THE WESTMORLAND ELECTION.

The polling in Westmorland on Saturday last resulted in the election of Messrs. McQueen and Powell. Great numbers were surprised at this result. The prospect of success for both Mr. Stevens and Mr. Powell down to a few days before polling day was deemed good. But Mr. McQueen headed the poll by a small majority of less than a score, and Mr. Stevens stood at its foot. This arrangement of names was partly due to the facts that Mr. McQueen entered the contest with a clear record, has popular manners and a pleasing address, while Mr. Stevens was not in a condition of health to prosecute his canvass vigorously. Besides the Blair Government exerted itself desperately to ensure the triumph of its candidates, and its pledges of help to a much desired railway project, secured, at the last moment, many votes in the districts thought to be sure for Messrs. Powell and Stevens. The fight was a general one, nearly eight thousand votes having been polled altogether. All the candidates polled a large vote.

A RICKETY PLATFORM.

The Reform Convention which met in St. John a few days ago for the nomination of candidates, began its work by the adoption of a platform which was a queer production. For example, in it the meeting pledged itself to sustain in the coming contest the principles of Alexander MacKenzie and Edward Blake. Now, one of the principles avowed by these gentlemen in respect to the current campaign is, "No discrimination against the mother country." Mr. Blake, a day or two ago, refused to be nominated as a Reform candidate on the unrestricted reciprocity issue.

Again, the platform declared it to be one of the objects of the party to maintain cordial relations between the republic and the mother country. The way in which the party would aim at the maintenance is to fling in the teeth of the mother country the wanton insult of a discrimination against its commercial interests. The platform pleads that no reciprocity measure discriminating against Britain could be adopted without the consent of its government; but leading advocates of such a measure assert boldly that the withholding of such consent would lead to the revolt of Canada. The platform, while coming out flatfooted in behalf of such a reciprocity measure as all its United States advocates exultingly declare would prove a short and sure cut to annexation, deprecates any line of action that would lead to a severance of the Dominion from the mother country.

Altogether, it seems certain either that the platform builders were in a highly befogged mental condition when they raised this structure, or that they were sadly wanting in the courage of their convictions.

MOST SURELY TO BE BELIEVED.

Maritime Province advocates of the unrestricted reciprocity scheme, instead of speaking out boldly and clearly on their project, have been backing and filling, squirming and dodging, doing anything but meeting the point squarely on the grand issue of the campaign. But it matters little now what they may do or say in the premises. The main conclusions involved in the scheme are inevitably forcing belief. It is undeniable that the scheme means uniformity of tariff between Canada and the United States, and against all the world outside, especially against the mother country; that it means the handing over of Canada's trade and fiscal interests to the tender mercies of Washington politicians; that it means the imposition of a direct tax amounting to many millions of dollars on the Canadian people, to supply the loss to the Canadian revenue that must be caused by the double-edged operations of this reciprocity scheme; and that it means and by its originators and chief promoters is acknowledged to mean, the disruption of the Empire by the absorption of Canada into the United States. These things are involved in the issue raised. It is not honest to pretend otherwise. They should be dealt with frankly as truths that command belief.

A NON-PARTY CONTEST.

The present Dominion contest is not a mere party one. The issue raised involves the future of the country, and all its most important interests. The conflict should be entered in the most patriotic spirit. Mere party names should be held lightly. Dead issues should be left undisturbed. Old fights should not be fought over again. The matters in debate should be dealt with on their merits solely. It is apparent that large numbers of men formerly in sympathy with the Reform party have left its ranks in this struggle. If the question to be decided be treated on its merits alone, the majority against the insidious proposal made will be overwhelmingly large.

The opinion expressed by Archbishop O'Brien, of Halifax, on the political day of the day, "unrestricted reciprocity," will be concurred in by all patriotic men, whether Tory or Grit. Rather let us have independence, imperial federation or utter annihilation than that we hand over the management of our revenues to the United States and allow Washington politicians to say how we shall raise money to pay our bills. THE REVIEW may or may not be independent but while in its present hands it will ever be found outspoken enough to raise its voice against any such scheme. The learned prelate says: "The interest of the country and the fond, proud love of his country find a place in the heart and engage the attention of every true patriot. Were he a traitor to his country and to his social interests, he would be unfit to minister at God's altar. Hence should a candidate for Parliament advocate, say unrestricted reciprocity, and should a prelate conscientiously believe that to be the first step toward annexation—should he have good reason to believe that its promoters had that result in view, viz., to destroy our fair Canadian nationality, and to make this country the battling ground of carpet baggers and traitors—should not he advise, exhort, entreat, urge, command his people, who naturally could not see as far as he, to vote against such a candidate?" No wonder the old Liberal standard bearers are deserting their party on this question. A list of the articles proposed to have free trade in by the Dominion Government will be found on our first page under the caption "Reciprocity," and include products of the farm, mine and forest.

Our provisions in regard to the course about to be pursued by Sir Charles Tupper are turning out true to the letter.

Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien, fugitives from justice in Ireland, have surrendered themselves to police authority in England. Balfour will probably feel puzzled as to what to do with them. The remission of their sentences would be on some points objectionable. The sending them to prison to work out their sentences, would possibly do more harm than good.

The Whitechapel Murder.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—There is little doubt in the minds of the police that the murder of the unfortunate woman in Whitechapel yesterday morning was done by the hand of the same monster who perpetrated the previous ghastly crimes.

When the policeman found the victim under the railway arch her eyes were still opening and closing, and her hands convulsively twitching in her death throes. The officer who found the body must have been almost within 100 feet of the scene of the crime, and yet he heard not a sound of escaping footfall, or the slightest noise of a struggle.

This lends interest to Dr. Lawson Tait's theory that the murderer is of the same sex as the several victims. Said Dr. Tait: "Nothing is more likely than that Jack the Ripper is some big, strong woman, engaged at the slaughter house in cleaning up, and now and then in actually cutting up meat. The fact that the police were so close upon the criminal goes to prove to a wonderful degree that the operator is a woman. The police promptly made a circuit round the neighborhood, but they did not look for a woman. It must be clearly understood that whoever was the criminal would be thoroughly splashed with blood. It would be impossible to hack and hew a warm body in the 'Ripper' fashion without getting all over blood. A man who thus besmeared himself could not possibly have got clear away time after time. The thing would be perfectly easy for a woman. Conceive the murder done, and the woman is all splashed. All she has to do is to roll up her skirt to the waist, leaving her petticoat, and fold up the shawl that is over her shoulders and tucked it in at her middle. Then she might pass through the crowd with the very slightest risk of detection."

Since Christmas week in 1887 eight women have been murdered in the East End of London under mysterious circumstances. The following are the dates of the crimes and the names of the victims so far known. 1. Christmas week, 1887.—An unknown woman found murdered near Osborne and Wentworth streets, Whitechapel. 2. August 7, 1888.—Martha Turner found stabbed in thirty-nine places on a landing in model dwellings known as George Yard Buildings, Commercial street Spitalfields. 3. August 31.—Mrs. Nichols, murdered and mutilated in Buck's row, Whitechapel. 4. September 7.—Mrs. Chapman, murdered and mutilated in Hanbury street, Whitechapel. 5. September 30.—Elizabeth Stride, found with her throat cut in Bernier street Whitechapel.

6. September 30.—Mrs. Eddowes, murdered and mutilated in Mitre square, Aldgate.

7. November 9.—Mary Jane Kelly murdered and mutilated in Dorset street, Spitalfields.

8. July 17, 1889.—Woman murdered in Castle alley, Whitechapel.

CARD.

GENTLEMEN,—Election of the County of Kent.

Once more you are called upon to return to the House of Commons a member to represent you.

At the urgent request of many friends who desire to place me in nomination for that important position and trust I will be a candidate.

Knowing my general political principles as you do, renders it superfluous for me to set them forth at length at this time.

Prominent among the questions involved in this election is RECIPROcity in trade with our immediate neighbors the people of the United States of America.

I am an avowed and ardent advocate of such a policy and I especially condemn taxing the people's bread and other necessities of life.

I appeal to all patriotic men to support me in the coming contest which is close at hand, and if elected as your representative it will be my constant aim to promote your immediate political welfare, and the general prosperity of the Dominion of Canada.

Your obedient servant, CHARLES J. SAYRE.
