A Great Timber Region.
To-day, in no part of the Dominion of Canada can you find a busier community than from River Herbert to Cape d'Or.
Downey's Cove that formerly woke up a month or two while the water lasted, and then slept, to-day is a busy place all the year round. All winter the woods ring with the sound of the axe, and in summer a snug steam mill keeps up a busy hum from morning until night. Last year Seaman Bros., shipped from this place about twelve thousand pieces of piling and one and a half million feet of deals.
From Tower Cove and Little River, 5,000 pieces of piling and 300 M. deals and from Joggins Mines 4,000 pieces of piling and 200 M. deals. Two Rivers comes next where ten years ago there was one frame house and nothing being done except shipping a few pieces of piling, to-day has a frame school house with quite a village around it, eight families, a cook house with thirty-five men in it, and a camp in the woods with thirty-seven men. In all there are now employed in the place over ninety men, while last summer over sixty men found employment through the season. Twenty-one thousand dollars were paid out here alone for wages in 1890.
Shipments from here were eleven thousand pieces of piling and nearly three million feet of deals, besides one schooner built.
The only trouble with this place is that one of those condemned Tories runs it and is fool enough to think that the three Os are good enough for him.
At Eatonville the amount of lumbering done last year was not large, but C. F. & F. R. Eaton got out timber for the barque launched by them last fall, and for a schooner now nearly ready for launching.

Last year American vessels carried from this side Cumberland county enough freight to stock one hundred and fifty-two thousand dollars, and including River Hebert, the gross freight on shipments to Canadian vessels exceeded forty-eight thousand dollars. Yet this does not include one dollar of coal freight.—Parrsboro Leader.

Towed the Leg Away.
Monday afternoon Mr. George Dulac arrived in Waterville from the scene of S. A. Nye's lumbering operations on the Basin, about 10 miles from Dead River settlement, in charge of Paul Lagrois, a young man of 25 years, who met with a terrible accident at about four o'clock Tuesday afternoon. He was attending to a snub rope that was wound about a tree and attached to a load of logs going down the mountain, when in some way his leg was caught and completely cut off below the knee, and terribly crushed above. The man in charge of the team did not know of the accident until, after driving a quarter of a mile, he saw the unfortunate man's leg attached to the rope which was dragging behind the team. As soon as possible the start was made with the injured man for North Anson, to connect with the train.
The stage was hit at New Portland, and connection made with the train leaving North Anson Monday morning.—Bangor

Fiscal Union of the Empire.
LONDON, March 18.—The movement in favor of the fiscal union of the empire is still one of the principal subjects of discussion among politicians and others interested in the colonies. Howard Vincent M. P., informed your correspondent this morning the united empire trade league is making rapid strides and is securing many adherents. In the course of conversation he said: "We have many supporters from the Dominion, including Sir John Macdonald, Sir Alexander Galt and many other prominent Canadians. Nearly four score of British members of parliament are pledged to help the movement. During the last few days, I have spoken at Sheffield, Leeds, Manchester, and other cities, and the response I met with was most hearty and unanimous. You may say we are making great headway."

MURILLO'S MULATTO.
A Boy Artist Who Found Out by Accident that He Had Talent.

The famous Spanish painter Murillo had a little mulatto boy named Sebastian, the son of Gomez, a negro slave. The little fellow was employed in the workshop in which the pupils of the master carried on their studies, and had to grind the colors, clean the palettes and wait on the youths, who often treated him with ridicule, but something occurred in the studio which soon engrossed all their attention.
One morning one of the students found part of his work completed which he had left unfinished the previous day: and the amazement of the young men increased when day after day they found additions, and sometimes corrections, made on their canvases. They accused each other of tampering with their work in their absence but this was strenuously denied, and matters reached a climax when one of them, who had commenced a picture of the Descent from the Cross, on going to his work in the morning, found the head of the Madonna painted in! How it got there they could not imagine, as it was better than they could have painted it; so they told the master of the mysterious circumstance, and showed him the head. He was surprised at its excellence, and thinking Sebastian must know about it, as he slept in the room every night, he told the boy that unless he found out the unknown artist by the following morning he should be severely whipped.

The poor little mulatto was in an agony of terror, for he himself was the mysterious painter. Having a natural genius and intense love for the art, he had all this time been secretly studying and practising painting on the canvases of the students before they came in the morning, and listening earnestly to the master whilst he was giving them instructions, and being but a slave and in dread of the scourge he thought that if he confessed it were he it would only subject him to still worse punishment for his presumption, so he resolved to expunge the Madonna's head any never paint any more.

But when he rose early in the morning to carry out his intention, and looked at the beautiful face, he had not the heart to rub it out, but set to work to finish it instead. And so absorbed was he as the time went by that it was only on hearing a rustle behind him that he turned his head and beheld the students, with the master himself, looking on in admiration.
The poor little slave fell on his knees, imploping pardon, but Murillo, kindly raising him up, asked him what reward he would give him for his skill and industry.
Sebastian only asked for his father's freedom, which Murillo at once granted, and giving him his own liberty also, received him among his pupils. He soon distinguished himself and became a celebrated painter, but he was better known as Murillo's Mulatto than by his proper name of Sebastian Gomez. He died in 1690, having survived his master but a few years. His principal works may be seen in Seville.

Mr. LeBlanc resigned his seat in the House of Assembly, and accepted a nomination for the House of Commons, but Mr. Blair, though he has told the House that Mr. LeBlanc expressed sorrow in resigning from the Executive Council, that he had thrown up his seat to run for the Commons, contrary to Mr. Blair's advice, professes to be profoundly ignorant of the fact that there is a vacancy for Kent!
It is the most astounding feat of official blindness to patent facts that ever was performed at Fredericton. The vacancy will not, of course, be observed by Mr.
Blair until too late to have it filled during this session. Then he can let it stay open all summer, as he did the Westmorland vacancies, and have an election just when it may suit him to have it. He will scruple at nothing to make a point—World.

Where Did Columbus Land?
What part of the New World did Columbus first set foot upon? has long been a much disputed question, and added importance now attaches to the subject from the fact that Castelar and other Spanish notables are proposing to make a combined voyage of vessels from the Old World to the New in September and October 1892, as a feature of the honors to be paid to Columbus. Gov. Blake, while Governor of the Bahamas a few years ago, made several cruises among the islands of which he had official charge, for the express purpose of studying this question With the log book of Columbus to guide him, he followed the explorer's course as nearly as possible. A draughtsman sketched the outlines of the various shores, and the governor's wife made water color drawings of the scenery. He also studied the dangerous currents against which the early explorers had also to contend. By a process of elimination, one after another of the islands was rejected, as failing to fully satisfy the description given by Columbus, while Watling's Island wholly agreed with it. It had a lake in the center, the reef encircling it except at the capacious harbor with its narrow entrance and the bluff hard by. Such an independent study, together with the conclusions of the geographers, who had not themselves seen it, entitles Watling's Island to be definitely considered as the spot seen when the joyful cry "Land!" was raised, and indeed it has been officially named San Salvador, though many authors have heretofore called Cat Island San Salvador.

The Philadelphia Times estimates that owing to republican losses in the senate the parties will now stand forty-six republican to forty-two democrats, giving the republicans four majority, but on the tariff issue, three of the old republican senators, who are in the new congress, voted against the McKinley bill. These, added to the forty-two democrats and low tariff independents, all of whom are pronounced against the McKinley bill, would make forty-five anti-McKinley tariff senators to forty-three McKinley republicans. Under these circumstances it would not be surprising if the most offensive features of the McKinley tariff were repealed at an early day.
