Massacre on the Eastern Frontier of Burmah.

CALCUTTA, March 30.—A despatch from Manipur, province of Assam, brings news of a disaster to a force of active troops there. John W. Quinton, the chief commissioner of Assam, has recently been investigating some serious troubles which occurred among the native chiefs. As a result the chief commissioner was holding a conference with the notables of Assam with a view of arresting one of the prominent chiefs who had been instrumental in deposing the rajah. The chief commissioner, while pursuing his enquiries into the disputes between the chiefs, occupied a camp which was garrisoned by a strong force of Goorkhas (native infantry in the British service). Suddenly this camp was attacked by a number of hostile tribes led by their chiefs. A two days' battle, during which some desperate fighting took place, followed by the onslaught of the tribesmen. The Goorkhas fought most determinedly against heavy odds, and according to the report, 470 of the Goorkhas were killed. Seven of the British officers who accompanied the chief commissioner and that official himself are reported to be missing.

The news of the massacre was brought to Kohima, on the Assam frontier, by two Goorkhas who arrived there yesterday. The massacre originated in a feud between the rajah of Manipur and a leading tribal chief. The rajah was deposed and he appealed to the viceroy. Mr. Quinton was sent to settle the trouble and started from headquarters at Shillong escorted by the 42nd and 44 Goorkhas light infantry. After crossing the frontier Quinton summoned the chiefs to a durbar at Manipur for the purpose of arresting the rebellious chief. The tribesmen pretended to obey the summons, mustered in force, and at midnight on the day before that on which durbar was to be held suddenly attacked the camp of Commissioner Quinton, which lay between Kohima and Manipur.

The attempt to surprise the camp failed and the tribesmen were driven back. They returned, however, and kept up the attack and siege for 48 hours. Finally the ammunition of the Goorkhas gave out and Quinton was obliged to give the order "Save themselves who can." During the fight scouts were sent out to try to communicate with Shillong, but they never returned. The Manipur natives cut the telegraph wires and killed the messengers. Fugitives report that a general massacre followed the taking of the camp. There is reason for believing that the estimate that there were 470 killed is incorrect. One account of the affair reports that Commissioner Quinton and his staff were made prisoners.

Another account says Col. Skene, the commander; Commissioner Quinton; with his son and daughter; Captain Boileau and six officers were killed, the natives refusing to give them quarter. The rebellious tribes are famous for cunning, cruelty, and bravery. Immediately on receiving news of the disaster the Viceroy at Simla summoned a council. Two native regiments stationed at Assam have already been despatched to Manipur. The Third Bengal Infantry will start for the scene to-morrow.

Bathurst Notes.

It seems quite a long time since Bathurst was represented in the columns of THE REVIEW and remorse for my remissness as a correspondent is beginning to "naw at my conshuns" very uncomfortably, so here I am again.

The present indications are that we shall have a comparatively early spring this year. The month of March was mild and fine and a good quantity of snow has succumbed to the genial influence of the sun. There appears to be an unlimited supply of "the beautiful" still in the aerial storehouses, if one may judge by the generous amount of snow that fell here during the past week.

The "Ever Onward" Division, S. of T., gave a very successful (financially and otherwise) and interesting entertainment in the Masonic Hall on Thursday evening. First on the programme was a chorus, "Hurrah for temperance," by the Cadets and the little folks acquitted themselves very creditably. The chorus was followed by a quartette "We've all got a cold." It was sung very sweetly and prettily by Miss Ella Ramsay and Bella Lusk and Messrs Alex. Stout and Bob Ramsay. Then came a reading by Mr. Gus Stout and the perfect silence in the hall while it lasted gave ample proof of the appreciation of the large audience. The drama "Little brown jug" with the following cast of characters:

John Nutter.....Gavin Leprik
Jarvis Jordan.....Gus Stout
Will Nutter.....James M. McGinley
Henry Douglas.....Edwin Carter
Ned Hartshorn.....J. Gammon
Mary Nutter.....Miss Ella Ramsay
Mrs. Nutter.....Miss Hodgins
Sally Peeslee.....Miss Belle Lusk
All the parts were well taken, those of Jarvis Jordan, John Jordan and Will Nutter particularly so. Messrs. Carter and Gammon were natural and easy, but their parts were spoken hardly loud enough. Miss Hodgins made a very creditable old lady. Miss Ramsay took the character assigned her very gracefully, but Miss Lusk was the favorite. Her sweet face and winning manner and the entire absence of "staginess" about her gained her the complete approval of the house. This was her first appearance before the footlights, as it was also that of Messrs. Ramsay and McGinley. The affair was under the management of Mr. W. F. Draper, who has every reason to feel proud of the success attending it. I hope the Division, now that they have given us a sample of their talents in the histrionic line, will favor us with many another entertainment.

I see Messrs. Wilbur, Stewart and White have returned from Fredericton.

The census enumerators from the lower end of the county were in town last week receiving instructions from the commissioner, Mr. J. J. Harrington.

Rev. G. D. Peters has resigned his position as rector of St. George's Episcopal church, and will leave early in May for the United States. Mr. Peters has been with us a long time and we shall be sorry to see him leave.

I hear whisperings of the probability of two weddings in the by no means distant future. I trust they will "come off," for it's so long since there's been a marriage here, we have nearly forgotten what the ceremony is like.

There is to be a calico ball, the young ladies tell me, and I am getting posted in the matter of costumes so as to give the readers of THE REVIEW a detailed description of the dresses worn, for it seems to me the Bathurst ladies always dress neatly and many of them with perfect taste. I hope I won't lose my way in the labyrinth of modiste's technicalities, for then the dear girls would surely wither with their scorn.

PAUL VASHER.

Chatham.

April 6, 1891.—There is still good travelling on the river in the mornings and these continued frosty nights are a boon to our people who live in the country and have any hauling to do, and they are not slow to take advantage of it.

The Salvation Army has changed officers. Capt. McLean and Lieut. Jefferson farewelled on Sunday, 29th ult., the new captain arriving here on Saturday last.

Special services in St. Luke's all last week were well attended, and the interest seems to deepen as the meetings continue. Of course there are those who cavil and criticize any special religious effort, but the writer takes that as an evidence that the effort is in the right direction, and regrets that Mr. Marshall has discontinued the meetings.

We regret to learn of the serious illness of Geo. Whittaker, Esq., with slight hope of his recovery.

Quite a large number of our young men who left for Uncle Sam's domain last fall are returning.

And now the small boy "goes-a-fishin'" and they are after the silvery smelt with hook and line. One boy caught eight dozen to-day.

J. Harris Pallen, in Mr. Snowball's store, has been promoted to the dry goods department. Eddie Ruddock taking his place as junior in the back store.

Mr. E. A. Strang's new store is now running full blast. It is lighted with electric light and presents a beautiful appearance, particularly at night.
