The trees are beginning to don their dress of varied hue, but the rains have come at such seasonable times that nature retains almost the freshness of June, so that, where'er the eye roams, we see a very pleasing and most perfect aspect, for this season of the year The weather is getig somewhat cool, the morning and evenings especially, so much so, that an overcoat, or an extra wrap, is no longer considered a burden,

Our summer recruits are beginning to return to us. It is needless to say that they have enjoyed the change, and been benefited by their sojourn in the east, and been invigorated by the cool and healthy breezes of their native land. We did not need to ask them if they had a good time. The answer to this was publicly written in the dancing bright eyes.

Miss Rosy O'Neil and Miss Aggie Chambers, of Chelmsford, returned to us last week, also, Miss Aggie Ryan, of Newcastle. They were very welcome. Miss Annie Gorman has returned from Harrison, Me., where she spent a couple of months. She was heartily welcomed by more than one.

There are still some tardy ones, who are tempted to linger and enjoy the sweets held out to them. Methinks they think little of the lonely ones longing for their presence.

A band of misguided women and infatuated men in Chicago are worshipping at the shrine of one Dr. Cyrus Teed, who has imposed on their credulity to a remarkable degree. Cyrus teaches the doctrine of celibacy, but it is charged that he does not practice it to any considerable extent. The self-styled Messiah tells his dupes that his illumination came upon him 21 years ago; he is now 51. He says it came upon him with a rustling of wings, a rumbling of chariot wheels and other ghostly demonstrations. Dr. Teed now claims to have had 42 different incarnations; in other words that he is the Messiah, and has at different ages of the world appeared in the bodies of Moses and the prophets, Napoleon, Swedenborg and other great men.

A basket social was lately held in the St. Nicholas River hall, which proved quite a success, the evening being everything that could be desired for such an occasion. A good number of the young ladies from the several districts being present, with baskets well supplied and handsomely decorated, to suit the most fastidious taste, in the purchase of which much liberality was manifested by the gentlemen present, who very readily availed themselves of the opportunity presented for making a generous repast. Moreover, we would beg leave to add that we did not fail to notice the congenial spirit, as well as the perfect order and harmony which characterized the whole proceeding.
