"Not As I Will."
 Blindfolded and alone I stand,
 With unknown thresholds on each hand;
 The darkness deepens as I grope.
 Afraid to fear, afraid to hope;
 Yet this one thing I learn to know
 Each day more surely as I go.
 That doors are opened, ways are made,
 Burdens are lifted or are laid,
 By some great law unseen and still,
 Unfathomed purposes to fulfil,
 "Not as I will."

Blindfolded and alone I wait,
 Loss seems too bitter, gain too late:
 Too heavy burdens in the load,
 And too few helpers on the road;
 And joy is weak and grief is strong,
 And years and days so long, so long;
 Yet this one thing I learn to know
 Each day more surely as I go,
 That I am glad the good and ill
 By changing law are ordered still,
 "Not as I will."

"Not as I will," the sound grows sweet
 Each time my lips the words repeat,
 "Not as I will," the darkness feels
 More safe than light where this thought steals
 Like whispered voice to calm and bless
 All unrest and all loneliness.
 "Not as I will," because the One
 Who loved me first and best has gone
 Before us on the road, and still
 For us must all His love fulfil.
 "Not as we will!"
 —Helen Hunt.

Receipts.
CARROT SOUP.—Four quarts of liquor in which a leg of mutton or beef has been boiled, a few beef-bones, six large carrots, two large onions, one turnip; seasoning of salt and pepper to taste—cayenne. Put the liquor, bones, onions, turnip, pepper, and salt, into a stewpan, and simmer for three hours. Scrape and cut the carrots thin, strain the soup on them, and stew them till soft enough to pulp through a hare sieve or coarse cloth; then boil the pulp with the soap, which should be of the consistency of pea-soup. Add cayenne. Pulp only the red part of the carrot, and make this soup the day before it is wanted.

APPLE EGGS.—Pare and core a convenient number of apples, leaving them whole; fill with sugar and pour over water; then place in an oven; when nicely baked, take eggs prepared as for an omelet, pour in and over the apples, and return to the oven for about ten minutes; grate over them nutmeg, and serve hot.

FRENCH RECIPE FOR BOILING A HAM.—After having soaked, thoroughly cleaned, and trimmed the ham, put over it a little very sweet clean hay, and tie it up in a thin cloth; place it in a ham kettle, a braising pan, or any other vessel as nearly of its size as can be, and cover it with two parts of cold water, and one of light white wine (we think the reader will perhaps find cider a good substitute for this); add, when it boils and has been skimmed, four or five carrots, two or three onions, a large bunch of savoury herbs, and the smallest bit of garlic. Let the whole simmer gently from four to five hours, or longer should the ham be very large. When perfectly tender, lift it out, take off the rind, and sprinkle over it some fine crumbs, or some raspings of bread mixed with a little finely-minced parsley.

BREAD-AND-BUTTER PUDDING.—Butter your dish well, and strew the bottom with currants and candied peel; then place alternate layers of bread-and-butter in rather thin slices, and the peel and currants, until the dish is nearly full, observing to have currants at the top; then pour over slowly and equally, a custard of sweetened milk and two or three eggs, flavoured to taste, and bake in a moderate oven for about twenty minutes.

A GOOD PLAIN FAMILY PUDDING.—1 lb flour, or flour and bread-crumbs mixed, 1/2 lb of suet, 1/2 lb plums, 1/2 lb currants, 1/2 lb brown sugar, a little salt and spice, a teacup of milk. Mix as stiff as possible, and boil from six to eight hours.

A NEW DRINK to supply the place of gruel or barley water is recommended by the Times of India—"congee water," or the liquor in which rice has been boiled. This drink has three excellent qualities—it becomes impregnated with the properties of the rice boiled in it, and thus satisfies hunger; it quenches thirst, and is a capital draught in fever attacks; and lastly, when taken in bed, is good for bad colds and influenza.

In washing oilcloths, never use any soap or a scrub-brush. It will destroy in a short time an oil-cloth that should last for years. Use instead warm water and a soft cloth or flannel, and wipe off with water and skim-milk.

CHEESE STRAWS.—Take a 1/2 lb flour, 2 oz butter broken into the flour, and rubbed till quite smooth, 2 oz good cheese grated on a bread grater, the yolks of two eggs, and the white of one, season with a little salt; mix all together, roll out to the thickness of rather less than a quarter of an inch, place on a well buttered tin, and cut in very narrow strips, with a paste cutter, about four inches long. Bake in a moderate oven for five minutes. Place them on a dish, lay two one way and two over them, as you see the timbers piled to dry, and you get a very pretty dish, and a very nice one for persons who dislike sweets.

The third £1,000,000 in gold of the £3,000,000 borrowed in bullion from the bank of France during the recent Baring-Argentine financial crisis has been returned to the last named institution. The gold was returned as received, there having been no necessity to open the boxes.

Wonderful Escape.
 Saturday afternoon as the Michigan Central express was nearing Tamworth the engineer saw three men walking on the track toward the engine. As the train drew near two of the men stepped off to one side of the track, but the third was slow in getting off, and was struck by the engine and hurled through the air to the fence. The engineer applied the air brake and stopped the train as quickly as possible and backed to where the accident occurred. When the train reached the spot the man who was struck by the engine was standing with his two companions placidly winding a handkerchief over his left hand, and remarked when the engineer asked if he was hurt: "It never touched me." The man, who gave his name as George Wright, a moulder belonging to Hamilton, was under the influence of liquor. He was placed on board the train and taken to St. Thomas, where Dr. Smith attended to him. His only injury consists of two broken fingers. How Wright escaped death is a mystery, as the train was running at the rate of a mile a minute when it struck him.

A Ship Pierced by a Billfish.
 During the long cruise of the whaling barque "Triton" this year Capt. Gifford has been puzzled by a small but persistent leak that commenced near Honolulu in the spring and continued until the craft was docked at the Union iron works. Then the managing owner, William Wing, discovered the cause and obtained an interesting relic of the fury and force of things in the sea which the ordinary landsman wots not of. Well down toward the keel on the starboard side Capt. Wing found a hole in the ship's copper. The copper was ripped off and the hole followed through the three-quarter inch pine sheathing. The underlying three-inch white oak plank was found to be split as though with a wedge, and imbedded in it and to a depth of an inch and a half in the frame timber was the slender, bony snout of a billfish. The piece of snout was about five inches long and increased from half an inch in diameter at the top to an inch at the point of fracture. Near by was found the tip of another snout, imbedded about an inch and a half in the oak planking. This oak is about as hard as lignum vitae, and the force exerted by the fish to penetrate it as far as it did is incalculable.

Humbly Competitions.
 The publishers of the Dominion Illustrated, in order to set all doubt as to the value of the prizes, aggregating over $3,000 in value, which will be distributed in a prize competition among subscribers to that journal during the next six months, announce that any prize winner who is dissatisfied can exchange the prize for the cash value named in the list. The smallest prize is valued at $5. There are 100 prizes in all and the first one is $750 in gold. The others include a Heintzman piano, Bell, Karn and Cornwall organs, gold watches and other valuable articles. The competition consists in finding in numbers of the journal the answers to thirty-six questions, six of which are published each month. This in itself is a literary exercise of great benefit to subscribers, since the Dominion Illustrated is in every sense a high class journal, lately enlarged and greatly improved. On receipt of twelve cents in stamps the publishers, (the Sabiston Litho, and Pub. Co., Montreal) will send to any address a sample copy containing full particulars.

Cashier Apes.
 The Siamese ape is stated to be in great request among Siamese merchants as a cashier in their counting-houses. Vast quantities of base coin obtain circulation in Siam, and the faculty of discrimination between good money and bad would appear to be possessed by these gifted monkeys in such an extraordinary degree of development that no mere human being, however carefully trained, can compete with them. The cashier ape meditatively puts into his mouth each coin presented to him in business payments, and tests it with grave deliberation. If it be genuine, he hands it over to his master. If it be a counterfeit, he sets it down on the counter before him with a solemn grimace of displeasure. His method of testing is regarded in commercial circles as infallible; and, as a matter of fact, his decision is uniformly accepted by all parties interested in the transaction.

Is the Sea Warmer After a Storm?
 Is there any truth in the sailors' tradition that the sea is warmer after a storm? Plutarch remarked that the sea became warmer by being agitated in waves, and there is no doubt that when water is sufficiently agitated their action is converted into heat. Professor Tyndall says the sailors' tradition is "theoretically correct" as the mechanical dash of the billows of the sea is ultimately converted into heat. He uses the term "theoretically correct" because he says that it would require far more care and instrumental delicacy than appear to have been invoked up to the present time to prove that the observed differences of temperature were solely due to mechanical action. —Montreal Star.
