

LOCAL & GENERAL.

Presentation.
On the day of the annual meeting of the congregation of Bass River, December 19th, the ladies of the sewing circle presented Mrs. J. H. Cameron, wife of their pastor, with a Christmas gift of $30.00. The friends in the South Branch section of the congregation presented her with a like amount about two months ago. These, with many other kindnesses, are gratefully acknowledged.

THE GREAT CLEARANCE SALE OF DRY GOODS AT J. FLANAGAN'S—Twenty thousand dollars worth. The stock is well selected. In all line of staple and useful goods that every household requires for all seasons it contains the cream of selections of the leading lines from the very best firms in the trade. (They all have their leaders.) This stock has been selected from the best and much of the stock is away below ordinary values. When you get them at our net cost as you do now or in many cases away below. You save one to five dollars a suit of clothes and the same on an overcoat. You save five to fifty cents a yard on Dress Goods, and the like sum on a carpet, you save from ten cents to a dollar a yard on Cloths. Five to ten dollars on a Lady's or Gentleman's Coat, one to five dollars on a Rubber Coat, and a proportionate saving on all classes of goods. Call as early in the day as possible to secure best attendance and avoid the rush later in the day. We have secured additional help to be able to meet the requirements of all.
J. FLANAGAN,
Moncton.

How the Arab was Caught.
One of the many Arab peddlers who infest the city made his appearance at the Custom House a couple of days ago to have his goods examined by the appraisers. He had a manifest of his goods made out in English, and this he handed to the officer. After some conversation the appraiser put down a row of English figures, and in a quiet way asked the Arab to make the characters in his language correspond. This request was complied with by the peddler. When the peddler's pack was opened a second manifest in Arabic was found. This one was for the private use of the peddler and unfortunately for him, on comparing the figures, it was ascertained that the goods were placed on the English manifest at half their cost. The extra duty was collected, and the peddler departed with a look of disgust because he had been outwitted.—St. John Globe.

Richibucto Druggist.
Mr W A MacLaren, our popular druggist whose proprietary articles are said to be as good as any on the market, is putting up his own brand of beef, iron and wine, a first-class tonic, quinine, wine and iron, another powerful tonic, syrup of spruce gum, and syrup of tar and wild cherry, both of which are wonderful in their prompt action in relieving coughs and colds, and his universal liniment will remove the most severe case of rheumatism. Noticeable amongst others are essence of pepsin, wild strawberry compound, tooth powder, liquid hair dye, little liver pellets, and camphor ice, with glycerine, catarrh snuff an excellent article for the relief of colds in the head, and last but not least are his renowned condition powders for horses and cattle. Space will not permit of our dealing in full with the different articles manufactured by Mr MacLaren, and we would recommend our readers to call at the drugstore and see for themselves. He has on hand a very complete stock of patent medicines, toilet articles, stationery, confectionery, fruit and nuts.

St. John Correspondence.
The tides to-day were higher than ever before in the history of St. John. At 12.30 o'clock the North and South wharves were covered to a depth of 2 feet and the loss to the merchants doing business there will be very heavy. Most of the stores when they saw prospects of a very high tide moved the greater portion of the stock to the upper floor but notwithstanding the loss including all will be nearly $2,000.
Most of the merchants doing business on these wharves are wholesale grocers, and the loss is nearly all in fish, flour, salt and meal.
The wind was blowing at the rate of 36 miles an hour at high tide.
One merchant lost $500 worth of goods by the water.
The Marsh Bridge was impassible owing to the depth of water upon it.
January 12, 1891.

A lady went into one of the shoe stores in a Kennebec, Maine, city, recently and took a seat on the settee provided for customers. Suddenly she turned about and declared that some one had touched her on the back—a singular statement in view of the fact that no one was near her at the time. A moment more and she made another demonstration, and threw off her shawl or cloak, when, horrible to relate, a live mouse jumped to the floor. A scene of confusion ensued, but his mouse-ship was promptly despatched and quiet was again restored.

A Russian gentleman whose name is not given by the authorities blew his brains out with a revolver at Monte Carlo Friday night. A letter was found upon the dead man's body stating that he had lost 800,000 roubles at the Monte Carlo gambling tables.

MEETINGS.

In the evening of same day, divine service with sermon, in St. Mary's Sunday school building, Richibucto, at 7 p. m. The Rector will be pleased to have the parents and friends of S. S. scholars present at the Sunday school service at 3 p. m., when the scholars will be examined in the lessons by the Rector.
H. HACKENLEY.

A number of houses at Livno, Bosnia, were crushed by an avalanche from the mountains and many persons were killed. Seventeen dead bodies have been taken from the ruins thus far.

An American vessel, the steamship Saginaw, has just sailed from New Orleans with the largest cargo of sugar ever carried from that port. It consists of nearly 17,000 barrels. An interesting thing about the Saginaw is that she was built of steel away out in Michigan and brought through the Canadian canals to the St. Lawrence river in two sections. Other large steam vessels are under construction by her builders for the ocean carrying trade.

—We received a letter this week signed "Woman," re gambling in this town, but our correspondent neglected to furnish us with his name and the letter has been consigned to the waste basket. He seems to be very anxious for reform just now. "Cos why?"

—The Parrsboro, N. S., Leader says three children of Mr. Kendrick, of Black Brook, one a little girl of ten, all attending the primary department of the high school walk four miles every morning and night for the purpose of attending school in town.

—We have received the first number of the Methodist, a weekly paper published at St. John by Mr. E. A. Powers and edited by Rev. Dr. Wilson. It is a six column folio, well printed and filled with bright and interesting reading matter, and will doubtless be well patronized by the Methodist denomination.

—Mr. W. F. Hannah has a very large bearskin in his possession. It measures seven feet from paw to paw, and also seven feet from the tail to the snout. Mr. H.'s place of business is the great fur mart for this county, and he handles each season many hundreds of dollars worth of valuable furs.

—In another column appears the advertisement of E. E. Peck, of Moncton, who bids for a share of the patronage of the citizens of Kent County who may want anything in the line of farm machinery, organs, &c. He has received a lot of hay cutters, said to be the best ever brought to the Maritime Provinces. Look for his advt.

—Messrs. A. E. Killam, ex-M. P. P. and Joseph A. McQueen, have been selected by the friends of the government to oppose Messrs. Powell and Stevens, the choice of the people, in Westmorland. They will doubtless receive the same reward as the opposition candidates in the recent election in York.

—The Municipal Council met in annual session on Tuesday. Owing to the bad state of the roads, all the councillors were not present at the opening session. Coun. J. B. Gogain was unanimously elected warden for the ensuing year. The council will probably consider, during the present session, the advisability of publishing the full proceedings in THE REVIEW as well as in pamphlet form as this paper reaches nearly every elector in the County.

The Nova Scotia sugar refinery declares a dividend of ten per cent. for the year. Blind Tom is dying of consumption and the $500,000 which he earned by his skill as a pianist has mysteriously disappeared, leaving him a pauper inmate of a lunatic asylum.

In Maine and some portions of the upper St. John water in the wells is giving out and the streams are getting low. There were not the usual rains last fall to fill up the swamps and streams.

Herman Punstaff, a young man chipping in the woods near Rhineland, Wis., cut his foot while at work. His companion carried him part way to the camp, then, as the wound was bleeding freely, laid him down and ran for aid. When the party returned, a half hour later, wolves had devoured Punstaff, and only his leggings, rubbers, and a few shreds of his clothing were left.
