the New Brunswick Forest Operations Commission, is to be effective as of Oct. 1.

A further provision which was not included in the official announcement last week of the setting of the wage scale is that "no employer who at the present time, owing to favorable conditions is paying his employees a greater sum on the average than $27 per month and board net or its equivalent in the case of piece work shall be allowed to reduce such wages or earnings of any of his employees except on showing good cause to the commission."

The average rate of wages of not less than $27 per month and board net, or its equivalent in the case of piece work, is to be paid for cutting, yarding and hauling, the notice stated.

Employee and employer are defined as follows:

"Employee" means any person employed by an employer to do any skilled or unskilled manual labor for wages or hire, or by piece work, in the lumbering industry in the province.

"Employer" means any person, company or corporation employing five or more persons in an engaging in the lumbering industry in the province, and shall include the sub-contractor, the contractor and the principal for whom the work is undertaken and also any person having control or direction of, or responsible directly or indirectly, for the wages of any employee.
