PREMIER'S APPEAL TO DOMINION ELECTORS.

Sir John A. Macdonald has published an appeal to the Dominion electors. It is a stirring document. It shows why Parliament has been dissolved, and clearly defines the issues on which Government solicits the decision of the Canadian people.

The address refers to the failure of the numerous pessimistic predictions of the Government's opponents as to the operation of its policy on various points—namely the national and transcontinental railway policy; and it closes with an impassioned appeal to the loyalty of the electors.

We take the following from Sir John's address:

"For a century and a half this country has grown and flourished under the protectingegis of the British Crown. The gallant race who first bore to our shores the blessings of civilization passed by an easy transition from French to English rule, and now form one of the most law abiding portions of the community. These pioneers were speedily recruited by the advent of a loyal band of British subjects, who gave up everything that men most prize, and were content to begin life anew in the wilderness rather than forego allegiance to their sovereign. To the descendants of these men and of the multitude of Englishmen, Irishmen and Scotchmen, who emigrated to Canada, that they might build up new homes without ceasing to be British subjects, to you, Canadians I appeal, and I ask you what have you to gain by surrendering that which your fathers held most dear? Under the broad folds of the Union Jack we enjoy the most ample liberty to govern ourselves as we please, and at the same time, we participate in the advantages which flow from association with the mightiest empire the world has ever seen."

The question which you shall shortly be called upon to determine resolves itself into this: Shall we endanger our possession of the heritage bequeathed to us by our fathers, and submit ourselves to direct taxation for the privilege of having our tariff fixed at Washington, with a prospect of ultimately becoming a portion of the American Union?

I commend these issues to your determination, and to the judgment of the whole people of Canada, with an unclouded confidence that you will proclaim to the world your resolve to show yourselves not unworthy of the proud distinction you enjoy—of being numbered among the most dutiful and loyal subjects of our beloved Queen.

Speaking in the first person, Sir John says:

"As for myself—my course is clear. A British subject I was born—a British subject I will die. With my utmost effort, with my latest breath, will I oppose the 'veiled treason' which attempts by sordid means and mercenary proffers to lure our people from our allegiance. During my long public service of nearly half a century, I have been true to my country and its best interests, and I appeal with equal confidence to the men who have trusted me in the past, and to the young hope of the country, with whom rest its destinies, for the future, to give me their united and strenuous aid in this my last effort for the unity of the empire and the preservation of our commercial and political freedom."

The indications are that the appeal will be responded to in a striking manner.

THE COMING FOUR.

We are told that Sir Charles Tupper, Sir John Thompson, and Hons. G. E. Foster and C. H. Tupper are on their way from Ottawa to the Maritime Provinces, if they have not already arrived in them. They are all Maritime Province boys, if we may so speak. They are a notable four. Sir Charles is a magnificent political stumpster, and has made his mark broad and high on Dominion history. Sir John Thompson has won high rank as a lawyer and an advocate, and is a most able political speaker. Mr. Foster has been steadily rising and now stands in the first rank of the Dominion's public men; and Mr. C.

H. Tupper is giving proof that he is a solid chip of the old block. All these men will be heard presently in the heart and heat of great political struggle just commencing. No doubt their efforts will tell on the result.

THE CONTEST IN WESTMORLAND.

The great Dominion fight about to open is throwing into shade the minor struggle presently to close in Westmorland. Yet the combat in that fine county is being fiercely fought out. The triumph of Messrs. Stevens and Powell on Saturday next seems a foregone conclusion. The bold declaration in their favor at Dorchester on nomination day by Mr. Melanson, M.P.P., makes assurance of their success doubly sure. As Mr. Melanson goes so will go a large portion of the Acadian voters. Nevertheless a strong bold fight is being made on the side of Messrs. Killam and McQueen. In the course of the contest the latter has won much respect for himself, and will be heard from again by and by.

THE TRANSCONTINENTAL RAILWAY.

Sir John A. Macdonald refers in high exultation to the Canada Pacific railway as justifying the past policy of his government on a most important issue. He could afford to indulge even boastfully on that matter. Never before, perhaps, did the government win such a signal triumph on a greatly disputed matter as that of Sir John's on the Pacific railway question. The plainest statement of facts in that case has in it a magic hard to be equalled by the efforts of the most brilliant imagination. The achievement was one that would do credit to the most powerful government in the world. It was a matter on which the ablest men might and did conscientiously differ; and dismal, indeed, were the forebodings concerning it of disbelievers in its success. The study of those forebodings now is highly provocative of good tempered laughter.

THREATENING OMENS.

Desertions from the Reform party standard seem of daily occurrence. It is reported that Mr. Blake even has withdrawn. This may not be true, but his silence on the issue raised by his old friends seems otherwise unaccountable. The names of quite a number of men heretofore prominent in the contests of the party but now said to have left it are given. The report may exaggerate the facts but no doubt it contains much truth. This seems ominous for the unrestricted reciprocity men.

Horses Crave Salt.

Do not stint your horse in the use of salt, says an exchange. Horses, as a rule don't get enough salt. Throw it into the end of his feed box, and let him help himself. It is a great thing for the promotion of health. Horses crave salt, but thousands never get it on account of their master's ignorance or carelessness. They will lick whitewashed walls for the sake of the little salt in the lime, and one pities them for being denied so cheap a luxury. Those things which a horse considers luxurious are simple, and are all good for him, which is more than men can say of theirs. A horse is simple in his tastes; he dearly loves a lump of sugar, a sweet apple or a carrot, and the honest, faithful fellow, will be heartily grateful to the kind master who gives them to him. It is well worth while to win the gratitude and affection of your horse, if only for selfish considerations. Occasionally vary the monotony of his feed by steamed meal, say twice a week. Put his oats and some cracked corn or meal into a stable pail at noon with a little salt; pour in boiling water, as much as the grain will take up; cover with a folded blanket and let it stand till evening, when it is cold; then give it to him and see how he will enjoy it.

Strange Freak of the Wind.

The Lewiston Journal relates a singular effect produced on a church spire by the winds. One of the tempests this winter took the finial off the Court Street Baptist church spire in Auburn and with rough hands bent it over due south. There it was left, an awkward sight, giving the church a sort of tipsy appearance, suggesting that it had been on a spree, and that its finial was cocked over its left ear. The church decided it was unbecoming. It would cost a hundred dollars or more to build a staging to reach it and repair it. "Steeple-climbing Charlie" couldn't do it for any less. It was decided to have it fixed. The weeks passed and the wind shifted. The south wind saw the sight regretted that so becoming an ornament should go out of shape. It evidently decided upon immediate repairs and it puffed its cheeks and gave a mighty blow, so quietly and so to the exact limit that it blew the finial back to its direct perpendicular, and lo! in the morning and the evening of the same day the finial was as straight as a school master. There it stands now. People crane their necks to look at it and they say—"A miracle."

For the restoration of gray and faded hair to its original color and freshness, Ayer's Hair Vigor remains unrivalled. This is the most popular and valuable toilet preparation in the world; all who use it are perfectly satisfied that it is the best.—Adv't.

Sir Charles Arrives.

Sir Charles Tupper, high commissioner of Canada, and Sir Donald Smith, arrived at New York Thursday on the steamer Teutonic. In an interview Sir Charles said in reference to the despatches in morning papers from Ottawa regarding the proposal of the Dominion Government to the United States for a reciprocity treaty, that the article was accurate. In his own opinion he approved of such a treaty, far more applicable every way, better suited to the requirements of the United States and Canada than any previous treaty of a like nature. There is nothing asked by Canada that does not find its equivalent in benefit by the United States. Neither the United States nor Canada lose in dignity by the new proposals. The mother country will do all she can to advance these mutual interests.

Chief Justice Daly of the Court of Common Pleas, New York city, summoned to appear before him the other day a large number of men who failed to respond for jury duty when drawn. He fined 14 who failed to appear and explain $110 each, and excepted the excuses of 50.

The British authorities have been advised of renewed activity in the ranks of the dynamite party in America, who are said to be actively preparing to resume operations.

No greater triumph in medicine or chemistry has been recorded than Hall's Hair Renewer to revivify and restore gray hair to the color of youth.

CARD.

GENTLEMEN,— Electors of the County of Kent.

Once more you are called upon to return to the House of Commons a member to represent you.

At the urgent request of many friends who desire to place me in nomination for that important position and trust I will be a candidate.

Knowing my general political principles as you do, renders it superfluous for me to set them forth at length at this time.

Prominent among the questions involved in this election is RECIPROCITY in trade with our immediate neighbors the people of the United States of America.

I am an avowed and ardent advocate of such a policy and I especially condemn taxing the people's bread and other necessities of life.

I appeal to all patriotic men to support me in the coming contest which is close at hand, and if elected as your representative it will be my constant aim to promote your immediate political welfare, and the general prosperity of the Dominion of Canada.

Your obedient servant, CHARLES J. SAYRE.
