Mr. Leger was the first speaker. He spoke about 15 minutes in English, giving his reasons for changing his political views and thought he did right in accepting government nomination.

He also addressed the electors in French and was listened to attentively and applauded on resuming his seat.

Mr. Goguen followed, claiming attention for a short time. He stated his position in reference to government and made a manly appeal to electors for their support. He came before them a young and almost unknown man and had received 1200 votes. He was independent then, and was the same now. He knew of no reason why he should change. He would support the government on all good measures. Leger had supported him in 1890, when he was the same as now. Mr. Goguen gave a good address, which made a good impression and was frequently applauded. He also spoke in French.

Mr. Barriau was the next and announced he had retired from the field. He did not retire in favor of either party and wished his friends to use their own judgment and do as they pleased. He was loudly cheered on making this announcement. The first three speakers occupied about one hour. Mr. Blair followed and waded in in his usual style. His time was principally taken up with abuse of Messrs Powell and Phinney. Going over the same old statements except in his criticism of Mr. Powell's Welford speech. Our readers in Kent have no doubt heard them all and are now sick of them. He addressed the electors about two hours and a half although the chairman announced that the time would be limited, but did not stop speaking until remonstrated with. Mr. Blair seems to have Messrs Powell and Phinney on his brain and there is said to be a third Kent County man looming up in Northumberland.

Mr. Phinney came to the front when the Attorney General ceased speaking and said Dr Leger, M. P., was present to address electors, and as he was not in good health he would wait till Dr Leger made a few remarks, when he would reply to the Attorney General.

Dr Leger said he would not detain them long, but would explain why he was present. He was here in the interests of his county and the province and at the call of duty. He was not afraid of consequences, and felt he was doing right. In 1890, before he was representative, he had worked for Mr. Gogain and Mr. Phinney. He had worked for fair play then, and was here now to work in the interests of justice. Had he betrayed his friends? No, a thousand times no! Mr. Gogain was gaining daily in the estimation of the county. Leger (not the doctor) was "a turncoat" and had repudiated his friends and was now with those whom he had always opposed. He despised them, and they despised him. Dr Leger here made a statement in reference to Hon C H LaBillois, and the methods he introduced into this contest of a most startling nature, intended to fire the hearts of the French people against a portion of their fellow citizens on race and religious lines. It took place, the doctor said, at St Louis. LaBillois thought he was not manly enough to make the statement. He would find his mistake in this matter as the French people were not to be blinded by any such as LaBillois. This assertion of the doctor, which he is prepared to prove, created a terrible sensation. LaBillois had been charged with this sort of thing before, but when repeated in the exact words as used by this man from Restigouche, for a time the people seemed to be dumbfounded.

Mr Phinney rising after Dr Leger had taken his seat, the greatest confusion and excitement reigned supreme. Mr. Phinney's friends thinking he had a right to reply to the miserable charges preferred against him, while some of the men on the government side were calling on LaBillois. The upshot was a split between the two parties, Phinney's party holding the fort. When Mr Phinney said as it was now nearly seven o'clock and he did not feel able to speak in the open air at night he would only detain them for a few minutes. Statements made by Mr. Blair were absolutely false and he had proofs with him and he regretted he had not been given a chance to defend himself. He would be heard from later.

When Mr. Phinney stopped speaking cheers were given for Phinney, Gogain and the Queen.

Meanwhile LaBillois' friends were holding forth on the Custom House steps in true western style.

It is said that the experiment of telephonic church service has proved so successful in Birmingham, Eng., that it is now proposed to develop the idea by connecting the hospitals of the locality to Christ church, the centre of the experiment. Already the wire has been switched on to the bedrooms of sick folk, and with marked success—a flexible cord being attached to the ordinary receiver, with a specially adapted instrument for fixing on the head of the invalid.

The Dominion Illustrated.

A fine page group in the last issue of the Dominion Illustrated shows the portraits of the officers and executive of the Canadian Press Association, and on the adjoining page is a brief biographical sketch of each. No finer series of landscape views are presented by any journal in America than those reproduced from week to week by the Dominion Illustrated. The last issue is especially noteworthy in this respect. It is a genuine art number. The views at Metis, Ste. Rose and Gaspe are simply charming. The old house which was the residence of the author of "Sam Slick" is also shown in this number, as well as the castle of San Angelo, Rome, the French Warship "Bisson," views at the recent Lachine Regatta, humorous cartoons, etc. The number is one of the best that has appeared this season.

Our national game without Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, to rub the heroes? Impossible!

"Peter Piper Picked a Peck of Pickled Peppers," was a line of alliterative nonsense, that the children used to say. Nowadays they can practice on the Perfect, Painless, Powerful Properties of Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. It will impress a fact which will be useful to know. These Pellets cure sick headache, bilious attacks, indigestion, constipation and all stomach, liver and bowel troubles. They are tiny, sugar-coated pills, easy to take, and as a laxative, one is sufficient for a dose. No more groans and gripes from the old drastic remedies! Pierce's Purgative Pellets are as painless as they are perfect in the effects.

Eucuminae Notes.

J. P. Burchill M. P. P., has been down here looking for some person to sell the repairing of the Point Sapin road. I hear "Mike" had a chase after him, but got left, and it was time. Teaser sold the repairing of the road last Saturday, but had not money enough to cut off the corners where the rabbits broke off their tails, but repaired where Sinclair and Tate got bogged; poor Mike! Hurrah for Teaser!

K. B. FORBES.

Dr. Leger, M. P., and the Kent Election.

[Moniteur Asadien.]

Mr. Editor:—I request to-day a brief space in your valuable columns to give expression to my views, and to say where my sympathies are, in the election now proceeding in the County of Kent, which I have the honor to represent in the House of Commons.

The following are the reasons which induce me to write this letter.

In the first place, I believe it to be my duty as your representative to inform my supporters what my opinions are, when the interests of the county are affected, and, in the second place, I desire to satisfy public opinion by declaring for whom I am, inasmuch as I have, during the past few days, received several letters accusing me of being "on the fence" in the present contest. As I have never been on the fence when the interests of the electors of Kent have been affected, I will not now begin such tactics, which would only have the effect of recalling the fable of the dog and his shadow.

The two candidates in the election are both my friends, and I am much obliged to them as such. Both are honorable men and worthy to represent the interests of Kent at Fredericton, and I regret to see these two men, who have hitherto worked together, and for the same party, now separated and opposed—one remaining faithful to his past political record, the other taking to his arms the party which he sought to destroy in the election of January, 1890.

As I took a very active part in that contest, I have no reason to change my political opinions, and, moreover, I am convinced that my county has everything to lose by supporting Mr. Blair, and if I am in the county on polling day my vote will be cast for Mr. J. B. Gogain, a young man who is well qualified to be our representative.

If I had any advice to give the electors of Kent I would say to them: Vote for Mr. Gogain.

I see by the newspapers that Mr. Blair and his friends are endeavoring to clear their record in the county, but in the attempt to wash a negro white, your soap is wasted, and notwithstanding all his honeyed words, and all his speeches, in which he seeks to prove that the administration of public affairs in the province has been honestly and purely conducted, he cannot make the people swallow the disgrace of the Northumberland deal, and many other schemes, for which the public treasury has had to pay the fiddler.

Your obedient servant,
ED. H. LEGER.
