TARIFF RECTIFICATION.

The Canadian people generally seem to be pleased at the rectification of the tariff, proposed by the Finance Minister in his budget speech. The intended reduction, amounting to three and a half millions, of the sugar duties will be a great boon. Its benefits will be shared by the people at large. Its value will be enhanced by the fact that the reduction is not to be offset by the imposition of duties on tea and coffee. The loss to the revenue is to be met partly by an increased duty on malt beers, liquors and tobacco. None of these are necessities of life. The balance of the loss it is hoped may be wiped out by more stringent economy in public expenditure. Such economy is rendered the more practicable by the lessened demands for costly public works. It is well that the sugar duty reduction is felt to be possible, as the retention of the duty would have provoked smuggling on a large scale, since the late modifications of the United States tariff has given cheaper sugar to the people of that country. The reduction proposed is unexpectedly large.

OUR MARITIME PROVINCE ORATORS.

The Maritime Provinces appear to advantage in the Dominion Parliament, in the matter of oratory and in debating power generally. The reform party in the provinces by the sea is represented in the commons by a diminished band. But they make a respectable showing in debate. The chief man among them, Mr. Davies, of Charlottetown, is a man of mark, something of an orator in fact. He might, no doubt, be more effective by being more cautious in his outpourings, but, with all his defects, he is a fluent and an attractive speaker.

Mr. Fraser, of Guysboro, on the same side of the House, has given proof of having good debating stuff in him. He seems bound to rise.

There is a plethora of ability among the Maritime Province Liberal Conservatives. To begin with, Sir John Thompson is a very able all-round man. The one thing urged against him in any quarter is that, having been born of Protestant parentage and bred a Protestant, he has become a Roman Catholic. This plea will soon cease to have any force. His late action in declining to accept the premiership and in recommending the appointment thereto of Mr. Abbott, is telling much in his favor. It was previously admitted that his legal acquirements were of a high order, that his general ability was great, that his debating force was unmistakable and that his character stood high. Mr. C. H. Tupper occupies a place in the front rank of parliamentary debaters, and is, indeed, by many marks, "a chip of the old block."

Mr. Foster has just made one of the ablest budget speeches ever delivered in the Canadian House of Commons, and Professor Weldon has sustained his reputation as a superior speaker in a speech of great power. Possibly its tone, at certain points, was needlessly severe on some opponents.

Parliamentary orators are rather slow in learning that powerful argumentation is not weakened by being couched in guarded language, and is never strengthened by bitterness of tone and acrid personalities. There is a number besides of able speakers from New Brunswick. Mr. Wood speaks seldom, but he speaks ably. Mr. Skinner is an effective debater. Mr. MacLeod speaks impressively. Mr. Hazen promises well. Several others are men of more or less mark. In short, taking the Maritime Province representatives en masse, and the same number of Quebec or Ontario members in block, the superiority will appear incontestably on the side of the Maritime Province men.

MR. GLADSTONE.

Mr. Gladstone is a very remarkable old man, a grand old man, as is often said. His mental versatility and vigor and his bodily strength and activity have been almost without a parallel at his advanced age. But a beginning of the end has evidently set in with him. His death may occur now at any time. He has been very poorly for some months, but until very lately his friends have made light of his ailment. Now it is conceded that his condition is not promising. He seems to have lost recuperative power in his recent struggle with la grippe. Mr. Gladstone's death would leave the British Liberal party in a demoralized condition. There is no man among them fit to step into his shoes when vacant. There is no want of candidates for the position. There is Harcourt. He has ability, but is wanting in weight. There is Morley with a literary reputation and capable of making brilliant speeches, but he is a pronounced free thinker, and wanting in strong common sense. There is Labouchere, but he is a mere sensationalist. There are lots of others, third and fourth rate men. The party at large is split into factions. They all used to rally around Gladstone. They will not do so around any successor who may follow him.

Parnell and O'Shea.

LONDON, June 25.—The marriage of Mr. Parnell and Mrs. O'Shea took place at 10 o'clock this morning. The only witnesses to the ceremony were two servants from Mrs. O'Shea's house at Walsingham terrace, Brighton. The registrar was strictly enjoined not to give any information about the marriage.

Mr. Parnell had passed the previous evening at Walsingham terrace. An order was given to have a solitary one-horse phaeton in readiness at 6 o'clock this morning. When the conveyance was ready, Mr. Parnell and Mrs. O'Shea entered the phaeton and orders were given to the coachman to drive to the westward. After the party had left Brighton, the driver was directed to proceed to Steyning by a circuitous route. Steyning was reached at 9 o'clock, at which time a heavy rain was falling. Upon entering the town Mrs. O'Shea, who was familiar with the place, and knew the situation of the registrar's office, relieved the coachman of the ribbons and drove direct to the office herself.

Mr. Parnell was dressed in dark clothes. He appeared to be in cheerful spirits, but occasionally threw nervous glances around him, apparently being somewhat anxious lest the wedding party be observed. Mrs. O'Shea, was also in dark attire, and wore a pink trimmed bonnet. She, too, was in good spirits, and was very vivacious, both before and after the ceremony.

Portland, Me.

June 22, 1891.—A very interesting and pretty ceremony was performed at St. Dominick's church, the contracting parties were two of our N. B. friends, Mr. Philip Guthrew, of Moncton, and Miss Jennie Edward, of Kingston, Kent Co. Mr. W. Welch, of Montreal, supported the groom, and Miss Maggie Fraser, of Richibucto, was maid of honor. The marriage knot was tied by Rev. Father Hurley, of St. Dominick parish. The bride was very prettily dressed in heliotrope and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The presents were numerous and handsome. The happy couple left for their future home in Westbrook, carrying with them the best wishes of their numerous friends.

Miss Mary Creighton, of South Nelson, and Miss Aggie Ryan, of Newcastle, left here on Monday for their respective homes. They have left a vacancy which will not be easily filled, and we will miss them until they return.

Rev. Father McAulay of Portland, Me., intends visiting his relatives in Kingston, Kent Co., next week.

The weather has been very warm lately and quite a number of our friends have gone to the seashore. The thermometer, for a few days last week, ranged from 94 to 96° in the shade, the hottest weather that has been known here in June for twenty-seven years.

Some of our lady friends are wearing a winning smile, caused, no doubt, by the interesting news that Mr. McGonigle intends having a pair of trotting horses during the summer season. Doubtless many a happy evening will be spent in pleasant driving around the promenade.

Mr. James Meuchi has gone to Pembroke for the summer. We do not doubt that Miss Nelhe will be lonely without her friend.

Mr. Ben Kavanagh, of Philadelphia visited Portland lately to see his old friends and (I presume) his best girl. Ben is a jolly fellow, and everyone was glad to see him.

Some of our (down town) grocery men are doing quite a flourishing business on Salem street.

The lawn parties in Danforth are well attended. Hop beer and lemonade are the favorite beverages.

Report says Miss Lizzie Dixon and Miss A. German contemplate a visit to the rural districts. We envy you, girls. TWIN SISTERS.

A medical student, named Hermann Fischer, aged 25, was sentenced at Vienna on Thursday to a long term of imprisonment on a nefarious charge. When judgment was pronouncing, the prisoner exclaimed, "I charge the judge with the willful murder of an innocent man." Drawing from his clothing a dissecting knife he plunged it into his breast. He died in the court room, cursing his "legal murderers," and causing a most sensational scene.

The peach was originally a poisonous fruit, but by cultivation the poison has disappeared.

The Czar's Crown.

The Russian crown and other insignia, together known as "the crown jewels," are valued at the enormous sum of $11,000,000, the crown itself being reckoned at $6,000,000. It is adorned with hundreds of diamonds, worth all the way from a few dollars up into the many thousands. Besides the diamonds there are fifty-four magnificent pearls without a flaw set around the rim, with a ruby of extraordinary size for a centerpiece. The crown was made by Pauzie, the Genevese jeweller, and was first used by Catherine the Great. The Orloff diamond forms the tip of the scepter used on all state occasions.—St. Louis Republic.

Rev. William Moran, one of the oldest Catholic priests in America, died in Ware, Mass., on Friday, aged eighty-seven years. Father Moran was born in Kilkenny, Ireland, and after his ordination was appointed curate to Rev. James Dunphy in St. John. This was fully fifty years ago, when the Catholics worshipped in St. Malachi's church. When he removed to the States he had charge of a wide field in Maine and later at Sandwich, Mass. He was appointed rector of St. William's church at Ware in 1864, which position he held till 1887, when he was compelled to resign on account of losing the use of both legs through paralysis.
